ALBERT SMITH IRISH INDEPENDENT JOURNALIST AND DAVID IRWING

David Irwing has appeared for some time as journalist who is rightly condemned as a neo fascist and holocaust denier. This sick individual has his own private admirers as a pro nazi slanted kraut. This discredited nazi apologist who's works praise hitler amongst other is a complete disgrace to the human race.

Albert Smith Irish Independent journalist can be found upon some of his personal web sites, a group of us have investigated and researched both these men and can confirm that we are at present requesting the Irish Independent to comment upon information known to organisations such as WIKI LEAKS that Albert Smith amongst other main stream journalists have been contributing to research and promotion.

Albert Smith is British and apparently hides abroad.

 kronstadtjournal Participant	The IPCC is a British organisation, got a problem with the cops you make a complaint to them, in Ireland it's GSOC. The Irish God Bless their souls live under an "order" want the evidence? It's in the can...they don't speak their own language. The New World order had big chief Bush and when he died not so long ago he died listening to Irish music and of course Jack paid the ultimate price for his sins. This write up ain't gonna contain dates and names it's for the ordinary mad hats and dudes out there, The UN and the CIA had their orders two, they used Pentagon money in the Irish system backed by some amazingly bad men that own banks and started a mass exodus...no no not black mass. The Boston tea party was overseen by a real cool dude that kills, you know the one OBI carnobeeewambam the fly guy who flew his ship all over da're base. Why every one was watching the kids firework display the ship had been captured. The Irish system began filling with Pentagon green, the social welfare system became the poor man's tiger. So as old Eire began decaying the carve up began, One of the biggest security risk in world politrix in Ireland was GSOC in the eyes of people like Clinton and MFI over queer it looked like an unmanned nuclear reactor with everyone from former IRA members and PLO heads going in and out with wheel barrows, Tesco bags, Owdhalls the lot and coming out with pure uranium, forget Iran this was the Taj to end all. Basically it had to be shut down one man shall be named an MI6 agent Simon O'Brien, GSOC was run by O'Brien he was the chairman, now get your thinking caps on how did a British police officer become the ed of Irish police investigations against the Irish police? Clinton used his bezzzy mate Dennis O Brown the richest and most powerfully man in Ireland to promote Simon O'Brien, the proof simple enter LBC!!!! ask LBC if they were interviewing a police officer undercover live on air would they blow his cover? Then ask yourself this when Simon O'Brien went live on air to be asked about security issues...why the Irish radio station owned by Clinton's buddy Dennis O'Brien didn't ask him on air about being an under cover cop when part of the show was about under cover Irish police officers working in GSOC. The Irish interviewers went crazy on the guy screaming at him to give Ireland an answer as to what undercover Irish police officers were doing in his office and yet forgot to ask him the same question... In order for Clinton and MFI to steal data from GSOC computers they needed a smoke screen. Verrimius security is a contractor for M I 5 and Simon O Briens office got them the contract to steal the data...however it was the IPCC who helped OBriens office get Verrimius the contract. So we've got a British police officer working in Ireland bringing in the security services now that's all bit to cozy....it goes even further, Verrimius have former British soldiers working for them who came from the same Regiment apparently that killed an innocent Brazilian in the British tube system that the IPCC themselves had to investigate. So why didn't LBC and the arrest of the British media expose all this? What happened was Dennis OBriens newspaper the Irish Independent exposed how data had been stolen from GSOC this caused the chief of police to resign, the minister of justice, and Simon O'Brien...a little later Ends Kenny and Gerry Adams went...who knows? Adams was connected with it the Irish press exposed that and Kenny, well if any one was he was. As for LBC.....

Paste Andrew Dedman MI5 at Yahoo or Google search engines for more info on this fascist creep, according to dark web sources he basically tampered with British Government computer systems and then exported the data to Ireland where far right wing "patsys" made good with the stolen and "faked" info to pay for their cars and houses.

Reliable net sources explain that Andrew Dedman was a former British Army officer who was assigned to work in the police for a time in specialist work but later on in his career left the police in mysterious circumstances, that till this day have never been truly explained. We know from wiki-obtained police data whilst in the British army Dedman worked in south America, and was allegedly involved in espionage work involving operations against South American communists, he was assigned the warrant number 1001 whilst in the police and the last known location for Dedman as a police officer was in an intelligence gathering unit in the City of London. International net sources found Dedman working in Turkey shortly after leaving the police by the Israel Intelligence service. Turkey as everybody knows is the gateway for heroin into Britain and Ireland. Below url is an introduction to Andrew Dedman, remove the wording from the site as jpgs add to your desktop and use magnifier application to read properly.

<https://mi5reference3028.wordpress.com/blog/>

Dublin solicitor and recognised political Author, Kieran Conway (featured above photo) was involved in a District court case in Bray town County, Wicklow, Ireland in we believe 2015, it was a political court case where right wing Journalist Albert Smith lied to convict a left wing socialist writer/net sign poster. The socialist was apparently held on British Intelligence files even before he came to Ireland to live, and had previous dealings with Dedman in the past in the UK. It is Dedman who is thought to have generated the files about the socialist that were leaked illegally to Irish sources but not officially given to the Gardaí.

During the court case in 2015 the Gardaí presented mere hearsay as evidence in the form of a speech read out in court by Albert Smith, where Smith himself attended a court hearing and talked about matters such as the CIA and threats made against him with weapons. Smith's speech convicted the socialist on weapons charges and the socialist was sent to prison. Albert Smith is a known and published far right wing fascist (his previous newspaper articles and promotional work as a sub-editor of the Irish Independent newspaper on convicted fascist and author David Irving proves this).

Articles of interest have in the past appeared on the net providing valuable evidence that explains the socialist stated in emails to an unnamed source at the time that Smith purposely lied in court by seemingly using a prepared and premeditated false speech, and that the judge accepted in court hearsay evidence contained within Smith's own concocted political lies. According to a blog spot web site on the dark web internet discussion came to the conclusion, that by accepting the mere word of Journalist Albert Smith a known far right wing liar in court without any actual witness or any evidence the judge falsely imprisoned the socialist not for an alleged weapons offence that the socialist stated he never committed anyway, but as the blog writers suggested for being found guilty by the far right of being a socialist that exposed a ring of spys operating in Ireland under orders of the British Government. This known espionage activity was exposed through socialist political write ups that the public otherwise would never have read about.

and was leaked out in the left wing British political press.

In short the socialist investigated what is now termed as "Gardagate" and in the process exposed a cover up by Albert Smith's newspaper the Irish Independent of Simon O'Brien being a former British police officer as chairman of GSOC and his alleged involvement of being part of an alleged MI6 sting operation to "grab" Irish state intelligence held by GSOC. Like Dedman the socialist has always maintained that it was possible the British Government transferred O'Brien to Ireland.

The court case is databased and more information can be found about Albert Smith as an alleged MI6 dogsboddy on the net type Albert Smith MI6 below site is evidence that the journalist worked as a sub editor on the Irish Independent see site below:

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/2006/feb/20/austria.thefarright>

<http://www.irishtimes.com/business/media-and-marketing/people-put-their-lives-on-the-line-for-the-indo-and-this-is-what-they-get-1.2891166>

Various internet allegations can be found that indicate that Albert Smith worked on Andrew Dedman's generated data bases over a period of many years and that some of the data based files (The Dedman Files) were allegedly transferred secretly by Dedman himself to amongst other the Store street Garda station (against human rights treaties) as these files were held secretly in Ireland by "black" cops.

One article indicates the area where Smith lives (Shop river County Wicklow) was data based by Dedman back in 2002 and that Dedman's own pirated and stolen supplied data (block data, many thousands of types of files passed between bent cops without authorisation) was used by the "patsys" in the Dublin/Wicklow area where Smith lives to help pay the bills. The Gardaí themselves were quite happy to allow the local "patsys" to spy on person suspected of travelling in and around the Dublin Mountains on their behalf and spy is the right usage of word hear, the "patsys" were rewarded for their loyalty in pieces of land, discounts, wavers etc obtaining state housing and buildings at cheap rates of purchase, false IDs, credit crunching etc etc.

Left wingers, taxexiles, criminals, suspected IRA members etc who have over the years either fled the UK to live in Ireland for political reasons or set themselves up in business in Ireland where all targeted and followed on behalf of the British and American Intelligence service by "patsys" and bent cops and criminals.

Both the socialist and Journalist Albert Smith were born in the U.K and so the chances of both these individuals who were technically British, being involved in an alleged false weapons incident together in a remote part of the Republic of Ireland on the top of a mountain isn't a very likely prospect, especially as the alleged incident happened on farmers private property were the socialist had permission to travel from the local farmers (not roads or footpaths).

The unnamed socialist always maintained he was never involved in any weapons incident or that he was even present in the area when such an alleged incident occurred. Apparently in other articles found online the socialist claimed he swore in affidavits in court stating he was not present at the alleged incident. It is therefore logical to presume that circumstantially from an espionage angle there is enough online evidence and information to explain an invented incident/counter espionage tactic was used to illegally convict and punish the socialist writer for producing evidence that exposed amongst other Simon O'Brien chairman of GSOC as a potential MI6 operative and a former British police officer in the left wing press, this apparent inventory of Albert Smith should by now be setting off political fire alarms amongst the international left wing.

The publications of the socialist are still found on the internet and these articles indicate very clearly that even before Smith's allegations were made through complaint process an article written by the Socialist exposed Simon O'Brien the chairman of GSOC in the British left wing press as a former British police officer, whilst on the other hand Smith's newspaper at the same time the socialist articles were published on Simon O'Brien being a former police officer, ran a cover up and didn't publish or indicate Simon O'Brien was a former British police officer.

The Irish Independent news paper that Albert Smith worked for didn't print this evidence until much later on after Simon O'Brien resigned from his job after different allegations were put to Simon O'Brien.

So ask yourselves as the readers of this article do you really believe that this socialist writer who exposed a cover up in Smith's own newspaper the Irish Independent just happens all of a sudden to appear before Smith on top of a mountain after exposing his paper running cover ups and then for no apparent reason threatens Smith with a weapon, when the socialist doesn't even know this chap? It sounds oh so bizarre and mathematically inconceivable. The court affidavits even state the socialist wasn't even in the area when the incident took place and he doesn't know Smith as a person or even has held a conversation with the man in his entire life.

<http://www.irishtimes.com/news/crime-and-law/simon-o-brien-to-quit-as-chair-of-gsoc-to-take-up-role-in-uk-1.2057839>

Simon O'Brien later left his job as chairman of GSOC after internal allegations that he was an MI6 operative used to export GSOC files back to MI5 on mass after espionage activity was suspected at GSOC headquarters. It was the socialists published articles that exposed MI5 knowledge of the IPCC and Simon O'Brien obtaining a military based security contract for Verimus security to work in screening Irish Government buildings, in a left wing political party news column that really set the rat amongst the greys.

One of the many articles produced by the socialist explained that the security company sent to Ireland by the IPCC (Verimus) was an MI5 connected company who uses staff from the same British Army regiment that killed Jean De-Menezes, whos death ironically was investigated by the IPCC themselves. The IPCC, MI5 and Simon Obrien collectively obtained the military contract together that got Verimus the work to look for bugs in Simon O Briens Irish offices where he was chairman of GSOC all a bit to cosey?

It was leaked out in the Irish Independent that MI6 were involved in looking for bugs in O Briens office however the Independent only talked in half truths and when it came to the delivery it failed, it failed to name at the same time that verimus scanning equipment being used in Simon O Brien office was being used to protect a former British police officer, if it wasn't for the press leaks in other papers and other sources the public would never have known that verimus were operating in Ireland on behalf of MI6 and their operatives, the leak outs gave the security services in UK and America the power to confiscate internally all the GSOC records that MI5 now have because essentially there own operatives were under threat, all though Simon o Brien always stated he never felt threatened, but he wouldn't be, so essentially without the press leak outs no confiscation of records by the Americans and British would have been obtainable. The files stolen or sequestered due to security breaches about Gerry Adams Sinn Fein leader having secret meetings with drug convicted dealer Kieran Boylan would never have been officially found by MI6 and MI5, allegations that Gerry Adams secret meetings have been going on for years is no news however this article is evidence that its a club where the spoils get divided and if you expose espionage publically you can pay a heavy price when publically you force secret agendas into the press.

Evidence that Verimus security are part of MI5 and have worked alongside them for example the Olympic games contract.

<http://www.verrimus-red.com/ourteam.html>

the socialist was followed from Ireland to Europe where he was involved in publishing Smith was part of an ongoing operation into Drugs/terrorism see article here:

<https://gerryhutchblog.wordpress.com/>

Albert Smith didn't care about who he spied upon and the Gardai themselves were always placing and mistaking people in different areas. Smith was stationed according to one internet web site and chosen by MI6 and the British Military to "plant" stories in the independent news paper he wrote an article about convicted fascist David Irving. Irving got

3 years for the books he published that were anti semitic also Smith appear on irwings home site promoting irwings banned books incidently no normal journalist would have consented to promote a fascist like Irwing and as Kieran Conways book names fascists it has to be published here that Conways past comments on fascists have been published :

<https://www.goodreads.com/book/show/24305635-southside-provisional>

Kieran Conway went up against Garda Patton and sergeant Heraughty of Enniskerry Garda station when he represented the socialist in Bray court. Another Garda involved in these areas was Garda Cullen formerly Stepside now Dundrum Garda Station, he should have blown the whistle on Heraughty and Patton a pair of right wing state protected spies that work for the American and British Intelligence service. The Garda station at Enniskerry has American police force uniform patches in the window the entire Enniskerry village is a MI6/CIA state protected right wing fascist safe haven, you cant publish sites on an Enniskerry Google entry, the powers that be remove any site placed on Google that lands on Enniskerry, try it for yourselves, and yes they follow your signalex back to where you live so do it somewhere else! If you type Enniskerry Nazi at Google prompt you find a worrying amount of right wing neo fascist sites all connected to this tiny little village in the countryside of Ireland.

THE DEDMAN FILES- WIKILEAKS

ANDREW DEDMAN MI5/David Shayler MI5

BELOW: BRITISH INTELLIGENCE NUCLEAR BUNKER (HERFORD, UK) PART OF ANDREW DEDMAN'S OPERATIONAL AREA IN NORTH LONDON.

Andrew Dedman left The British Army and joined the British Police. It is believed he was transferred because mathematically the badge number he was allocated to use as a police officer, every police officer has their own badge or identity number on the "force" was 1001. The emphasis here is the actual mathematical chances of owning this badge number in the British Police are practically ZERO. It's a computation that runs into many hundreds of thousands, as there are many hundreds of thousands of police officers so we believe it was a badge number on "Stand by". As we all know 1001 is a British expression or paraphrase only in this particular person's instance it's a thousand and one misuses as opposed to uses. Andrew Dedman by name and nature was not a regular police officer. The name itself is an anagram of ...and your a deadman... A typically sinister calling card left on police files, court paperwork etc. Researchers who quite often browse through British Intelligence files and Police Intelligence files would "lock" onto the "codeing" of coming across a name of DEATH 1001. Because of his initial location a town known as Hertford, Hertfordshire where he worked as a mere detective constable it is thought that he was part of an undercover military unit within the police or even a secret police officer, that is a police officer who has different roles, his expertise and British Army knowledge would have made him prime time for the job, still being able to work with the British Army itself. This is because 20-30 years ago Hertford was the quintessential MI5 village situated far enough outside of London's capital served with two railway stations (not many towns in UK have two railway stations) the British railway station from Hertford actually takes trains right inside of the tube station underground!!! Moorgate station to be precise so this made security arrangements for MI5 workers less hassle to get around. Hertford itself is a rabbit warren a complete maze, it had one of only three types of emergency nuclear underground base stations this can be found on Google by typing <http://www.urbexdevil.co.uk/srhq-4-2-> regional-government-bunker/ the Town has hundreds of inter connected footpaths,there everywhere.canals,rivers,viaducts,lakes,wooded areas nearby now abandoned air strip...the list goes on and on just look at google maps and everything within 5 miles radius of Hertford itself on the map and twenty years ago the place was a lot more quite and the police where right good chaps.Andrew Dedman for his sins was a nasty right winger who tampered and experimented with systems and law probably the type that was very much aware of people like Oswald Moseley infact Dedman looks remarkably similar to this man.He was a brutally cold police officer across between a ferret and British Army stiff upper lip type although the kind of skinny/medium type build chap that you would find camping somewhere in the middle of the Brecon Beacons eating worms and rumours surfacing on the net indicate he left the police and was found by mossad agents living in Turkey they apparently got real personal by naming him a man with American armed force tattoos on his left arm on an alleged IDF site in Israel.Dedman probably is part of a sinister network of espionage/crime/drugs as Turkey is not the sort of place a person would willingly live in being British Born no offence to the Turkish people here but it isn't many folks ideal port of call,hes either hiding there or working or both and probably for both sides at the same time if you know what I mean....Dedman tampered with the British Police force PNC computer system leaving a trail of disinformation behind him the extent of which will probably remain another mi5 well kept secret.These types of police officers have been involved in creating DATA BANKS which are not only used by police but Diplomats and British Intelligence which is part of creating the capitalist infrastructure of Britain itself all information is a tradeable commodity and at some point ends up in the Kremlin or Washington.Some folk say that the only thing that's secret about mi5 is where they live and how much money they earn each year everything else goes through the back door in one form or another...sorry chaps but that's the word....Dedman was involved in programming prisoners and the British mafia and Dedman itself is more a ring of pirates or network of people including criminals that help maintain protection within Britain.

Wikileaks-The Dedman Files (MI5 Dumping grounds)

Thu, 23/02/2017 - 11:48am — Annie Machon

The Dedman Files

Aswell as "bent" cops you also have "bent" MI5 Officers,sometimes there own dirty trix backfire.Last time you went on holiday some form of leaked Government dat probably went with youf....read on.,

Researching the Dark Web (Ground base/wikileaks) recently uncovered some interesting information hidden in TOR files,these files indicated that both MI% and the CIA have growing concerns over "Dumping".This is a practice used by "renegade" types who work in the military/police/secret service.The practice of Dumping is regarded in certain circumstances as a breach of Human and Civil Rights however it cant be stopped and often directly affects the individuals,companies,organisations involved.

To understand "Dumping" look at the inverse which is Wikileaks,Julian Assenage and company "Dump" classified info publically,its what MI5 amd their Dirty Trixsters have done for years only you wont read about anywhere.It makes money basically and generates power and certain European Governments over the years have built upon itIn Ireland for example In county Wicklow and Dublin areas the local Police work with the other half to gain and Dump information (On net article... Wikileaks Irelands CIA Operations).Bent Cops and MI6 operatives have for years taken Files over to Ireland where they are misused.Simon O Brien OSOC was exposed as an MI6 agent involved in espionage and left the Irish Government Body OSOC because of "Dumping".In Wicklow Ireland Tourists reported to the FBI when they went back home that local country cops brgged by putting American police badges in their stations where tourists could see them!!! Even former IRA members and Sinn Fein members brag that they share illegally gained information.In Italy and Spain Holidays are given to Dumpers,land property,homes are exchanged for information,the City of London Police did a really bad Dump a number of years ago allegedly sending over the owners of houses and buisness groups to the Russian secret service.Michael Flynn resigned recently as the American National Security advisor allegations against him include working with Russians and excepting bribes,Trump has a long history in property development and Hotels.

A percentage of british police Officers charge with illegally entering into British police computers are involved in "Dumping".

UK Cops Stole a Dead Baby's Identity to Spy on Protest Groups

By Ben Bryant

January 7, 2015 | 10:55 pm

A dead newborn child's identity was stolen by undercover UK police officers working for an elite unit that infiltrated left-wing groups, London's Metropolitan Police Service has revealed.

The newborn was among a number of children whose identities were stolen by the Met's covert Special Demonstration Squad, with others aged one, four through 14, 16, and 17. Only the ages of the children have been released so that the identities of the officers are not compromised.

The identities were disclosed after repeated requests by Duncan Hames, a Liberal Democrat member of Parliament for Chippenham, who hoped that he would be able to console a constituent who feared that his 15-year-old daughter's identity might have been stolen. Because no 15-year-olds were identified, he was able to reassure the parent — but it took Hames nearly two years just to get police to release the ages of the children.

This woman was awarded \$685,737 after learning her boyfriend was an undercover cop sent to spy on her. Read more here.

The Met secretly authorized the theft of identities from dead children for three decades, issuing covert officers with fake passports and authorizing them to infiltrate protest groups — all without consulting or informing the children's parents. The practice was revealed in 2013 following an investigation by the Guardian, which established that generations of police officers had searched national birth and death records for the right matches.

Police have since been forced to make a general apology, but have maintained that they cannot tell the individual families whose children's identities they stole.

'I think it undermines the confidence that we can have in the sincerity of the apology that was given that there was no willingness to address the anxieties that parents of dead children have.'

Hames has been attempting to obtain the ages — and no other identifying information — since February 2013 under the UK's Freedom of Information Act, but the Met used "every means possible" to try and obstruct the release of the information, he told VICE News.

"Our experience over the last two years has been that they have taken every opportunity they could to resist sharing even the slightest bit of information about these activities," Hames said. "I think they probably just hoped that we would grow tired and go away. And that is an absolute travesty of how Freedom of Information is supposed to work."

"Instead of engaging with this totally natural desire for parents to know whether or not someone has been masquerading as their children, the police clammed up and weren't prepared to release even this modest amount of information," he noted.

UK police investigating five alleged pedophile rings involving "highly influential" politicians. Read more here.

The dispute ended only when the Met abandoned its appeal against a ruling last August by the Information Commissioner, the watchdog for freedom of information requests, to publish the figures. "They realized their obstruction was indefensible," Hames remarked.

Hames accused the police of "feet dragging" when he raised the issue with Home Secretary Theresa May in Parliament on Monday.

"The Metropolitan Police Service (MPS) believes it pertinent to mention that it has been recognized by the Police Service — and the MPS in particular — that the tactic of using the identity of a deceased child to form a legend for undercover police officers may be viewed by some as 'morally repugnant' and that it is no longer police practice," Nigel Shankster, the Met's senior information manager, wrote in its final response to Hames. "The MPS has, in the intervening period, reconsidered its position in challenging the decision of the ICO at Tribunal and has decided that disclosure will indeed be made in this case."

The practice of using the identities of dead children for undercover police officers is no longer ongoing but it was widespread, according to an internal investigation by Derbyshire Chief Constable Mick Creedon, who also examined claims that some officers were involved in inappropriate sexual relationships while undercover. Creedon found that out of 106 pseudonyms adopted by the squad between 1968 and 2008, 42 can be confirmed or treated as highly likely to have come from dead children.

Hames told VICE News that he felt the police were still not willing to address the anxieties of parents who had lost children.

"I think it undermines the confidence that we can have in the sincerity of the apology that was given that there was no willingness to address the anxieties that parents of dead children have," he said. "I've been contacted subsequently today as a result of the attention that has been given to this information, so I know that there are other parents out there who have already been through a terrible experience who are now worried, and who are searching the internet to see if there are any signs that someone is going by their dead child's identity."

Inside the secret world of a British undercover drugs cop. Read more here.

The legislator has called for police to establish a procedure by which concerned parents can ensure their dead child's identity was not stolen.

"I really think that the Met police need to look again as to whether there is any process they can establish whereby they could reassure parents," he said. "If not in every case, at least in many cases."

This could be achieved via disclosure of geographical information or gender, Hames suggested, or a process whereby parents concerned that this may have happened to their child can go to the police and be reassured.

"I'm convinced there is more the police can do to put more parents' minds at rest," he said.

John Graham and behind the scenes in 1968

Donal O'Driscoll, Undercover Research Group, 25 August 2017

The impact of the protests of 1968 on reshaping left-wing politics is well-known. It also had another important effect, the development of political policing through the use of specialist undercovers to spy on protest movements. One of those early spies, the Undercover Policing Inquiry has now revealed was a 'John Graham'. Examining what little is known of him has allowed a rare light to be shone on the much less studied events behind the scenes leading to the outpouring of protest that year.

Politics in 1968 was dominated by the United States involvement in the Vietnam War. In the UK, the opposition was lead by the Vietnam Solidarity Campaign, a broad coalition of hard-left groups, but in the main lead by Trotskyists. It was the VSC which organised the mass protest of March 1968, when thousands of protests occupied Grosvenor Square and fought with police to get access to the US Embassy there. This caused huge embarrassment to the Labour Government of its time. With a second big demonstration being organised that October, the pressure was on the police to gather intelligence to prevent a repetition - and it was this which directly lead to the setting up of the notorious spycop unit, the Special Demonstration Squad under Det. Ch. Insp. Conrad Dixon.

1968 was also important because it was the year radical student politics came into its own. At the heart of this was the Revolutionary Socialist Students Federation (RSSF). Again a broad church coalition many of its leading lights came from the same Trotskyist milieu as the VSC. The core of the activists was based in and around north west London - Camden, Hampstead, Kilburn and the like.

Studying 'John Graham' has been a fascinating exploration of the history of the time, allowing us to examine rarely seen archives which documented some of the internal workings of the VSC. For anyone looking at an understanding of the history of protest at the time, our profile is possibly worth a read for that reason alone.

Three New Spycops Named - But Others Get Hidden

Repost from Campaign Opposing Police Surveillance, 14 August 2017.

The public inquiry into undercover political policing has published three new names of spycops and, for the first time, they're new names rather than just confirming what activists, whistleblowers and journalists had already revealed.

However, among the hefty tranche of new papers from Inquiry Chair Sir John Mitting are grave indications of that he is seeking to prevent the full truth coming to light.

Having dragged out the process of beginning the inquiry for years, earlier this year the Metropolitan Police were given a firm timetable for applying for 'restriction orders' for the anonymity of undercover officers.

As expected, the Met are pushing for maximum secrecy, arguing that it would make officers worried and sad to be publicly known for what they've done. The Met also argue that the officers would be at risk of violent reprisal, despite nothing of the kind happening to the swathe of officers who have been very publicly exposed since 2010. With deadlines passing, the Met have had their hand forced and, finally, we are getting a small measure of new information from the Inquiry.

THREE NEW SPYCOPS

As had been suggested by some victims, the new names are all from the early days of the Special Demonstration Squad in the late 1960s and early 1970s. With those involved being of advanced age, there's some merit in tackling these cases first. Indeed, one of the three newly named officers is already dead.

Rod Richardson - a pivotal spycop

Donal O'Driscoll, Undercover Research Group, 28 June 2017

Yesterday, we released our profile of undercover officer 'Rod Richardson'. It is one of our largest profiles to date, three years in preparation, with dozens who knew him interviewed. We spent this time and effort because, of those exposed to date, we believe Rod is one of the most important and his deployment raises significant questions.

(Also see: Rod Richardson: #spycop was used to undermine protest, 26 June 2017)

What we know of Rod is that he was deployed in Summer 1999, in Essex, where he turned up at the Save Gorse Woods campaign at Rettendon. There he offered his house as a facility to other protestors. From 2000 he becomes involved in two strands of work. In London he focuses on anti-globalisation and anarchist groups such as W.O.M.B.L.E.S and Movement Against the Monarchy (MA'M). The other is infiltrating environmental networks, such as Earth First! and particularly the alternative scene in Nottingham. He disappears in Summer 2003, saying he was joining his girlfriend abroad.

Rod was not a passive observer of the activism he targeted. He threw himself in head-first. He was on the front line or driving for big demonstrations. Carefully documenting his time in London, we can place him close to the centre of quite a few events which saw heavy policing, such as Mayday, DSEi and anti-monarchy protests.

There is good cause to believe that it was his intelligence that lay behind a number of pre-emptive arrests and targeting of squats and campaigners. When we studied contemporary newspaper accounts, it was clear how heavily the police were relying upon such intelligence. Having confirmed his presence at the time, it is now clear that Rod is a strong candidate for being their principal source. Continue reading →

Rod Richardson: #spycop was used to undermine protest

Eveline Lubbers, Undercover Research Group, 26 June 2017

Today we publish the profile of Rod Richardson, the undercover officer active as an environmental, anarchist and animal rights protestor between 1999 and 2003 in Essex, London and Nottingham. Richardson was exposed on Indymedia UK and in The Guardian in 2013 and confirmed as a spycop in December 2016.

Piecing together the profile of Rod Richardson and the details of his tour of duty in the world of activism, it occurred to us that the policing of two major protests he had been involved in had been subject to extensive legal challenges since.

Today we look at the forced return of the Fairford coaches on their way to an anti-war rally in 2003, with Rod Richardson on board; and part 2 will investigate the kettling of MayDay protesters at Oxford Circus in London in 2001, again with Rod in the middle of everything. In both cases, the police detained a fairly large and mixed group of people in quite extreme ways, while also in both cases protesters fought a decade-long legal battle to uphold their right to protest.

Investigate exactly what role he has played in these protests, the core question is to what extent the intelligence gathered and the activities of the undercover officers influenced the actual policing of these events. Continue reading →

Spycop liberated chickens, and other updates on Andy Coles

Donal O'Driscoll, Undercover Research Group, 6 June 2017

Since the exposure of Andy Coles as the former spyco Andy 'Van' Davey, more information on him has been steadily trickling in. We've collected the most important updates:

- Infiltrating the anti-war group ARROW
- Another allegation of inappropriate behaviour
- Andy's role in a 1993 chicken liberation;
- Questions over possibly illegally obtained police warrants.

New discoveries: infiltrating anti-war groups

Peace News has revealed that prior to infiltrating animal rights groups, Andy Coles targeted the small but highly visible anti-war group Gulf War Resisters, later Active Resistance against the Roots of War (ARROW). As Andy Davey, he attended their meetings and demos throughout 1991. Peace News also unearthed the first proper full face photo of Andy undercover (shown above), and two of him on a protest.

Davey's time as an anti-war protester preceded his tour in animal rights, but his cover was already in place – he would wear the clothes, and use the same pager and the van he would appear with later on. To the anti-war activists he made out that he was already involved in the Animal Liberation Front – not true as far as we know – which he used to add an aura of mysteriousness about his background. In Peace News Emily Johns explains she found this very weird at the time:

He told me, to impress me I thought, that he was a press officer for the ALF (Animal Liberation Front).

I remember thinking: 'What kind of a fool do you take me for? Or what kind of a fool are you to tell me that?' The ALF was and still is a very secretive group, carrying out direct action against animal exploitation. Either Andy was not a press officer for the ALF, and he thought that I was the kind of person who would be impressed by that boast, or he was an ALF press officer breaking the secrecy of the group with someone he barely knew.

It is understood that they are operating in at least two Irish cities.

BRITISH SPIES ARE keeping tabs on a number of persons of interest within Ireland.

The Secret Intelligence Service (MI6) agents have been operating around the country since shortly after the London Bridge attack in June, sources have confirmed to The Journal ie.

It is understood that they are operating in at least two cities. Most of them are in Dublin and are working out of a number of offices in the city centre.

Sources say they are "keeping an eye" on a handful of potential extremists. They say that Ireland's position geographically makes it an area that needs to be monitored by foreign intelligence.

Their arrival in Ireland followed the revelation that one of the London Bridge attackers – Rachid Redouane – had lived in the Rathmines area of south Dublin last year with his English partner who he married while here. He was not being monitored by gardai.

The Department of Justice did not comment on whether or not it is aware of foreign intelligence agencies operating in Ireland. However it confirmed that a small number of potential extremists are being monitored.

"While there is a small number of persons here whose activities in support of violent extremism give cause for concern they are monitored closely by the authorities and any appropriate action is taken," the department said in a statement.

The department added that gardai cooperate with international security agencies on intelligence-related matters "as circumstances dictate" in combatting crime and security threats. A spokesperson for An Garda Síochána echoed that sentiment, but did not confirm that gardai were aware of MI6 agents in Ireland.

"An Garda Síochána liaise closely with our security and law enforcement partners throughout Europe to share and assess any relevant intelligence and its potential impact on this jurisdiction," the spokesperson said.

The Special Detective Unit (SDU) – an elite arm of the gardai – has been liaising with its British counterparts and offering its intelligence capabilities to assist the spies with their work here.

There has been fears within garda management that Ireland would be totally unprepared for an attack without the help of foreign agencies. While there are a number of trained officers who can use rifles and submachine firearms, well-placed sources have told TheJournal.ie that a lack of resources has meant the reliance on foreign agencies working in intelligence has increased.

Earlier this year, TheJournal.ie revealed that members of the SDU had been carrying out a number of surveillance operations on over 20 people they believe to be a potential threat to Ireland.

It has now emerged that elements within MI6 had helped gardai identify those specific surveillance targets. Days after reporting the operation, a number of terror suspects were arrested.

The British Foreign and Commonwealth Office, which oversees MI6, said that it could not comment on operational matters.

Public inquiry confirms the identities of more police spies

A public inquiry - led by Lord Justice Pitchford - has confirmed the identities of two more undercover officers who spied on political groups.

Rob Evans

Monday 21 November 2016 12:10 GMT

The judge-led public inquiry examining the undercover infiltration of political groups has confirmed the identities of two more police spies in recent weeks.

In brief announcements, the inquiry - headed by a senior judge, Lord Justice Pitchford - confirmed that the pair - who used the fake personas of "Carlo Neri" and "Marco Jacobs" - were undercover officers.

Neri infiltrated anti-racist and left-wing groups between 2001 and 2005 (for background on him, see this, this and this). Jacobs spied on anarchists and social justice campaigners in Cardiff and Brighton between 2004 and 2009 (for further details on him, see this and this).

It means that the number of undercover officers embedded in political groups whose identities have been officially confirmed has risen to five.

This however is a fraction of the total number of undercover officers who have been sent to spy on political groups since 1968. That total has yet to be disclosed, but is estimated to be more than 100.

For years, the police have fiercely resisted disclosing the identities of their undercover officers, in the face of pressure from individuals who were spied on.

The five undercover spies were only officially confirmed after they were unmasked following investigations by activists and journalists.

For many involved in the public inquiry, the key question remains how open it will be - something that will be determined by Pitchford. It is too early to know what the answer to that question will be.

Police have fought strenuously to try and ensure that large parts of the inquiry are held in private, and the names of their undercover officers kept under wraps (see this and this).

Those who were spied on have argued for openness and have strongly criticised police for continuing to conceal the work and identities of the undercover officers (see this).

More than 100 individuals who were subjected to the police surveillance have been calling for a list of the fake names of the undercover officers to be published.

It was a call reiterated after Pitchford confirmed the identities of Neri and Jacobs, for example :

For those seeking an open inquiry, the announcements on Neri and Jacobs may be welcome, but the crucial test for the Pitchford inquiry is still whether he will permit the identification of all the other undercover officers.

In this analysis, the Campaign Opposing Police Surveillance, the alliance of those who were spied on, wondered if Pitchford's announcements on Neri and Jacobs marked the end of the police's stonewalling about the identities of the undercover officers. How UK police helped unmask one of their own undercover spies

Roger Pearce is the latest undercover officer to be confirmed by a public inquiry but police had given away a big clue about his identity

Rob Evans

Monday 3 April 2017
11:14 BST

The police have gone to great lengths to argue that the identities of their undercover officers must be concealed forever.

However it was the police themselves who are responsible for helping to unmask the latest undercover officer whose identity has been confirmed.

The public inquiry into undercover policing confirmed last Wednesday that Roger Pearce had been an undercover officer for the Special Demonstration Squad (SDS). He had used the fake identity of "Roger Thorley" during his deployment.

A vital clue about his undercover deployment was given by the police in an official report four years ago. The police conducted an internal investigation into the SDS which deployed undercover officers to infiltrate hundreds of political groups between 1968 and 2008.

Former commander and undercover spy Roger Pearce

One of the reports arising out of this internal investigation was published by police in 2013. It examined the theft of dead children's identities by the undercover officers following criticism of the technique.

A number of anonymous former SDS officers were quoted in the report about how they had used the identities of dead children during their undercover work. Each officer was assigned a codename in the report to protect their anonymity.

The description of one of these officers was however curious. The officer given the codename N85 was described as being an undercover officer in the SDS between 1978 and 1980. However he was also described in the report (see para 7.2) as being the head of Special Branch between 2000 and 2004.

Once that crucial clue had been disclosed, there was enough in the public domain to show that Pearce had been head of Special Branch at that time and was therefore the undercover officer being referred to as N85.

For example, Pearce crops up in news reports here and here as being head of Special Branch in 2000 and 2001.

The first public identification of Pearce as N85 appears to have come in 2014 by Bristol-based blogger, BristleKRS (see here).

Pearce had himself developed a public profile around 2013, appearing in the media to defend the SDS on a number of occasions. He did not say he had been an undercover officer, although his tenure as the head of Special Branch at that time was given (see for instance this BBC article).

The Undercover Research Group, the network of activists that investigates the covert infiltration of political groups, has collated what is known about Pearce in one of its characteristically detailed profiles that was published last year. This blog by the group also examines how Pearce defended the SDS during his media appearances.

Given their strenuous efforts to keep secret their covert officers, it is unclear why police gave away a big clue to Pearce's undercover identity - it suggests either incompetence or laxness.

Roger Pearce talks about why he writes about Special Branch in his novels.

The groups that Pearce infiltrated are not publicly known yet. However the Guardian understands that he went undercover between 1979 and 1984 (the usual length of deployment for an SDS officer), not the years stated in the police report. The dates given for his tenure as head of Special Branch in the police report are also slightly awry (as he was actually in charge between 1999 and 2003).

Since leaving the police, Pearce has become an author, drawing on his experiences in Special Branch, to write thrillers. His third book - Javelin - is due out in July. He has his own website. Here's a review of one of his books, Agent of the State.

More than 100 undercover officers have been deployed to infiltrate political groups since 1968. Pearce was the sixth undercover officer whose identity has been confirmed by the public inquiry, although all six had previously been exposed by activists and journalists. The public inquiry is led by Lord Justice Pitchford.

MI6, The Spy In The Irish Police Force, Jack Lynch And Britain – An Insight Into Anglo-Irish Relations A Year After Bloody Sunday

Posted on January 26, 2014 1 Comment

By Ed Moloney and Bob Mitchell

The British government's archive at Kew has, thanks to the ferreting of my colleague Bob Mitchell, produced a document that sheds fascinating light on the nature of the relationship between the British and Irish governments a year or so after Bloody Sunday, when the killing of fourteen unarmed civilians at a civil rights demonstration in Derry by the 1st Parachute Regiment pitched Anglo-Irish relations into their gravest crisis since the creation of the Irish state.

Those of us who were alive at the time can never forget the huge wave of anger and sympathy for Northern Nationalists that rolled through the South in the ensuing days. Factories and workplaces throughout the country came to a standstill as thousands of people staged impromptu strikes and marched to town centres carrying placards condemning the British. Buses and trains stopped running. Aer Lingus planes were grounded and the government recalled the London ambassador in protest.

A victim of the Paras' violence on Bloody Sunday is carried away

Not since partition had Southern and Northern Nationalism been so united, and not since the Anglo-Irish war of 1919-1921 had there been such anti-British fervor in Ireland, and it all culminated in a massive protest outside the British embassy in Dublin during which the building was burned to the ground. A gelignite bomb blew down the embassy's solid Georgian door and soon petrol bombs rained through the opening. A crowd estimated at 20,000 cheered as the flames consumed the building and stopped fire engines getting near the inferno.

A huge crowd gathered outside the British embassy in Merrion Square, Dublin to protest at the Bloody Sunday killings

The Guardian reported:

"Hatred of Britain in the Republic reached fever pitch as the embassy's interior blazed fiercely, watched by several thousand. 'Burn, burn, burn,' they shouted as chunks of masonry and woodwork fell blazing onto the street. They redoubled their cheering whenever they saw the fire breaking through into new parts of the building."

Symptomatic of Nationalist anger at the slaughter was the response of the normally cautious and moderate John Hume, a leader of the pro-Irish government SDLP who said sentiment in his area was now: "It's a united Ireland or nothing".

But those expecting all this to be reflected in a more aggressive stand towards the British on the North by the government in Dublin, then led by Fianna Fail chief Jack Lynch, were to be disappointed. A seminal article by Eamon McCann in the Irish Times in January 2012, written to mark the 40th anniversary of Bloody Sunday, describes how, whatever the ordinary people of Ireland felt, the dominant emotion in establishment circles was nervousness at the boost all this could give to the IRA and the alarming consequences there might be for political stability in the Southern state.

Irish prime minister Jack Lynch betrayed his inner fears in a late night phone call to British prime minister, Edward Heath just hours after the guns had fallen silent in Derry. One account of the conversation quoted him saying:

".....from reactions received from around the country at the moment it looks as if a very serious point has now been reached, and the situation could escalate. . . my role is becoming more and more difficult, and I am very, very fearful of what is likely to happen. I just want to tell you how gravely apprehensive I am."

"Lynch apologised to Heath for ringing him so late....the apology 'set the tone for the conversation, with Lynch timidly trying to express his apprehensions while an irritated Heath blamed the marchers for the deaths and Lynch for not doing more to combat republicans."

In the days and weeks following Bloody Sunday the southern political mainstream mobilised against the IRA, making it clear that the Provisionals were now considered a threat to the southern as well as the northern state. Lynch's government quickly announced plans to recruit an extra 600 policemen and warned that it might introduce special courts to try IRA members.

The British ambassador, Sir John Peck had complained that before Bloody Sunday juries would "frequently" refuse to convict IRA suspects but afterwards that it was "impossible" to secure a guilty verdict. To Peck's satisfaction, the juryless Special Criminal Court was established in May 1972, four months later and soon began to jail IRA suspects unimpeded by the pro-nationalist perspective from the jury room.

The day after the funerals of the Bloody Sunday victims, Lynch had issued a warning to the IRA during a speech to the Irish parliament: "The institutions of this State will be upheld without fear or favour. The laws will continue to be enforced. Those who seek to usurp the functions of government will meet with no toleration."

His Justice Minister, Des O'Malley ordered the retrial of IRA suspects acquitted on arms charges and the government's toughening line against the IRA was endorsed by opposition parties in the Irish parliament. At the government party's ard-fheis, or annual conference, held three weeks after Bloody Sunday, Lynch's aides successfully prevented any motion on Bloody Sunday or the North being debated. Arrests of leading Provisionals started in March and in May, the head of Sinn Fein, Ruairi O Bradaigh and former Belfast Brigade commander, Joe Cahill were jailed.

British prime minister Ted Heath (l) meets Jack Lynch

As McCann wrote:

"The North had seemed as never before to have become a visceral reality in the South. But literally within days, alarmed at the appalling vista suddenly revealed in the mood and scale and class composition of the demonstrations, in the burning of the embassy and the strut in the step of republican paramilitaries, the main parties of nationalism emotionally and intellectually disengaged from the North and resolved to come down hard on any elements that in the name of the North dared challenge the integrity of the Southern State."

Bloody Sunday has often been described as a prodigious boon to the IRA, which it undoubtedly was; recruitment to the organisation soared afterwards and with its ranks swollen the IRA was able to make 1972 the most violent year of the Troubles.

But it was also a turning point for the British as well, for the other consequence was that afterwards London and Dublin united against the IRA with a new determination and agreed a political strategy – support for constitutional nationalism, a power-sharing government in Belfast and a cross-Border mechanism of some sort – that not only survived the subsequent decades but emerged triumphant on Good Friday, 1998.

In the post Bloody Sunday atmosphere, MI6 launched an operation to recruit spies in the Irish police force

Given the Irish establishment's alarm at the national mood after Bloody Sunday, it would have been surprising if British intelligence had not concluded that this might be a propitious time to step up its activities against the IRA south of the Irish Border. After all it was now clear that the two governments were at one in their hostility to the IRA; and who in the Dublin government and security apparatus could seriously object?

And so some time in 1972, when exactly we don't know, MI6 dispatched one of its agents, East African-born, John Wyman (36) with an address at Swan Walk in Chelsea, London to Dublin with instructions, it seems, to recruit sources inside the intelligence sections of an Garda Síochána, the Irish police force. From reports of interviews with Garda detectives later it seemed he had made several trips and had meetings with a number of "contacts" in hotels. His cover was that he was recruiting staff for a security firm based in Oxfordshire, England, which in a way was true.

We know the name of only one of his contacts, 38-year old detective Patrick Crinnion (his name was sometimes spelled Crinion in contemporary reports), a registry clerk with C3, a specialist counter terrorism group that is part of the Special Branch, based at Garda headquarters in Phoenix Park. Crinnion was an ideal source for a group like MI6 because his job in C3's archive gave him access to a treasure trove of intelligence documents.

There was a great irony here. During the Anglo-Irish war, IRA leader Michael Collins was given access by police sympathisers to the British intelligence archive in Dublin Castle; some fifty years later MI6 had, courtesy of a sympathetic policeman, gained similar entrée to the Irish government's intelligence repository.

Whether Wyman had recruited other spies in the Irish governmental system to work for MI6 is not known but it certainly seems possible; both his interrogators and the Irish government suspected he had. He was arrested in late December 1972 at the West County Hotel in Chapelizod, west Dublin where he had arrived by car and was waiting in the hotel car park, as if to meet someone. He was staying in an hotel miles away in the south of the city, the Burlington, where he had made an arrangement to meet Crinnion later on the night he was arrested, so the trip to the West County raises obvious questions.

Exactly how the Irish police got on to Wyman was never explained. When he was arrested he was told it was because he was suspected of belonging to a proscribed organisation; but MI6 was not banned in Ireland. Citing this as a cause for his arrest might have been a ploy by the Irish police but it does raise the interesting possibility that Wyman was also meeting IRA members who had been under Garda Special Branch surveillance and had himself come under suspicion. The West County hotel was, because of its convenience to those travelling into Dublin from the west of Ireland, favoured by republicans as a meeting place; the hotel was where IRA dissidents met in 1986 after a split in the Gerry Adams-led Sinn Féin over dropping abstentionism to form Republican Sinn Féin.

Gardai evidence given later in court suggested that they did not know about Crinnion before Wyman's arrest although this could have been a subterfuge to hide methods or sources. The Irish police claimed they got on to him when they searched Wyman's hotel room and found an unsigned note, apparently pushed under the door, re-arranging that night's meeting with Wyman for the following evening.

Detectives waited in Wyman's room for the MI6 man's mysterious visitor the following night and arrested Crinnion when he turned up. When Crinnion and his captors reached the hotel's ground floor, he tried to flee to his car but got only 40 yards when he was brought to the ground and taken to the Bridewell for questioning. A search of his vehicle led to the discovery of ten documents hidden under the carpet behind the passenger seat and more documents, all from C3's files, were found at his home in Kilmacud.

Although Wyman initially maintained to his Garda interrogators that he was an English businessman visiting Ireland to vet potential employees, he soon admitted that he was "an agent of a British Minister" and told one Special Branch detective that he and they were "in the same line" of work. A notebook in his possession indicated that he was especially interested in finding the source of rocket launchers that had come into the IRA's hands. For his part, Crinnion said he had met Wyman six times but later reduced this to three.

So, an intelligence agent from a supposedly friendly neighbour and ally had been caught red-handed suborning an officer in a sensitive counter terrorist police unit who had been induced to hand over valuable documents to a foreign government; to add to this, the agent responsible had very possibly recruited other spies elsewhere in the Irish government.

In such circumstances most governments on the receiving end of such flagrant espionage would react with controlled outrage. It might be going too far for one ally to expel another's diplomats, as happened regularly between the Soviet Union and Western powers at this time – and since they were bitter ideological foes that was to be expected – but few governments could allow such a thing to pass by without a considered and proportionate response.

That, at least initially, appeared to be the Irish government's posture on the matter, according to an intriguing document recently unearthed at Kew. The document is a three page account of a thirty minute meeting about "the Wyman incident" between Robert Armstrong, the principal private secretary to the then British prime minister Ted Heath and the Irish ambassador to London, Dr Donal O'Sullivan on December 23rd, 1972, just five days after Wyman's arrest. The document, which is erroneously headed 23 December 1973 but further down gives the correct year, 1972, is marked "Message No 3" and was addressed to Britain's ambassador to Dublin at this time was Foreign Office veteran Sir John Peck who was himself no stranger to the byzantine world of intelligence. In the 1950's Peck had helped turn the Foreign Office's Information Research Department (IRD) into an anti-Soviet black propaganda agency which fed material via sympathetic journalists to the BBC World Service and Third World media outlets. In the early 1970's the IRD was very active in Northern Ireland funneling anti-IRA propaganda to the media, paralleling the work of the British Army's Information Policy Unit then staffed by the likes of Colin Wallace.

Around December 20th, 1972, two days after John Wyman's arrest, the Irish Foreign Minister, Dr Patrick Hillery met Sir John Peck in Dublin to discuss the matter who then reported back to Downing Street. After reading Peck's report, Ted Heath had called in the Irish ambassador to tell him of his concerns arising from that meeting; the ambassador had then travelled to Dublin to report Heath's unease to Jack Lynch and on December 23rd he arrived back in Downing Street to tell Robert Armstrong the result of his meeting with the Irish premier.

Ireland's Minister for Foreign Affairs at the time of 'the Wyman incident', Dr Patrick Hillery

At the heart of British concerns was a comment from Hillery to Peck that the discovery of an MI6 agent at work in Dublin meant that relations between the two countries were now "back to square one". The remark, implying Ireland's loss of trust in the British, indicated a level of anger in official Irish circles at the affair that the detached observer might not consider inappropriate. But it soon became clear that Dr Hillery was speaking only for himself, not his prime minister. Jack Lynch's priority was still the same as the British: the defeat of the IRA.

And so the Irish prime minister denied outright that Hillery had ever said such a thing even though, as Armstrong noted, Peck's report "had specifically quoted" exactly the same words, "back to square one"; but O'Sullivan maintained that Lynch's record of the Peck-Hillery encounter made no mention at all of the phrase, and he added:

"...Mr Lynch had asked him to assure the prime minister that there was no question of this on his side. He did not wish the present level of relationships to be impaired in any way. The Irish government had welcomed the British government's agreement to discuss the Irish dimension and the Council of Ireland and hoped that nothing would interfere with that situation."

And so in a single paragraph we can see expressed the Irish government's priority in the wake of Bloody Sunday: the agreement of political structures that would help isolate and defeat the Provisionals. That was what mattered in Dublin and to underscore how important it was to the Irish state that friendly relations with the British be maintained, the ambassador even offered, on the day before Christmas Eve, to travel all the way from Downing Street in central London to the Buckinghamshire countryside to deliver Lynch's message in person to Ted Heath at Chequers should Heath wish it. He was politely declined.

The Irish ambassador had further reassurances from Lynch to deliver to Downing Street. Asked by Armstrong whether the Wyman incident might imperil cross-Border security co-operation, Dr O'Sullivan gave this assurance: "There was no intention or desire that these contacts should be in any way impaired"; adding: "...Mr Lynch was very anxious that his own relationship with the prime minister should not in any way suffer as a result of this incident."

It is clear from Armstrong's account that the Irish government was as concerned about "the public relations" downside of the affair as anything else. The phrase "public relations" appears three times in Armstrong's account of the Irish ambassador's concerns and it is evident by the repeated use of the phrase that the Irish side was concerned that the IRA could exploit Wyman's arrest for propaganda purposes. While MI6 had infiltrated the Irish police and may have recruited other, unknown agents, causing untold damage to the integrity of the state's security apparatus, the fact that the IRA might enjoy a public relations fest appeared to be of greater import in Dublin.

And although there was evidence from the interrogation of the MI6 agent and his Garda spy about "others who might be involved", the Irish side also seemed more exercised by the fact that the information passed to Wyman by Crinnion was not exclusively concerned with the IRA; some of the material found in Crinnion's car, O'Sullivan complained, were C3 documents "unrelated to the IRA" that had not yet been seen by the Minister of Justice. Had Crinnion's documents dealt only with the IRA, the Irish government, it appeared, might not have been so concerned.

Strikingly, nowhere in Armstrong's account does the Irish ambassador seek an assurance on Jack Lynch's behalf that the British will desist from any further intelligence operations on Irish soil. Rather much of the remaining conversation between Robert Armstrong and Ambassador O'Sullivan touched upon the legal treatment Britain's MI6 agent might receive in Ireland.

While the ambassador told Armstrong that the Irish government could not interfere in the working of the justice system, he went on to hint that it might do exactly that, as Armstrong explained in his message to Heath:

"I have not included in the note the two points which were for your eyes only:

"For public relations reasons his (O'Sullivan's) government would have to oppose bail, but the strength with which they would do so was another matter.

"You had expressed concern about the effects of a long sentence. He (O'Sullivan) had the impression that this was unlikely; indeed he said there might be no sentence at all."

Wyman and Crinnion appeared at the Special Criminal Court in Dublin in January and February 1973 and were charged under the Official Secrets Act with passing secret information prejudicial to the safety or preservation of the State, charges that brought up to seven years imprisonment.

SPECIAL COURT ACQUITS ENGLISHMAN AND GARDA

Remanded on summary charges

TWO MEN WERE acquitted of charges relating to passing secret information prejudicial to the safety or preservation of the State in the Special Criminal Court in Dublin, yesterday, because the Attorney-General decided not to put in evidence certain documents involved in the case. Both men were remanded in custody to February 26th for the hearing of evidence on further, less serious, charges regarding communication of secret information about the projected operations of the Garda Síochána.

The pair did not get bail, as the ambassador hinted they might, and they were held in isolation for their own safety at Mountjoy jail in north Dublin. But, as Dr O'Sullivan had apparently predicted, neither man would serve a single day in jail for their crime; in fact they were acquitted of the most serious charge thanks to an extraordinary move by Ireland's Attorney-General, Colm Condon, the son of a former Fianna Fail Senator.

The entire trial was held in secret, in camera, and reporters were banned from the courtroom. Newspaper accounts were sparse and repetitive and nothing that transpired during the trial was made publicly known. Despite this cloak of secrecy, Condon refused to allow the judges to see the documents at the heart of the case, the C3 papers which had been found in Crinnion's car. Since the documents would prove one way or another whether the security of the Irish state had been threatened by their disclosure to the British, the judges, deprived of critical evidence, had little option except to acquit both men.

Condon had the power himself to admit the documents, the judges would have read them in secret and none of their contents would ever be made public. But the decision to conceal the documents, made by a political ally of Lynch and his predecessor Sean Lemass, ensured that the MI6 agent would be acquitted and the Irish government spared an embarrassing conflict with the British just a few days before the terms were agreed for political talks on the North's future, talks that would include the Council of Ireland, the institution which Lynch's government believed would undermine support for the IRA.

Undercover Policing: Interim Report - Home Affairs Committee Contents

Operation Herne

23. Following the impressive work of The Guardian in revealing these practices, on 5 February 2013 we called DAC Gallan to give oral evidence to explain how the Metropolitan Police would deal with the situation. We were concerned to note initial confusion within the Metropolitan Police as to who holds responsibility for this issue.
24. The Metropolitan Police is conducting a review and investigation of the use of undercover officers by the former MPS Special Demonstration Squad. This review is known as Operation Herne. The Operation was launched in October 2011 and has so far cost £1.25m, including the cost of 20 officers plus 11 staff working on the operation. However, no disciplinary proceedings or arrests have yet been made. When we put it to DAC Gallan that this was a large public expenditure with little to show in terms of results, she said that the number of files being reviewed was immense and in various formats, from written documents to computer files. [\[27\]](#) We heard similar explanations in the early stages of the police inquiries into phone hacking, which were overcome by the crucial intervention of DAC Sue Akers. Similar decisive leadership will be needed to deal with this investigation.
25. The Independent Police Complaints Commission opted for a "supervised investigation" mode of inquiry, which means that its involvement is limited to setting the terms of reference and receiving the investigation report when it is complete. Control of the review has, for the majority of the investigation, been in the hands of the Metropolitan Police itself, but two days after our oral evidence session on 5 February Commissioner Sir Bernard Hogan-Howe confirmed that the leadership of Operation Herne would be transferred from DAC Gallan to Chief Constable Mick Creedon (of Derbyshire Police), because he believed that public confidence would best be preserved by appointing an independent chief constable. We note that senior leaders were aware of these issues for several months before the change in leadership. It is important that in future objectivity is ensured from the outset and not only when an operation comes under scrutiny.
26. For the sake of families whose dead infants' identities may have been used as legends, it is imperative that Operation Herne is expedited with all possible haste. It is shocking that the practice of using deceased infants' names was apparently a surprise to senior officers and it is vital that the investigation establish quickly how high up the chain of command this practice was sanctioned. Once the identity of the senior responsible leaders has been established, the matter should be referred directly to the IPCC, which should then investigate the matter itself, rather than sign off on a "supervised" inquiry.
27. DAC Gallan told us that she first knew of the use of dead children's identities in September 2012, but the parents of that dead child have still not been informed. We cannot understand what is taking so long. Families need to hear the truth and they must receive an apology. Once families have been identified they should be notified immediately. We would expect the investigation to be concluded by the end of 2013 at the latest. Although we welcome the transfer of responsibility for the Operation to a leader from outside the Metropolitan Police, we are concerned that the appointment of a serving chief constable may not be conducive to a swift conclusion. We have written to Chief Constable Creedon for clarity about how much of his time he will be able to commit to this important work. Responsibility for this matter has already passed from the MPS to local forces, from DAC Gallan to chief constable Creedon and, we trust, from ACPO to the College. Without a clear line of accountability, the risks of malpractice are multiplied. We will return to the question of leadership of internal inquiries and undercover policing standards in our work on leadership and standards in the police.
28. We reiterate that in this kind of serious standards case the IPCC ought to run an independent investigation. This would be in keeping with the Home Secretary's statement to the House on 12 February 2013 that the IPCC would investigate all serious and sensitive allegations, in line with our recommendations. Funds for such an investigation should be provided by the professional standards department of the Metropolitan Police. In lieu of that independence, we will be asking to be updated on the progress of Operation Herne every three months. This must include the number and nature of files still to review, costs, staffing, disciplinary proceedings, arrests made, and each time a family is identified and informed. We will publish this information on our website.

THE SECRET POLICE:

If you examine modern political history the state and criminals have always in many areas worked together Lee Harvey Oswald a former US marine JFK allegedly spent time in the U.S.S.R,there is absolutely no way this guy wasnt known to the FBI/CIA yuo couldnt get into USSR as American without being known at that time without being checked by US Government .So it is hypothetical on the rest of the unfolding history of Oswald.The book Black Mass deals with the FBI and criminals again on how the state recruited criminals as the title of the book states the true story of an unholy alliance between the FBI and the IRISH Mob,Terror Inc explains how Bin Laden worked for the CIA.Jack Ruby killed Lee Harvey Oswald inside of Dallas Police Station.I would state that this killing was aided with the Secret Police.

The secret police have been well known through American and European history however the British Secret Police isnt a subject that the left wing Anarcho or even the main media has picked up on, incidentally Vladimir Puttin was a former KGB member.The british have always put the clamps on exposing the Secret Police within Britain.I guess the first book of any worthy note was Fifty Dead Men Walking alleged true story of Secret Police in the North of Ireland war,and of course last years Undercover authors Paul Lewis and Rob Evans.What I would like to explain here exclusively is that The British Secret Police have no "real" structure that can be identified as there are different forms of Secret Police within the British Police itself and to stipulate who how and ware would be critical to their operations, from the book Undercover you would think they are all assigned to Departments CRAP! there are diiferent types of Secret Police in britain and the last thing anyone will ever find out about them is exactly how they operate thats because many Secret Police in the past originate from other Government bodies such as Army and Naval intelligence.The books title Undercover is a real crafty title let me explain here undercover cops ARE NOT SECRET POLICE.Undercover is a police term for operations required without being known plain clothes being used etc ,the secret police is a whole different ballgame.Secret Police are exactly that and are accountable to Mi5 they do give Mi5 information and intellence despite what people tell you.

SECRET POLICE OPERATIONS

The secret Police have been and are involved in such things as Jury selection,DNA Plants,Forensic Plants, covert operations using force dirty trix etc and most importantly MAINTAINING LISTS AND BLACKLISTS.The Secret Police require their own private clients and "army" of civilians that they themselves organise and misuse so to speak their list include individuals,companies ,socities ,clubs you name it.Say for an example the police themselves need protection you have a word with the Secret Police these chaps can get 500 civilians within half an hour phoneing up newspapers other police station Embassies you name it getting a person or an organisation named and listed and put up on crime lines.the Secret Police in the U.K are directly involved in how Capitalism functions as they have companies who work for them that are extremely powerfull and rich and youll never find out who works for them because that would be naming companies connected to and working onbehlf of organisation such as MI5.The types of British police stations that the secret Police were infamously famous for were in South and North London Camberwell police station,Stockwell,Stoke newington.these areas were always "hot beds" for political activity. Many crimes in the UK remain unsolved purposely because the secret police over the years can manipulate person and write suspects into unsolved crime thus "feeding" civilians and alleged private companies by allowing these people to continually follow people that are kept surreptitiously upon lists, you can have hundreds of suspects held on data based/lists as suspects of the same crime especially if it hasn't been solved for a considerable amount of time.

I take it you (or David Dundale whoever that may be) have never seen the espionage magazines in W H Smiths, or more lefty ones like Lobster magazine or Notes from the Borderland in particular which has named MI5 contractors?

Who denies the existence of British domestic intelligence agencies? It's on Wikipedia here https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Template:UK_Intelligence_Agencies.

There is also Special branch https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Special_Branch

The head of intelligence agencies is now publicly announced and the headquarters has even been used in James Bond films.

Cardiff Anarchist Group unmasked Mark Kennedy as a secret police officer almost 5 years ago. David Shayler was making statements almost 20 years ago about the political nature of MI5. Spycatcher was saying similar things almost 30 years ago. Marx was unmasking Karl Vogt over 150 years ago.

To claim this is revelatory is a lie.

Jondwhite's own input has exposed the existence of the Secret police in U.K. you have to admit that there has been something of a news blackout to this specific subject of the existence of the Secret Police in mainstream media in UK also you have to question some of the sources in Lobster that you have mentioned some stories are kinda weird noy socialist anarch based correct me if I am wrong also they don't really let you on activities as David Dundale has demonstrated

THE SECRET POLICE AND MAFIA (SECRET POLICE UNDERCOVER DEPARTMENT)

If you observe the content of this page you will notice that the press and the police complaints people in uk acknowledge the exsistance of the Secret Police.

Ok now understand the following that there are MI5 contractors and companies that work for the Secret Police themselves also individuals are citizens,remember here that this site has shown civilians working for the police!!!!These people or at least some of them are MAFIA and they dont it for free do they?.Now the point making here is that how do you or any of us know if there sending this information ANY where else?.This is how Tony Blair leaked everything out through the back door Tathead ufo spotter COLM SHAYLEAR in my mindis the type of person who has the power to expose this,my guess hes still working for them UNDERCOVER LIKE.As for Tony Blair,The Government knew it was going to be a labour Government if any one was a prime suspect as a coverted MI5 officer its im,I think from memory he wasnt going to stay in politics if he hadnt won election I also think he was also ex solicitor.as for Vladimir Puttin an ex secret Police officer a good example of how powerfull the Secret Police become and go on to lead the country

.The Secret Police in uk account for countless millions each year going missing youve got to understand that once the intelligence services get taken over by private contracting companies etc the power changes.You have all witnessed the Secret police in action through the IPCC last year the point here is that all these private companies start employing sub contractors and other alliances in the end every junkie bent cop criminal and middle class nazi ends up working for some form of reward and ware not even talking Muslim exteremists yet one other thing you dont know even who iam i could be David Dundale,Jwhite,raj ALB anyone this is freedom of Democray and it doesnt matter who leaks out how they all made there money as ALB quoted MI5 dont exactly have are best intrests at Hertford do they?and buy the time youve read this theyve all left the Secret Police with Tony Blairs dirty money living in other countries I would imagine that the FBI and everyone else will never recover over to you MIKE THE HEIST Tesco inc.

MI5 and MAFIA lists

MI5 are very much aware of lists they keep them however there are persons who work for the British Government who are of a different political ideology we need security against terrorists however the class sysytem in uk is based on privalage british intelligence are aware of heroin being taken into prisons so that prisoners and staff altered mi5 records by altering computer systems David Dundale has evidence of this and more of the mafia and military working together in uk add your comments here

Politics is quite simple really the people with the guns maintain it,without force you would not have democracy,in every alleged democracy you find fascists you find them in Government in the police in the intelligence service and in the public also in other organisations the simplest way of describing lists to some one in the uk was and still is the Northern ireland conflict were both uda and ira held lists of people they were trying to kill,in london they have many weird and wonderfull organisations that keep lists on people.however through my experiance in life fascists work with each other so fascists in ireland work with fascists in america and uk and the fascists that do exist who work in government control them. Fascists arent always white look at Gadaffi,husein ok they werent subscribed to the same principles as white fascists however what they did to their own people was fascist full stop period.

One form of fascism is when people maintin silence of what they know is going on around them,my personal beef with An Phoblacht for example in eire ireland is that they have a news paper and dont report the bourgeois nazis you find in the republic of ireland who have gained financially on keeping people on lists, the same nazis that the queen of England and the fbi and cia employ to do their dirt for them, you understand their a club of nazis mainting lists on people.(sic not all employees of MI5 and cia are nazis i apologise for this however why aint they reporting the others who are??)

ok so how are lists maintained,this is done through privilege,i had some dirty trixster(nazi) steal some of my own political work one piece was on privilege,it took my person a day to write it and some bd a few seconds to remove.Privilege in the uk is something the working class political rags/papers(class bore dam rcp etc) dont really constructively examine or point out in writing, it accounts for countless of billions in cash in uk alone that has surreptitiously appeared and disappeared over the last 2 decades, many people con the masses into believing they worked for there wealth CRAP! your privilege got you it...Anyhow privilege means I get a job in LIDLs supermarket and all I do all day is talk aboat the same guy that buys his food there and gets himself filmed, the lidl video then gets sent to a bent cop through a security company as a suspected fraud credit card user on a crimeline and then this gets the man followed around town for the next six months, wether hes guilty of owning false cards or not, this is working class privilege because you dont get to keep your job unless you participate in looking for guys who can be followed. Drug users talk aboat this guy being wanted as a fraudster in exchange for putting him up on mobile phones and get free drugs for saying this on phone lines,the drug addict gets driving licences sent to their flats and exchanges them for more heroin the cops work for the bent solicitors who protect the driving licence holder from being prosecuted who gets i can write a book on this subject however any 2 bit cop or junkie can tell you how middle class nazis in london get all there credit card bills waved through , all the false credit cards the police and banks are telling us aboat each year account for a percentage of priviledge gained credit cards involving drug users morgage defaulters and bent cops end of story full stop period.The fascists at the top white wash credit crime over a number of years with politicians signing secret service contracts so nobody gets found, whilst cash back mike the heist from tesco inc. all change their names again and all go for a nice long walk.

once your on a list you cant function properly as a person just ask any former kgb agent or eastern european police officer from the 1990s it is against human rights law and fascistic to keep people on lists and believe me it is a well known technique used by certain police and mi5/cia operatives who have used both successfully and (un)succesfully for many years

I have researched the internet in crime sites and political sites and nowhere can i find articles by people explaining MI5 and mafia lists,remember you can only carry on for so long before MI5 find out about it or themselves are a part of it simply explained you cant be a continual suspect to a crime without the police ruling you out so again its evidence of people being held continuously on lists in order to maintain a structure based around fascism and crime in order to maintain privilege and gain capital from it, if your getting stopped and searched all the time by the police your on a list full stop period.

so why the silence why doesnt anybody acknowledge lists held in the uk? good question id be very suprised if a single politician or solicitor bothers to reply to this article by adding a reply

My name is David Dundale I do not in any way support any form of terrorism against Israel United states or Britain support peace in Ireland and want peace between muslims and Jews and DO NOT TOLERATE RACISM OR FASCISM, I condemn certain former MI5 operatives for working with fascists in Europe and maintaining lists that formed the base of muslim terrorism and allowing records held by the Government of Britain to be used by drug cartels and middle class nazis in uk and Ireland to financially gain through privilege.Thanx to spud for allowing me to use his web site I am not a member of SPGB and afford the public to condemn movements that promote fascism as i have.

I'm afraid it is not that simple. While capitalist control of production rests ultimately on their control of political power (and its guns), it is also, sadly, the case that capitalist society is mainly kept going by the pro-capitalist ideas most people hold. As the anarcho-communist Alexander Berkman put it:

Quote:

Our social institutions are founded on certain ideas; as long as the latter are generally believed, the institutions built on them are safe. Government remains strong because people think political authority and legal compulsion necessary. Capitalism will continue as long as such an economic system is considered adequate and just.

This means that the most subversive of capitalism activity that socialists can engage in is undermining these ideas by constant criticism of them. Which is what we in the Socialist Party are doing. When a sufficient number have rejected capitalist ideas then capitalism's days are numbered, even if they do initially still have guns but a socialist majority can take these away from them by winning control of political power itself.

You are right that under capitalism democracy is distorted by all sorts of things, including the secret services and their activities. I'm not sure that "fascism" is the right word to describe this. A better term would be "authoritarianism" or something like that. After all, these practices existed before historical fascism. In fact the word "fascism" should probably be confined to the inter-war period in Central and Southern Europe.

article that deserves further political debate, the article you refer to is itself sketchy and has been produced not for my own self pity or want of political recognition however an absolute necessity, the very subject itself for example of "privilege" within this article is what I would gracefully ask you to address. It is so painful within my mind watching even the working class itself falling into this abyss.I perceive upper working class, lower working class,middle working class now becoming an issue within the very proletariat itself and how it is structured.I recently read an article written by none other than Gerry Adams TD Sinn Fein in the Metro daily free newspaper,im not hear to promote or endorse in any way this man however the observation I made within his article was a strong reference to "priviledge".I believe this is a good statrtting point as an example of a politicians different perceptions in politics over what "priviledge" is within politics itself , Mr Adams refernces were to the abolishment of Seanad (part of the Irish Government). I would like to clearly state that his paper An Phoblacht has had more than enough time to expose the upper middle class bourgeois Nazi reclaiming land and running private armies within the Republic of Ireland and yet sadly there remains a complete void upon this subject or at least very little that surfaces within the internet issued by his party.I would like to remind the readers of this sub article that parts of The Republic of Ireland is modelling itself upon Serbian and Croatian inbred fascism based on the "privilege" system held by an increasing percentage of far right farmers land and building owners who are continually waging a war to keep the working class off the national land a clandestine war not to my knowledge mentioned by or even recognised by An Phoblact and that this secret war has remarkable similarities between travellers in the uk and how they have been spied upon and kept on lists.Priviledge in uk society is a sinister and ever growing cancer and like fascism needs a victim most people gain from others loss,Librarians,bus drivers,post office workers are quite often used to keep people on lists and often work with mafia and secret service ajents in creating "priviledge" the real culprits are the far right type of home office workers who get extra perks and alleged private buisnessmen in society getting presents.The list is endless however without this form of system there wouldnt be lists.the sicialian mafia,the stasi,the mob in New York all keep lists and all connected to Politicians and Paramilitary groups even football violence and gangs in London are all controlled by insiders and fascists and keep lists of rivals and enemies.Without priviledge British Government wouldnt function .The Monarchy itself is the most rancid form of structured privilege that you can percieve within a country.Finally the BBC last year exposed the British Military investigating Heroin found on ther own planes flying from Afghanastan,the prison service provided free Heroin to inmates in Tony Blairs leadership in exchange for helping the prison officers to write prison reports that were later on published on their own prison computer systems and then in turn napstered extrnally by police and mi5.Basically heroin was used by the British state and still is to rewrite political history,the type of dirty trix reports created or generated like this account for creating lists of men who could account for intelligence,suspected un solved crimes,suspected quantities of hidden or none recovered money and items suspected identy firearms political persuasion once again thanx to SPUD and David Dundale former Bullingdon for this info

There is a large amountbt of evidence held by the ISI in Pakistan itself of Tony Blairs Government being involved in the illegal importation of a quantity of drugs.I can confirm that AL-QAEDA kept its own secret lists of its own soldiers.I believe that in Britain they have similar sytems that are against Human rights law I hope this answers your question Brian

I know British intelligence keep lists on as many people as they can, that's their main job. If there's evidence British Intelligence such as MI5 co-operate with the Mafia in the heroin trade, then so what? Are we supposed to be surprised British intelligence doesn't have our best interests at heart?

Incidentally blacklisting has been covered even in the mainstream media as recently as a couple of months ago

<http://www.theguardian.com/business/2013/oct/12/police-blacklist-construction-workers-watchdog>

<http://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2013/aug/20/blacklisting-activists-human-rights-inquiry>

I don't understand why terrorism against countries such as Israel, United states or Britain in particular is highlighted as something you don't support.

My problem with common internet narratives such as these are that either

- they limit us to an honest transparent capitalism as the best human nature can achieve (Black Mass by John Gray, Terror Inc. by Loretta Napoleoni, David Dundale's one internet comment I found from Googling him)
- they fundamentally disempower workers by asserting they are powerless, whereas I think it can be demonstrated that the working-class can emancipate themselves and there are particular ways to do it.

I'm not saying parapolitical activities don't happen but they aren't all-powerful and pulling the strings of everything. Nor should we take them on hearsay or suspend normal judgment of evidence.

article that deserves further political debate, the article you refer to is itself sketchy and has been produced not for my own self pity or want of political recognition however an absolute necessity, the very subject itself for example of "privilege" within this article is what I would gracefully ask you to address. It is so painful within my mind watching even the working class itself falling into this abyss.I perceive upper working class, lower working class,middle working class now becoming an issue within the very proletariat itself and how it is structured.I recently read an article written by none other than Gerry Adams TD Sinn Fein in the Metro daily free newspaper,im not hear to promote or endorse in any way this man however the observation I made within his article was a strong reference to "priviledge".I believe this is a good statrtng point as an example of a politicians different perceptions in politics over what "priviledge" is within politics itself , Mr Adams refernces were to the abolishment of Seanad (part of the Irish Government). I would like to clearly state that his paper An Phoblacht has had more than enough time to expose the upper middle class bourgeois Nazi reclaiming land and running private armies within the Republic of Ireland and yet sadly there remains a complete void upon this subject or at least very little that surfaces within the internet issued by his party.I would like to remind the readers of this sub article that parts of The Republic of Ireland is modelling itself upon Serbian and Croatian inbred fascism based on the "privilege" system held by an increasing percentage of far right farmers land and building owners who are continually waging a war to keep the working class off the national land a clandestine war not to my knowledge mentioned by or even recognised by An Phoblact and that this secret war has remarkable similarities between travellers in the uk and how they have been spied upon and kept on lists.Priviledge in uk society is a sinister and ever growing cancer and like fascism needs a victim most people gain from others loss,Librarians,bus drivers,post office workers are quite often used to keep people on lists and often work with mafia and secret service ajents in creating "priviledge" the real culprits are the far right type of home office workers who get extra perks and alleged private buisnessmen in society getting presents.The list is endless however without this form of system there wouldnt be lists.the sicialian mafia,the stasi,the mob in New York all keep lists and all connected to Politicians and Paramilitary groups even football violence and gangs in London are all controlled by insiders and fascists and keep lists of rivals and enemies.Without priviledge British Government wouldnt function .The Monarchy itself is the most rancid form of structured privilege that you can percieve within a country.Finally the BBC last year exposed the British Military investigating Heroin found on ther own planes flying from Afghanastan,the prison service provided free Heroin to inmates in Tony Blairs leadership in exchange for helping the prison officers to write prison reports that were later on published on their own prison computer systems and then in turn napstered extrnally by police and mi5.Basically heroin was used by the British state and still is to rewrite political history,the type of dirty trix reports created or generated like this account for creating lists of men who could account for intelligence,suspected un solved crimes,suspected quantities of hidden or none recovered money and items suspected identy firearms political persuasion once again thanx to SPUD and David Dundale former Bullingdon for this info

There is a large amounbt of evidence held by the ISI in Pakistan itself of Tony Blairs Government being involved in the illegal importation of a quantity of drugs.I can confirm that AL-QAEDA kept its own secret lists of its own soldiers.I believe that in Britain they have similar sytems that are against Human rights law I hope this answers your question Brian

I know British intelligence keep lists on as many people as they can, that's their main job. If there's evidence British Intelligence such as MI5 co-operate with the Mafia in the heroin trade, then so what? Are we supposed to be surprised British intelligence doesn't have our best interests at heart?

Incidentally blacklisting has been covered even in the mainstream media as recently as a couple of months ago

<http://www.theguardian.com/business/2013/oct/12/police-blacklist-construction-workers-watchdog>

<http://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2013/aug/20/blacklisting-activists-human-rights-inquiry>

I don't understand why terrorism against countries such as Israel, United states or Britain in particular is highlighted as something you don't support.

My problem with common internet narratives such as these are that either

- they limit us to an honest transparent capitalism as the best human nature can achieve (Black Mass by John Gray, Terror Inc. by Loretta Napoleoni, David Dundale's one internet comment I found from Googling him)
- they fundamentally disempower workers by asserting they are powerless, whereas I think it can be demonstrated that the working-class can emancipate themselves and there are particular ways to do it.

I'm not saying parapolitical activities don't happen but they aren't all-powerful and pulling the strings of everything. Nor should we take them on hearsay or suspend normal judgment of evidence.

MI5 and MAFIA lists

MI5 are very much aware of lists they keep them however there are persons who work for the British Government who are of a different political ideology we need security against terrorists however the class sysytem in uk is based on privalage british intelligence are aware of heroin being taken into prisons so that prisoners and staff altered mi5 records by altering computer systems David Dundale has evidence of this and more of the mafia and military working together in uk add your comments here

Politics is quite simple really the people with the guns maintain it,without force you would not have democracy,in every alleged democracy you find fascists you find them in Government in the police in the intelligence service and in the public also in other organisations the simplest way of describing lists to some one in the uk was and still is the Northern ireland conflict were both uda and ira held lists of people they were trying to kill,in london they have many weird and wonderfull organisations that keep lists on people.however through my experiance in life fascists work with each other so fascists in ireland work with fascists in america and uk and the fascists that do exist who work in government control them. Fascists arent always white look at Gadaffi,husein ok they werent subscribed to the same principles as white fascists however what they did to their own people was fascist full stop period.

One form of fascism is when people maintin silence of what they know is going on around them,my personal beef with An Phoblacht for example in eire ireland is that they have a news paper and dont report the bourgeois nazis you find in the republic of ireland who have gained financially on keeping people on lists, the same nazis that the queen of England and the fbi and cia employ to do their dirt for them, you understand their a club of nazis mainting lists on people.(sic not all employees of MI5 and cia are nazis i apologise for this however why aint they reporting the others who are??)

ok so how are lists maintained,this is done through privilege,i had some dirty trixster(nazi) steal some of my own political work one piece was on privilege,it took my person a day to write it and some bd a few seconds to remove.Privilege in the uk is something the working class political rags/papers(class bore dam rcp etc) dont really constructively examine or point out in writing, it accounts for countless of billions in cash in uk alone that has surreptitiously appeared and disappeared over the last 2 decades, many people con the masses into believing they worked for there wealth CRAP! your privilege got you it...Anyhow privilege means I get a job in LIDLs supermarket and all I do all day is talk aboat the same guy that buys his food there and gets himself filmed, the lidl video then gets sent to a bent cop through a security company as a suspected fraud credit card user on a crimeline and then this gets the man followed around town for the next six months, wether hes guilty of owning false cards or not, this is working class privilege because you dont get to keep your job unless you participate in looking for guys who can be followed. Drug users talk aboit this guy being wanted as a fraudster in exchange for putting him up on mobile phones and get free drugs for saying this on phone lines,the drug addict gets driving licences sent to their flats and exchanges them for more heroin the cops work for the bent solicitors who protect the driving licence holder from being prosecuted who gets i can write a book on this subject however any 2 bit cop or junkie can tell you how middle class nazis in london get all there credit card bills waved through , all the false credit cards the police and banks are telling us aboat each year account for a percentage of priviledge gained credit cards involving drug users morgage defaulters and bent cops end of story full stop period.The fascists at the top white wash credit crime over a number of years with politicians signing secret service contracts so nobody gets found, whilst cash back mike the heist from tesco inc. all change their names again and all go for a nice long walk.

once your on a list you cant function properly as a person just ask any former kgb agent or eastern european police officer from the 1990s it is against human rights law and fascistic to keep people on lists and believe me it is a well known technique used by certain police and mi5/cia operatives who have used both successfully and (un)succesfully for many years

I have researched the internet in crime sites and political sites and nowhere can i find articles by people explaining MI5 and mafia lists,remember you can only carry on for so long before MI5 find out about it or themselves are a part of it simply explained you cant be a continual suspect to a crime without the police ruling you out so again its evidence of people being held continuously on lists in order to maintain a structure based around fascism and crime in order to maintain privilege and gain capital from it, if your getting stopped and searched all the time by the police your on a list full stop period.

so why the silence why doesnt anybody acknowledge lists held in the uk? good question id be very suprised if a single politician or solicitor bothers to reply to this article by adding a reply

My name is David Dundale I do not in any way support any form of terrorism against Israel United states or Britain support peace in Ireland and want peace between muslims and Jews and DO NOT TOLERATE RACISM OR FASCISM, I condemn certain former MI5 operatives for working with fascists in Europe and maintaining lists that formed the base of muslim terrorism and allowing records held by the Government of Britain to be used by drug cartels and middle class nazis in uk and Ireland to financially gain through privilege.Thanx to spud for allowing me to use his web site I am not a member of SPGB and afford the public to condemn movements that promote fascism as i have.

I'm afraid it is not that simple. While capitalist control of production rests ultimately on their control of political power (and its guns), it is also, sadly, the case that capitalist society is mainly kept going by the pro-capitalist ideas most people hold. As the anarcho-communist Alexander Berkman put it:

Quote:

Our social institutions are founded on certain ideas; as long as the latter are generally believed, the institutions built on them are safe. Government remains strong because people think political authority and legal compulsion necessary. Capitalism will continue as long as such an economic system is considered adequate and just.

This means that the most subversive of capitalism activity that socialists can engage in is undermining these ideas by constant criticism of them. Which is what we in the Socialist Party are doing. When a sufficient number have rejected capitalist ideas then capitalism's days are numbered, even if they do initially still have guns but a socialist majority can take these away from them by winning control of political power itself.

You are right that under capitalism democracy is distorted by all sorts of things, including the secret services and their activities. I'm not sure that "fascism" is the right word to describe this. A better term would be "authoritarianism" or something like that. After all, these practices existed before historical fascism. In fact the word "fascism" should probably be confined to the inter-war period in Central and Southern Europe.

Inquiry Exposes Three More Spycops

posted by Steve Sweeney in Britain

Probe chairman says more identities will be revealed

THREE more spycops' identities were exposed yesterday by the public inquiry into undercover police operations.

The inquiry is investigating the behaviour of police officers who infiltrated left-wing political groups over a 40-year period.

It is the first time that the inquiry, chaired by Sir John Mitting, has revealed the names used by officers who were working on undercover spy missions.

Those who have previously been uncovered as spies were unmasked by campaigners who became suspicious of their activities.

Last month it was revealed that 250 police officers spied on over 1,000 campaign organisations since the late 1960s.

These included trade unions, environmental campaigns, anti-racist groups, peace activists and even the grieving parents of murder victims.

One of the spies exposed yesterday went by the name of "Rick Gibson" who infiltrated the left-wing organisation Big Flame and played a leading role in the Troops Out Movement, which opposed Britain's campaign in the north of Ireland.

He was active between 1974 and 1976 before his cover was almost blown after activists found a death certificate that appeared to show he had died as a young child.

The undercover police spy — who has since died — told the group that he used the fake identity to evade police capture.

However the spycop operation regularly used the birth certificates of dead children to obtain official documents including passports and other forms of identification for undercover police officers.

Another of the spies went by the name "Doug Edwards" who infiltrated a number of groups including the Independent Labour Party. To his comrades, he was working as a long-distance lorry driver.

He told the inquiry: "Some of the people in these groups were really nice, pleasant, intelligent people. They were different politically in their views, but in this country you can have different political views."

The third spy used the moniker "John Graham" and targeted anti-war groups in the late 1960s.

He was active in west London branches of the Vietnam Solidarity Campaign, a group that organised large demonstrations in London including the protest at the US embassy in Grosvenor Square.

ANDREW DEDMAN MI5

BELOW BRITISH INTELLIGENCE NUCLEAR BUNKER (HERFORD,UK) PART OF ANDREW DEDMANS OPERATIONAL AREA IN NORTH LONDON.

The web site detailed below is where you can find more information on Andrew Dedman :

<https://socialistpartygreatbritain.wordpress.com>

Andrew Dedman left The British Army and joined the British Police, it is believed he was transferred because mathematically the badge number he was allocated to use as a police officer, (every police officer has their own badge or identity number on the "force") was 1001 ! the emphasis here is the actual mathematical chances of owning this badge number in the British Police are practically ZERO its a computation that runs into many hundreds of thousands, as there are many hundreds of thousands of police officers so we believe it was a badge number on "Stand by". As we all know 1001 is a British expression or phrase only in this particular persons instance its a thousand and one misuses as opposed to uses. Andrew Dedman by name and nature was not a regular police officer. The name itself is an anagram of ...and your a deadman... A typically sinister calling card left on police files, court paperwork etc researchers who quite often browse through British Intelligence files and Police Intelligence files would "lock" onto the "coding" of coming across a name of DEATH 1001. Because of his initial location a town known as Hertford, Hertfordshire where he worked as a mere detective constable it is thought that he was part of an undercover military unit within the police or even a secret police officer, that is a police officer who has different roles, his expertise and British Army knowledge would have made him prime time for the job,still being able to work with the British Army itself.This is because 20-30 years ago Hertford was the quintessential mi5 village situauted far enough outside of Londons capital served with two railway stations(not many towns in UK have two railway stations!)the British railway station from Hertford actually takes trains right inside of the tube station underground!!! Moorgate station to be prescise so this made security arrangements for MI5 workers less hassle to get around.Hertford itself is a rabbit warren a complete Maze, it had one of only three types of emergency nuclear underground base stations this can be found on google by typing <http://www.urbexdevil.co.uk/srhq-4-2-regional-government-bunker/> the Town has hundreds of inter connected footpaths,there everywhere,canals,rivers,viaducts,lakes,wooded areas nearby now abandoned air strip...the list goes on and on just look at google maps and everything within 5 miles radius of Hertford itself on the map and twenty years ago the place was a lot more quite and the police where right good chaps.Andrew Dedman for his sins was a nasty right winger who tampered and experimented with systems and law probably the type that was very much aware of people like Oswald Moseley infact Dedman looks remarkably similar to this man.He was a brutually cold police officer across between a ferret and British Army stiff upper lip type although the kind of skinny/medium type build chap that you would find camping somewhere in the middle of the Brecon Beacons eating worms and rumours surfacing on the net indicate he left the police and was found by mossaud agents living in Turkey they apparently got real personal by naming him a man with American armed force tattoos on his left arm on an alleged IDF site in Israel.Dedman probably is part of a sinister network of espionage/crime/drugs as Turkey is not the sort of place a person would willingly live in being British Born no offence to the Turkish people here but it isn't many folks ideal port of call,hes either hiding there or working or both and probably for both sides at the same time if you know what I mean....Dedman tampered with the British Police force PNC computer system leaving a trail of disinformation behind him the extent of which will probably remain another mi5 well kept secret,these types of police officers have been involved in creating DATA BANKS which are not only used by police but Diplomats and British Intelligence which is part of creating the capitalist infrastructure of Britain itself all information is a tradeable commodity and at some point ends up in the Kremlin or Washington.Some folk say that the only thing that's secret about mi5 is where they live and how much money they earn each year everything else goes through the back door in one form or another....sorry chaps but that's the word...Dedman was involved in programming prisoners and the British mafia and Dedman itself is more a ring of pirates or network of people including criminals that help maintain protection within Britain.

WIKI LEAKS IRELANDS CIA OPERATIONS

Wed, 16/11/2016 - 12:09pm — London CT

- Rubbish bin [1]

The all American Illuminati are using the services of another order known as Irelands "Old Guard" this organisation is so deeply rooted that it cant be bypassed. Corrupt Diplomats and corrupt politicians form the dna make up of some of the members of this organisation/order whom over the last decades have operated under a blanket of secrecy as powerfull as the illuminati itself frequently violating international laws behind closed doors,one very good example is British Intelligence service placing British doctors inside of the Midlands Prison in the Republic of Ireland. As countries such as America privately buy their way into the Republic of Ireland CIA expenditure becomes politically obvious aswell as an unavoidable residue which leaves other law enforcement agencies such as the FBI no alternative but to become clandestine and renegade in their operations within the Republic of Ireland. A book called Black Mass written by Dick Lehr, Gerard O Neil explains clearly how the FBI recruited criminals (the mob) into their own workings, the powers that be have exported the same ideas to the Republic of Ireland where a collective of entities can more or less be categorised as being Irelands equivoalent. Far right wing farmers (in control of land mass), Failed and illegal tax loss companies (more ground base knowledge than FBI), Former Political activists(Intelligence and logistics), Drug Cartels(state enforced violence) are being recruited to work for the FBI in areas that include surveillance of undesirables. The Feds provide their badges to protect the illegals read aboat in the newspapers and other operations, information on undesirables filters back to the FBI through organisations such as Pearse Street Garda Station (Irish Police). Bent cops Bent Solicitors are all protected by the FBI along with judges and politicians and even if illegals are used to get evidence that is excepted.

Undesirable categorisation can often be generated on computer systems by various persons in various countries for example British home Office workers following alleged British Tax evaders in the Republic of Ireland can get names forwarded to FBI agents. Their are certain politically sensative areas within the republic of Ireland both on land and within buisness were this categorisation of person is becoming more and more predominant and getting black listed is becoming increasingly easier as the far right within Ireland become more desperate in keeping control over their ill gotten gains. President Trump himself has invested heavily into such areas before being voted in, he owns both land property and buisnesses including Golf courses in Ireland and so it would be obvious to the reader why certain undeeseirables in their minds are not welcome. President John F Kennedy was of Irish decent and used many methods to gain political control, Bill Clinton on the other hand has many vested and private interests within the Republic of Ireland, his own organisation the Clinton Foundation (long suspected of having CIA financing) recruited Irelands richest man Dennis O Brien into their mists.

Dennis Obrien owns newspapers, radio programs, security companies, petrol companies, telecommunications companies. The book recently published called Clinton Cash written by Peter Schweizer explains how OBrien gave Clinton a quater of a million Euro sum of money to attend private parties in Ireland and give talks over dinner. A person cant join the Clinton foundation you are hand picked the organisation itself carries out work such as building hospitals and schools in politically sensative countries yet between them both they cant build much needed hospitals and schools in Ireland . Exports are low in Ireland and offshore a rapidly new expanding sphere so espionage in Ireland is becoming a profitable buisness with countries such as Russia South America and China expanding operations into new territory that physically joins onto British land mass. Areas such as shopping centres, libraries train stations, bus stops are effectively areas that require surveillance for example the working class and middle class in Ireland are pathetically apathetic to exposing political antidotes on wifi systems within libraries however if you attempt to rock the boat using a wifi system in an Irish library its not a reccomendation. The old guard use intermediates as part of their own structure however these same intermediates are also used by the FBI that way information flows in different directions,intermediates can include,doctors,solicitors,farmers,land owners,Irish Police,librarians,alleged buisnessmen,drug cartelshealth board officials,military,judges

Published on The Socialist Party of Great Britain (<http://www.worldsocialism.org/spgb>)

This article has been produced because of the high level of Eastern European activity within Ireland.The Chinese and eastern Europeans are creating Irsh history and quite often clash in political ideology with the old guard and the FBI.The modus operandi of the old guard has been over the last few decades a darkly kept secret hopefully this articles sheds light on who really controls this country that sits on Britains border.

MI6 under fire from GSOC mole

GSOC AND FURTHER GOVERNMENT SECRECY

On Sunday 6/7/2014 Sunday times published an article by Conor Brady a former GSOC Commisioner,a very powerfull and informative piece of journalism, outlining what the new Garda Siochana (amendment) act 2014 will bring into power for the "New GSOC".

Unfortunately however when certain Breaches in security itself have been identified and require legal solutions hypothetical anaylsis and parameters surrounding evidence itself become meaningless,once a state of security becomes obtainable.Infact the Irish Independent announced on the front cover of its newspaper on June 12th this year "HUNT FOR MOLE WHO BREACHED SECURITY AT GARDA WATCHDOG" make no hesitation GSOC called in the lawyers with a view to a kill.

Whilst certain members of "think tanks" have designs and ideas that are catapulting forward at incomprehensible speeds regarding GSOC new look and future.This articlele intends to freeze the big picture and put into context what security means within real issues.

In policing and CIA work security breaches allow emmediate sequestration regardless of court proceedings.Simon o Brien chairman of GSOC has been exposed by wiki forces as a former British Police Officer,arguable all the ingriedents for further speculation infact many here in Ireland are calling for his resignation and for many obvious reasons.

Final point here when security breaches are legally established in Banks ,Government buildings, then the Security Industry always presumes assumption that if its happened already then its happened before.Gsoc and the Irish Government are of no consequence within the papameters of GSOCs breaches within security issues itself, because without arrest or convictions over alleged GSOC Breaches within law itself in our domain we now have the affirmative right to determine that other formats of data and intelligence have been removed without the publics knowledge or consent breaching human rights.Force majeure.

Denis O Brien richest man in Ireland buying into mi6 intelligence.

Well where back to where we started folks,who exactly controls what? and who cares? There is a very nast man denis Obrien hes been caught red handed buying up lots of companies over the last few years that owe money to Banks however what the press in europe has forgot to tell us is that he works for the CIA.At first this may seem a bit brash however furthjer erm research into denis shows us that hes a close friend of former US president Bill Clinton so close infact that he is a member of the Bill Clinton Foundation!

Bill Clinton has been buying intelligence with pentagon money.....O Brien does deals with banks intelligence held by security companies in exchange for debt write offs theres plenty of evidence upon the internert of O briens activities and this means all the mi6 files irish companies can hack into infact much buisness in ireland and other countries sucks intelligence out of Britains secretly held data files...

American lawyer Larry Klayman has filed a USD 20 trillion lawsuit against China for the creation and the release of the novel coronavirus that has infected more than 334,000 people globally.

Larry Klayman, his advocacy group Freedom Watch and Buzz Photos, a Texas company, filed the lawsuit in the US District Court for the Northern District of Texas, alleging that the novel coronavirus was "designed by China to be a biological weapon of war", and that whether or not the country intended to release it, China violated "US law, international laws, treaties, and norms."

"Because China has agreed by treaty to outlaw such weapons, these actions cannot be official governmental actions of the People's Republic of China and are not subject to any possible claim of legal immunity from suit," the lawsuit said, as cited by Law and Crime.

It went on to allege that the purpose of maintaining the virus within the laboratory was to use it to "kill US citizens and other persons and entities in nations perceived to be an enemy of China."

The virus, which first originated in the Chinese city of Wuhan, has spread 189 countries or territories, infected more than 334,000 people and killed over 14,500, as per the latest data available on the World Health Organisation website.

"COVID-19 is an extremely dangerous disease because it has an extremely aggressive nature, was designed to mutate from person to person, spreads very quickly and easily, no vaccine exists yet on account of it being a new disease, the means of transmission are not fully known with certainty, and treatments are only just being worked out, and the disease appears to be about ten times as deadly as the flu," the lawsuit read.

It said that the lawsuit was designed by China such as to be an effective and catastrophic biological warfare weapon to kill mass populations.

Am I going down the Google plughole of alternative sites?

Facebook Plugin Might Stop You Reading My Articles

By Dark Politricks

Tonight I did what I used to do when my own server was up and running quite a lot, and that was search on Google for sites that were linking to me.

You can just put site: [sitename] into Google or many other search engines search box and it will return a list of sites that mention the site you have listed.

So I did a search for site: darkpolitricks.com and had a peruse at my leisure to see what BS had been written about me.

Of course I am a Russian Agent that pushes evil ex-commie propaganda on you all, that seems like a given from some of the sites I looked at. It must be due to me not pushing the "lets have a war with Russia" neo-con/neo-liberal line that seems to wash over much of the US governing elite at the moment.

Hey I admit it. I don't want to burn to a crisp in a nuclear holocaust. I do apologise to any blogger out there that thinks I have a pro-Russian bias. I just don't believe Russia wants a nuclear war, and think your very stupid if you do want one.

Then I came across this site <https://getmxt.com/facebook-fake-news-list/> that talks about a Facebook Plugin designed to warn users if they click on a link taking them to one of 559 websites. It is a 3 year old article but then again my Facebook page for this site has been removed and I have had social media sites and communities removed in the blink of an eye without any consultation before so who knows what the kind Samaritan who apparently compiled the list thinks of me.

It seems that this good egg who compiled the list is one, Melissa Zimdars, an assistant professor of Communication and Media at Merrimack College. It is none other than she, that and I quote "compiled a list of the most egregious offenders".

Well I feel honoured to be considered Melissa. It seems I am worthy enough to be upon this list along with such evil doers as the Dudge Report, Russia Today and of course the rabid, evil views from Antwar.com.

It does say my site has a "(classification pending)" next to it, so maybe in the eyes of this author I am still to be labelled and put in a nice box for the authorities. However I also found this list of raw site URLs <https://raw.githubusercontent.com/BigMcLargeHuge/opensources/master/sources/sources.csv> which had me labelled down for "bias" and "conspiracy". Well I don't know what my bias is, but if it's that I am against a 3rd nuclear war, hate fake current and historical narratives and I'm not a "co-incidence theorist" then yes those labels are correct.

It seems this core list has been copied, and amended in some cases across numerous blogs claiming to have a list of "fake news sites", or "sites to be careful reading", whatever that means. If it's that you might find an alternative and possibly more correct view of an event than those spouted by the mainstream media outlets then yes.

I did find it amusing on the site to find under the category "State Run" just the two sites from the

About Dark Politricks

Dark Politricks is a site dedicated to investigating the dark side of politics including corruption, propaganda, the police state, war on terror, the intelligence services and their misdeeds, false flag attacks and much more. The site also promotes free speech, internet freedom and justice for all people. For an overview of my beliefs and political leanings please read this article.

Whereas the old site was also an information clearing house on top of my own work this blog is purely pieces I have put together myself.

Please help me continue my work and blogging now that I have been removed from my main platform by making a small contribution or donation here. Any amount would be much appreciated!

countries the US is currently pushing its propaganda for war with Russia Today and Iran's Press TV.

What I want to know is where was the BBC? You cannot get a more state run organisation than the BBC, a news broadcaster that has the backing of the government in forcing all live TV viewers to fork out over £150 per year to pay for a licence fee that funds the BBC's reporting.

Therefore it is something I expect, to be labelled a conspiracy theorist just because I don't believe in physics that says an aluminium plane cannot fly at 550mph just inches above the ground and punch it's way through 3 rings of re-enforced concrete as supposedly happened at the Pentagon on 9.11.

Oh and you must call me anti-Semitic for daring report what many US news stations did on the day of 9.11 about the dancing Israelis, flicking lighters and positioned where no-one else would know to be, filming the first plane hit the Twin Towers. Known Mossad agents who were released by the FBI without charge and went onto an Israeli TV show to claim that they were, "just documenting the event".

And I must be a "hate speech" site for daring to talk about how Israel is assassinating hundreds of Palestinians at the fence that divides them from their old stolen homes. Or how the Mossad stole British passports to use in their assassination of a Hamas leader in Dubai, or show the YouTube video recording of two IDF soldiers shooting 9 bullets into the back of an injured US citizen, Furkan Dogan, on their high seas attack on the Mavi Marmara.

Then of course I must fall into the most evil category at all as well. No-one can point out that Auschwitz itself has decreased the number of people that died within it's rebuilt walls from 6 million down to under a million without being a blatant liar and holocaust denier. I guess the people running the camp, and the historians who have lowered the number from a round perfect 6 million, a number that is stated in the Torah as the number of Jews who must die before they can return to Israel, must fall into the same category as me?

So what do to if these blogs and sites are correct, and my site is on these lists to be considered so dangerous as to warn anyone visiting that it's not a reliable source?

Well what we need is a real "Alternative News" search engine. I did attempt creating one on my old site, I basically just returned Google's results as DuckDuckGo.com does through a proxy server to remove all the trackers, and then I had a list of sites such as the BBC, MSBC, CNN and other "authoritative news sources" that I removed from the results.

However that server is not running anymore and I doubt anyone out there is going to create a real #altnews search engine. Therefore I am going to do the next best thing.

You might have noticed at the top of the site a new search box. It's not finished yet as I haven't had enough time to add all the sites I want. However seeing that these people are so desperate to not allow others to see content from this and other sites, and they have been so considerate to compile a list of sites so dangerous to visit. I think I will try to add this list, or as much of it as I can, to this search box and create a way for people to search purely alternative news sites.

They made me a nice list so it would be very rude not to make use of it. I just need some time to play around with the various search engine filters out there and hopefully you can bypass the BBC, CNN and all the pro-war establishment and conformative historical sites the compilers of this list don't want you to view. It might just help people get to the points of view that big brother and the establishment don't want you to hear.

I can only try, seeing that I might soon wash down Google and Facebook's, dirty sink plug, to the dark web not accessible by most search engines. Have a go, search for some of your favourite topics and see what the results are like.

Also if you have an ideas of sites or blogs not on this "blacklist" please let me know in the comments section and I will have a look and maybe add them to the search engine.

I think you totally missing the point of the article its not about COVID19 or MIS Agents or even Julian Assange its about free speech blogs like mine - a little blog like mine - being on a list of websites to ban by Google, Facebook and many others just because some US Professor deems the sites too dangerous to read - your little lily bitsy minds cannot handle thinking for yourself, don't worry though I will have a COVID19 conspiracy article up soon. Just getting more and more pissed off with the UK enacting laws lasting 2.5 years to combat something the Chinese miraculously cured in Wuhan within months. Maybe the 21 million Chinese Mobile Users is a sign that the death rates were drastically under reported but then China has bought loads of Western companies as their stocks fell in the global economic crisis caused by COVID19 and its a Police States wet dream to have a virus to use as an excuse to patrol streets fining people, not letting them out of their houses, detention for unspecified lengths of time, plus forced medication, and if the Hospital treats you wrong and you die alone with no family to see before your painful death you are cremated even if it goes against your families religious wishes and you can no longer sue the hospital for medical negligence. Plus it now only takes 1 person to sign a form and you can be indefinitely held in isolation or forced to have meds injected into you. I do find it funny that some Texas law firm is trying to sue China for $40billion, the Chinese won't pay, they have a new booming economy making respirators and protective suits to export to the west where we are all under stocked.

A former 7th Special Forces Group soldier and a West Virginia National Guard Special Forces soldier pleaded guilty Dec. 21 and Dec. 17, respectively, to two federal charges each of conspiracy to traffic cocaine, according to court documents and a release from the Justice Department. Former Master Sgt. Daniel Gould, 36, and Sgt. 1st Class Henry Royer, 35, had planned to smuggle 90 pounds of cocaine — about $1 million worth — on a military transport plane from Colombia to Eglin Air Force Base, Florida, according to federal court documents.

The discovery of the biggest haul of counterfeit coins in the history of the euro has sparked fears that the £2 coin could soon also be forged in China. The bi-metallic £2 coin, with its golden rim and silver centre, was thought to be more difficult to fake than pennies, or widely forged £1 coins. However, a major seizure of €500,000 worth of fake euro coins from China by Italian police has sparked concerns that forgers could next turn their skills to the £2 coin, which has a similar colouring to the €1 coin. Italian detectives were inspecting metal pipes in the port of Naples when they discovered the hoard of forged coins - the biggest seizure of fake coins in European history, The Times reported.

WE THE PEOPLE

EXPLORING THE DARK SIDE OF POLITICS AND THE WAR ON TERROR

#Altnews Search Engine

This interview with Usam bin-Laden was taken from the Pakistani newspaper Ummat and translated by the BBC. The interview was printed on Friday the 28th September 2001.

UMMAT: You have been accused of involvement in the attacks in New York and Washington. What do you want to say about this? If you are not involved, who might be?

USAMA BIN LADEN: In the name of Allah (God), the most beneficent, the most merciful. Praise be to Allah, Who is the creator of the whole universe and Who made the Earth as an abode for peace, for the whole humankind. Allah is the Sustainer, who sent Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) for our guidance. I am thankful to the Ummat Group of Publications, which gave me the opportunity to convey my viewpoint to the people, particularly the valiant and momin (true Muslim) people of Pakistan who refused to believe the lies of the demon (Pakistani military dictator General Pervez Musharraf).

I have already said that I am not involved in the 11 September attacks in the United States. As a Muslim, I try my best to avoid telling a lie. I had no knowledge of these attacks, nor do I consider the killing of innocent women, children and other humans as an appreciable act. Islam strictly forbids causing harm to innocent women, children and other people. Such a practice is forbidden even in the course of a battle. It is the United States, which is perpetrating every maltreatment on women, children and common people of other faiths, particularly the followers of Islam. All that is going on in Palestine for the last 11 months is sufficient to call the wrath of God upon the United States and Israel. There is also a warning for those Muslim countries, which witnessed all these as a silent spectator. What had earlier been done to the innocent people of Iraq, Chechnya and Bosnia? Only one conclusion could be derived from the indifference of the United States and the West to these acts of terror and the patronage of the tyrants by these powers that America is an anti-Islamic power and it is patronizing the anti-Islamic forces. Its friendship with the Muslim countries is just a show, rather deceit. By enticing or intimidating these countries, the United States is forcing them to play a role of its choice. Put a glance all around and you will see that the slaves of the United States are either rulers or enemies of Muslims.

The U.S. has no friends, nor does it want to keep any because the prerequisite of friendship is to come to the level of the friend or consider him at par with you. America does not want to see anyone equal to it. It expects slavery from others. Therefore, other countries are either its slaves or subordinates. However, our case is different. We have pledged slavery to God Almighty alone and after this pledge there is no possibility to become the slave of someone else. If we do that it will be disregarding to both our Sustainer and his fellow beings. Most of the world nations upholding their freedom are the religious ones, which are the enemies of the United States, or the U.S. itself considers them as its enemies.

The countries which do not agree to become the U.S. slaves are China, Iran, Libya, Cuba, Syria [Afghanistan, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Iraq, Sudan, Indonesia, Malaysia] and Russia. Whoever committed the act of 11 September are not the friends of the American people. I have already said that we are against the American system, not against its people, whereas in these attacks, the common American people have been killed. According to my information, the death toll is much higher than what the U.S. Government has stated. But the Bush Administration does not want the panic to spread. The United States should try to trace the perpetrators of these attacks within itself; the people who are a part of the U.S. system, but are dissenting against it. Or those who are working for some other system; persons who want to make the present century as a century of conflict between Islam and Christianity so that their own civilization, nation, country, or ideology could survive. They can be anyone, from Russia to Israel and from India to Serbia. In the U.S. itself, there are dozens of well-organized and well-equipped groups, which are capable of causing a large-scale destruction. Then you cannot forget the American-Jews, who are annoyed with President Bush ever since the elections in Florida and want to avenge him.

Then there are intelligence agencies in the U.S., which require billions of dollars worth of funds from the Congress and the government every year. This [funding issue] was not a big problem till the existence of the former Soviet Union but after that the budget of these agencies has been in danger. They needed an enemy. So, they first started propaganda against Usama and Taleban and then this incident happened. You see, the Bush Administration approved a budget of 40 billion dollars. Where will this huge amount go? It will be provided to the same agencies, which need huge funds and want to exert their importance. Now they will spend the money for their expansion and for increasing their importance. I will give you an example. Drug smugglers from all over the world are in contact with the U.S. secret agencies. These agencies do not want to eradicate narcotics cultivation and trafficking because their importance will be diminished. The people in the U.S. Drug Enforcement Department are encouraging drug trade so that they could show performance and get millions of dollars worth of budget. General Noriega was made a drug baron by the CIA and, in need, he was made a scapegoat. In the same way, whether it is President Bush or any other U.S. President, they cannot bring Israel to justice for its human rights abuses or to hold it accountable for such crimes. What is this? Is it not that there exists a government within the government in the United States? That secret government must be asked as to who carried out the attacks.

UMMAT: A number of world countries have joined the call of the United States for launching attacks on Afghanistan. These also include a number of Muslim countries. Will Al-Qa'idah declare a jihad against these Islamic countries as well?

USAMA BIN LADEN: I must say that my duty is just to awaken the Muslims; to tell them as to what is good for them and what is not. What does Islam say and what do the enemies of Islam want. Al-Qa'idah was set up to wage a jihad against infidelity, particularly to counter the onslaught of the infidel countries against the Islamic states. Jihad is the sixth undeclared pillar of Islam. [The first five being the basic holy words of Islam ("There is no god but God and Muhammad is the messenger of God"), prayers, fasting (in Ramadan), pilgrimage to Mecca and giving alms (zakat).] Every anti-Islamic person is afraid of jihad. Al-Qa'idah wants to keep jihad alive and active and make it a part of the daily life of the Muslims. It wants to give it the status of worship. We are not against any Islamic country. We do not consider a war against an Islamic country as jihad. We are in favour of armed jihad only against those infidel governments, which are killing innocent Muslim men, women and children just because they are Muslims. Supporting the U.S. act is the need of some Muslim countries and the compulsion of others. However, they should think as to what will remain of their religious and moral position if they support the attack of the Christians and the Jews on a Muslim country like Afghanistan. The orders of Islamic Shariah [jurisprudence] for such individuals, organizations and countries are clear and all the scholars of the Muslim brotherhood are unanimous on them. We will do the same, which is being ordered by the Ameer-ul-Momeneen [the commander of the faithful] Muhammad Omar [leader of the Taleban] and the Islamic scholars. The hearts of the people of Muslim countries are beating with the call of jihad. We are grateful to them.

UMMAT: The losses caused in the attacks in New York and Washington have proved that giving an economic blow to the U.S. is not too difficult. U.S. experts admit that a few more such attacks can bring down the American economy. Why is Al-Qa'idah not targeting their economic pillars?

USAMA BIN LADEN: I have already said that we are not hostile to the United States. We are against the [U.S. Government] system, which makes other nations slaves of the United States, or forces them to mortgage their political and economic freedom. This system is totally in the control of the American Jews, whose first priority is Israel, not the United States. It is clear that the American people are themselves the slaves of the Jews and are forced to live according to the principles and laws laid down by them. So the punishment should reach Israel. In fact, it is Israel, which is giving a blood bath to innocent Muslims and the U.S. is not uttering a single word.

UMMAT: Why is harm not caused to the enemies of Islam through other means, apart from the armed struggle? For instance, urging the Muslims to boycott Western products, banks, shipping lines and TV channels.

USAMA BIN LADEN: The first thing is that Western products could only be boycotted when the Muslim fraternity is fully awakened and organized. Secondly, the Muslim companies should become self-sufficient in producing goods equal to the products of Western companies. Economic boycott of the West is not possible unless economic self-sufficiency is attained and substitute products are brought out. You see that wealth is scattered all across the Muslim World but not a single TV channel has been acquired which can preach Islamic injunctions according to modern requirements and attain an international influence. Muslim traders and philanthropists should make it a point that if the weapon of public opinion is to be used, it is to be kept in the hand. Today's world is of public opinion and the fates of nations are determined through its pressure. Once the tools for building public opinion are obtained, everything that you asked for can be done.

DECLARATION

UMMAT: The entire propaganda about your struggle has so far been made by the Western media. But no information is being received from your sources about the network of Al-Qa'idah and its jihadi successes. Would you comment?

USAMA BIN LADEN: In fact, the Western media is left with nothing else. It has no other theme to survive for a long time. Then we have many other things to do. The struggle for jihad and the successes are for the sake of Allah and not to annoy His bondsmen. Our silence is our real propaganda. Rejections, explanations, or condemnation only waste your time and through them, the enemy wants you to engage in things which are not of use to you. These things are pulling you away from your cause. The Western media is unleashing such a baseless propaganda, which makes us surprise but it reflects on what is in their hearts and gradually they themselves become captive of this propaganda. They become afraid of it and begin to cause harm to themselves. Terror is the most dreaded weapon in modern age and the Western media is mercilessly using it against its own people. It can add fear and helplessness in the psyche of the people of Europe and the United States. It means that what the enemies of the United States cannot do, its media is doing that. You can understand as to what will be the performance of the nation in a war, which suffers from fear and helplessness.

UMMAT: What will be the impact of the freeze of Al-Qa'idah accounts by the U.S.?

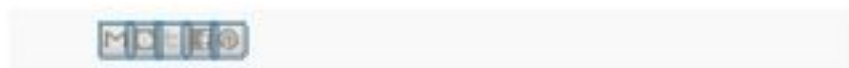

USAMA BIN LADEN: God opens up ways for those who work for Him. Freezing of accounts will not make any difference for Al-Qa'idah or other jihad groups. With the grace of Allah, Al-Qa'idah has more than three alternative financial systems, which are all separate and totally independent from each other. This system is operating under the patronage of those who love jihad. What to say of the United States, even the combined world cannot budge these people from their path. These people are not in hundreds but in thousands and millions. Al-Qa'idah comprises of such modern educated youths who are aware of the cracks inside the Western financial system as they are aware of the lines in their hands. These are the very flaws of the Western fiscal system, which are becoming a noose for it and this system could not recuperate in spite of the passage of so many days.

UMMAT: Are there other safe areas other than Afghanistan, where you can continue jihad?

USAMA BIN LADEN: There are areas in all parts of the world where strong jihadi forces are present, from Indonesia to Algeria, from Kabul to Chechnya, from Bosnia to Sudan, and from Burma to Kashmir. Then it is not the problem of my person. I am a helpless fellowman of God, constantly in the fear of my accountability before God. It is not the question of Usama but of Islam and, in Islam too, of jihad. Thanks to God, those waging a jihad can walk today with their heads raised. Jihad was still present when there was no Usama and it will remain as such even when Usama is no longer there. Allah opens up ways and creates loves in the hearts of people for those who walk on the path of Allah with their lives, property and children. Believe it, through jihad, a man gets everything he desires. And the biggest desire of a Muslim is the life after death. Martyrdom is the shortest way of attaining an eternal life.

UMMAT: What do you say about the Pakistan Government policy on Afghanistan attack?

USAMA BIN LADEN: We are thankful to the Momin and valiant people of Pakistan who erected a blockade in front of the evil forces and stood in the first file of battle. Pakistan is a great hope for the Islamic brotherhood. Its people are awakened, organized and rich in the spirit of faith. They backed Afghanistan in its war against the Soviet Union and extended every help to the mujahideen (freedom fighters) and the Afghan people. Then these are very Pakistanis who are standing shoulder by shoulder with the Taliban. If such people emerge in just two countries, the domination of the West will diminish in a matter of days. Our hearts beat with Pakistan and, God forbid, if a difficult time comes we will protect it with our blood. Pakistan is sacred for us like a place of worship. We are the people of jihad and fighting for the defense of Pakistan is the best of all jihads to us. It does not matter for us as to who reforms Pakistan. The important thing is that the spirit of jihad is alive and stronger in the hearts of the Pakistani people.

Bin Laden has featured books written about him...they are very informative....he stated he disliked Jews....well do you believe he had no part in 911....now read between the lines...In the book Terror Inc: Tracing the Money behind Global Terrorism author Loreta Napoleoni it is explained that years before 911 a terrorist was arrested in America after a fire broke out in his flat. Back in the day laptops were extremely rare the fedz and firebrigade became aware when they went through the burnt debris that an Arab had been living at the place where a laptop was found partially burnt. The fedz being the fedz decided to check out the hard drive and what they found was a plot to fly airplanes into building Clinton who was President at the time dismissed the claims along with others the Arab however was charged and convicted of terrorist offences (1

Today, it is well accepted that 11 September was a copycat of the Bojinka plot, a plan to blow up several jumbo jets simultaneously, killing thousands of people. The plan died a sudden death in 1995 when a fire broke out in the flat rented by Ramzi Yousef and his associates in Manila. In the rush to escape, Yousef forgot his laptop, which contained vital information. Abdul Hakim Murad, one of the accomplices, was sent to recover the computer. The Dilemma of Terrorism: War or Crime?

but was arrested by the police. He later admitted to being a qualified pilot recruited by Yousef to carry out a suicide mission. According to Murad's confession, Yousef intended to hijack several commercial flights in the US and crash the planes into the CIA headquarters and the Pentagon. 18 The decoding of the data in the laptop revealed a link between Ramzi Yousef and al-Qaeda through Riduan Isamuddin, better known as Hambali, regarded by the Filipino authorities as the regional head of al-Qaeda (and one of the men suspected of having masterminded the Bali bombing in October 2002). In 1995 Hambali was a director of Konsojaya, a Malaysian company bankrolling the Islamist terror cells operating in the archipelago. He may also have been involved in the planning of the 11 September attacks. In January 2000, he met Khalid al-Midhar and Mawaf Alhazimi, two of the hijackers of the plane that struck the Pentagon. Malaysian officials confirmed that this meeting took place in Malaysia. 20 Eight months later, Hambali had a meeting with Zacarias Moussawi, the Moroccan accused of being part of the 11 September conspiracy. 21 Although this information was shared with the US authorities, once Yousef was safely behind bars no major investigation was launched to track down his accomplices still at large. Aida Fatacal, the former police inspector of the Filipino inquiry, believes that had the US paid more attention to the data contained in Yousef's laptop, the 11 September attacks could have been prevented. 22 The truth is that 11 September was not an intelligence breakdown; it was much more than that. 'There is no question we had what looked like the biggest failure of the intelligence community since Pearl Harbor, but what we are learning now is that it wasn't a failure, it was a directive.' 23 The general feeling is that the White House prevented the intelligence community from digging deeply into Islamist extremism in order to protect the Saudis. As long as America was safe, they were left alone.

Apologise for stating the laptop was found in America /its just that out of the many books read you cant be expected to remember every single page and this proves the point the Bojinka plot is one of those episodes your average Joe Bloggs has no comprehension about...like ZILCH and this is the whole point of the CIA/AG setup Bin laden himself was at some point allegedly a CIA agent and thats got alot to do with why he was so hard to kill! just like form presidents cia protection isnt removed from persons straight away best example former British prime minister Thatcher who had bodyguards after she left her role for decades empires and dynastys dont always fall apart over night and there is no doubt at all that the CIA worked with certain factions of Islamic State. A lot of dirty cash - clinton cash was mixed into paying for this and that Trump used certain entities to get rid of clinton.Hilary clinton would have legitimised everything if she had got to power further more the clinton foundation would have been whitewashed and all debts and history cleared by the CIA it was the clinton foundation itself that cost Clinton the election the inside cia members russians and people like me along with thousands of others obviously worked out were all Barrack Obamas dirty cash was being used and spent - the evidence TRUMP he worked with other entities of which wikileaks was a piece of flea crap to remove the mechanisms a complete shift of power if you notice since TRUMP took control

Google Blocks My #Altnews Search Engine

Well it seems Google really didn't like the fact I made an #altnews search engine
By Dark Politricks

Well if you read my last piece about going down the Google/Facebook social media plug hole then you will know I created a little search box at the top of the site for anyone to use if they wanted to purely search some of the sites, I and 550 others, have been placed on as too dangerous for you to make up your own minds about.

However I came here today after showing a Facebook friend my site and suggested he use the search engine low and behold it's been ruined by Google so you can't even get any results back from it any-more!

I don't know why, I created the widget exactly as it told me to do and I added a number of sites so that when you entered a search only those sites would be returned. However running a search now for 9.11 or Syria or "War on Terror" now returns ZERO results when only last month it was returning hundreds of results and only from the sites on the new ban list.

Even just going to Google search engine and typing in "war on terror" site:Washingtonpost.com, Telegraph.co.uk, will only return results from the first site, Washingtonpost.com, and nothing from the Telegraph, if your lucky, otherwise it might just ignore the filters, ask if you are human, and then show irrelevant results.

Google just can't stop fucking over any blog or site that wants to get out the truth and alternative narratives for you to think about instead of getting all your news from corporate online papers, TV news broadcasts and other establishment outlets.

This has really pissed me off. I am either going to try a few new widgets or when I get some money - donations welcome please - just go to my friends PayPal account and donate some money, the more I get the better #altnews search engine I can create, no Mainstream News BS, no BBC, CNN or Telegraph news articles just alternative points of view from the best sites out there.

I did it before when I had my own server and I hope to get another one, it used to return results from multiple search engines, remove duplicates, and the remove all the establishment sites so that only real points of view remained. If you want brain washing use Google and get skewed results that ignore any alternative points of view.

However I am a coder, I have the skills I just need to afford a small hosting platform to write my search engine. No need for nightly scrapers, just returning the news from the sites you all like through proxies with NO CENSORSHIP.

For now I have had to work with the devil and had to replace the DuckDuckGo search engine with a Google version but unfortunately it only allows me to search ten sites for free. Google are always trying to milk money from users in every way they can but then what else do you expect.

• FOX News Investigates Israeli connections to 9.11

Anyway it has 10 sites including this one so if you do a search for 9.11 or False Flag you should get results from some of the sites on the banned list. However what I really want is to make my own search engine again, bit for that I need donations. If anyone can help please so otherwise content like this will go down the drain before long"

So if you can help me please donate, any amount, no matter how small will help. With Google and Facebook cracking down on alternative voices we need a way of getting easy access to all these sites providing them.

So please donate at <https://www.paypal.me/strictlysoftware> and help me build a proper #altnews search engine and provide you with all the eCOVID19 news and lock-down laws that will affect us for years to come, long after the Coronavirus is over.

The hashtag I created #altnews for Twitter has really kicked off and there are thousands of users all searching and tagging articles with it, this makes me really happy to see Twitter is still showing results from #altnews but I would really like to make a proper search engine that will return, blogs, news, Facebook articles and even tweets from only #altnews sites

Help please, keep alternative news available for people to search and find and stop these loonies creating lists of sites to ban from ever implementing them,

A brief history of the socialist party of (WIS) great britain how the left emerged from this and that and fractured and splintered and then forgot to buy a hard drive....

The formation of a new party was rendered imperative by the falling away of the SDF from the paths of political right-doing . . . Looking around them [some members of the SDF] in the political world they saw that organisations of the half-way house character were obtaining a larger measure of support, . . . they set themselves to the task of winning their own organisation to a similar position and to the adoption of a similar line of action.

In this they were highly successful . . . The founders [of the Socialist Party] were fully alive to the fact that such spade work had to be performed . . . It is easier to gain adherents to belief in a small palliative reform than to gain them to a new philosophy based upon an understanding of the material foundations of modern industrial slavery. But in the former case the adherents are not adherents for Socialism, in the latter case they are.

The Social Democratic Federation continued its service to political confusion after the formation of the SPGB. It eventually became the British Socialist Party and helped to found the Communist Party of Great Britain in 1920. During the first world war, Hyndman, the founder and father-figure, was expelled.

An earlier split from the SDF occurred in 1903, when the Socialist Labour Party was formed in Scotland. It was modelled on the SLP of America, a party that came to emphasize the economic side of the class struggle to the detriment of the political. The SLP were very active in the day-to-day struggle in their early years and many of the "Red Clydesiders" came from their ranks. In the SLP scheme of things, all workers engaged in a particular industry would belong to the union covering it, regardless of their trade or profession

WIKIPEDIA

The Socialist Party of Great Britain (SPGB) is a socialist political party in the United Kingdom. Founded in 1904 as a split from the Social Democratic Federation (SDF), it advocates using the ballot box for revolutionary purposes and opposes both Leninism and reformism. It holds that countries which claimed to have established socialism had only established "state capitalism" and was one of the first to describe the Soviet Union as state capitalist. Redliner7 - archive material.
By Brian Wheeler Political reporter for the BBC.

A tiny socialist party which believes in the abolition of money is sitting on a £1.3m cash and property pile, it has emerged.

The Socialist Party of Great Britain, which has 300 members, has cash reserves of £452,299 and property worth £900,000, its latest accounts say.

The party, which was founded in 1904 - making it one of the oldest in the UK - is based in Clapham High Street.

It bought the South London shop premises in 1951 for about £3,000.

But it has benefited from the boom in the capital's property prices, with the value of its assets increasing by £400,000 in a single year, according to its accounts.

Google - make out like their on the side of the people...woops...they collect intel thats a fact and they do deals with it,Google are smart,alot smarter than people give them credit for they find things themselves and the powers that be that watch over them further more they contribute to the destruction and prohibition of evidence they are involved in publishing and can buy sites out...infact thats what alot of people on the net are really about there fat pigs making money from extortion through publishing google drive and email servers are wide open...Basically they compile whats going on then snitch it up to the American and other Governments and then work out how to whitewash and get rid of the evidence the best examples are those early 911 videos ...Im not supporting Alex Jones I have my reasons but there was a 911 video it was good I mean like it rocked...you cant find this video no more like woosh its gone then i got around to thinking...its got alex jones standing where the two towers once where its a powerfull video like i said i dont support or like the guy one bit viva the state of israel thats what i say!!!!

Yeah I agree Alex Jones comes over as a Right wing bigot.

British Jewish groups have accused UKIP of indulging in anti-Semitic conspiracy theories through its links with Alex Jones' right-wing website, Infowars, calling on the party to disassociate itself from the "vile" website.

The calls come in the wake of pipe bomb plots that targeted 14 high profile figures in the US including billionaire investor George Soros, and the Pittsburgh synagogue attack that saw 11 people killed and 7 injured – with Infowars being accused of 'propagating conspiracy theories and dog whistle anti-Semitism' over the incidents, The Guardian reports.

One of UKIP's latest high profile recruits is Infowars' editor-at-large Paul Joseph Watson. Watson was one of three eye-catching Youtube personalities signed up by UKIP leader Gerard Batten in June this year, to breathe new life and attract a younger demographic into the right wing party.

Did u know that in the uk your not allowed to call putin a prick?? if you do the British military turn up on your housing estate pretending to be GRU and fill up your water taps with weedkiller

I don't mean to be alarmist or anything like that, but I have come to the conclusion that London tap water is something that should be avoided at all costs. In fact I will go as far as saying that the filthy stuff is poisonous and a downright danger to your health. London tap water is unsafe to drink and I will take it one step further and say that it isn't even a good idea to wash in the stuff.

It is a fact that 80% of London's drinking water comes from storage reservoirs connected to the River Thames and the River Lea. I'm sure that anybody that has ever been to London, couldn't help but notice the filthy colour of the water in the Thames and it is obvious that a lot of chemicals go into turning that into the stuff that flows out of the tap.

I'm basing my assumption that London tap water is a danger to your health from my own findings. When I first arrived here, I did a wee bit of research and found that the tap water was safe to drink, it maybe tastes disgusting but it was safe to drink. Not been one to waste money on something, which I could get for free and I thought I may eventually get accustomed to the taste, so I drank it.

However during my first 3 months living in London I had a constant sore throat, which just wouldn't go away. It was round about then that I discovered where the water I was drinking originated from and I thought holy fk. I instantly put a halt to local tap water going down my sensitive throat. And believe it or not within a couple of days my throat was back to normal and it hasn't bothered me since.

Yes thats very true ...the Southern part of Ireland is a Republic separate from the UK different country has its own Republic and Government and yet its the only country in the world that doesnt speak its own language.Now thats beyond a conspiracy theory ...The word is that in the Republic of Ireland it has been ordered by the NEW WORLD ORDER that the Irish cant speak their own language ...CAN SOMEONE FROM DARK POLITRICKS REQUEST IN WRITING FROM THE IRISH GOVERNMENT WHY THE IRISH ARENT ALLOWED TO SPEAK THEIR OWN LANGUAGE????????? its like the Americans speaking Russian or the spanish speaking Greek you know what we mean????? Like the Irish have had there own government for decades and they cany pass a law or give the country the go ahead to speak Gaelic...is this a form of repression an order or something else we should all know about please do let us know we are open to interpretation upon this subject

We can confirm the first language of the Irish republic is ENGLISH everybody everywhere speaks the language of ENGLISH as the first language and there is no opposition or law or Government endorsement for the Irish in the Republic to speak their native tongue Gaelic as their first language...is this weird VD or what ?? or some form of NEW WORLD ORDER telling Irish people not to speak their own language how would you react to being told you have to speak another countries language when your country has no Government ties with other countries THATS TIT RIGHT THERE STOP there is nothing in the Irish Republics constitution stating the country has to speak another countrys language therefore IT MUST BE AN ORDER FROM ABOVE YES OR NO its your vote folks dont waste it!!!!

Sadly it is a fact that the Irish are being prohibited in the Republic of Ireland from speaking their own language Gaelic.I am a researcher and writer.Until recently it was kept quite however it is now a form of accepted knowledge that many former members of the Irish Republican Army (Once regarded as terrorists) have themselves been recruited by the CIA and MI6 others are so intoxicated they have completely lost all reality as to what is happening around them politically and how they are being used by others.There are a number of high profile former IRA members who work with political parties,solicitors,business,media that are most Definitely and Defiantly continuing in their two model role.It has come to the point that it is beyond embarrassing watching these persons in operation and has got to the point where their medical ineptness is now having severe impact on normal politicians and members of both the British and American government alike ,its like selling a Dedmans horse twice to an Arab with more Kamali dung than China has opium.They say never Judge a book by its cover or look a gift horse in the mouth ...but to be Frank....

I guess its right to say that if the evidence suggests that political parties in the uk have purposely destroyed evidence and on the face of it there is no valid reason why the SPGB couldnt have saved their writers works,then there is no doubt whatsoever that Google must be found guilty of tampering and preventing and destroying evidence and web production.It is CIA practice to remove evidence or prevent evidence that undermines the state and Google work hand in glove as they themselves are intelligence gatherers.

Spoilation of evidence is the intentional, reckless, or negligent withholding, hiding, altering, fabricating, or destroying of evidence relevant to a legal proceeding[1] Spoilation has three possible consequences: in jurisdictions where the (intentional) act is criminal by statute, it may result in fines and incarceration (if convicted in a separate criminal proceeding) for the parties who engaged in the spoilation; in jurisdictions where relevant case law precedent has been established, proceedings possibly altered by spoilation may be interpreted under a spoilation inference, or by other corrective measures, depending on the jurisdiction; in some jurisdictions the act of spoilation can itself be an actionable tort[2]

The spoilation inference is a negative evidentiary inference that a finder of fact can draw from a party's destruction of a document or thing that is relevant to an ongoing or reasonably foreseeable civil or criminal proceeding: the finder of fact can review all evidence uncovered in as strong a light as possible against the spoiler and in favor of the opposing party.

what the state does not want is internet users finding evidence that can be used in other human rights cases or civil cases against local Governments or central Government infact many cases through out the world have been won by using internet collected intelligence and evidence...I completely agree that Dark Politricks has been tampered with whilst offering anybody at all the chance to provide and participate in free speech.Trump is one of the most profound bigots upon the planets surface he rants on and on and on about free speech.In the UK the secret service and their agents block people off from creating sites and believe US when we tell you that it is done on purpose with the intention of preventing people from being named.Britain is pseudo neo fascist state where people offer services and maintain an order in exchange for rewards good jobs and payment plans are rewards just to get a bit to close to reality some people participate in the uk and thats the best way of saying it and cant even get a 50 dollar overdhaught,then you get others that can take out loans of 50,000 dollars equivalent without even going up against red tape something wrong there and meanwhile trump rants on about free speech and yet many normal people trying to get the message out in the uk are slowly suffocating and strangled by internet espionage agents that monitor and block....Its real its deadly real they actually prevent sites being listed on google,folks build sites and they block them on google they wary tou paying a company with a credit card so they know your identification rather than just supplying the details through google geo sites are whatever many have tried Google will just block them and then if your lucky and it gets placed on google a few months later it gets taken odd line this is not freedom of speech this is fascism if you wanna write about the conservative party or how to make cakes and biscuits or some poop scoop site about cats and dogs no problem try putting sites together that attack the state and thats it another thing we aint against Government dull stop or the police they are after all needed but lets be honest in the uk they are just part of drug cartels or the next week they are working for Putin or Trump or CocaCola....

EVIDENCE GOOGLE BAN SITES:

Google has banned eight different adverts paid for by the Conservatives over the last month because they broke its rules. The Independent can reveal.

The move by the search giant comes amid mounting concerns about the Tories' use of disinformation and fake news as campaigning tools at the general election.

Transparency data released by the search giant this week shows that the adverts "violated Google's advertising policies" and had been removed.

If Poodle ban the conservative party from the Internet and the Socialist party of Great Britain ban their own writers then Poodle arent gonna think twice about tampering with Dark politricks are they?... really i mean like there is a difference between and im not here to say it however i will remind you that if you are against then you are ...me im stuck in the middle cant get a loan or a reward cant publish carry go anywhere coz of some bio engineered bug cant do anything really than silently protest oh yes and you cant get food and the tap water apparently is filled with weedkiller ontop of that in the UK they are starting to destroy 5g beacons look below for more info (on real) wars!!!

Three recent mobile phone mast fires around the UK are being investigated as possible arsons, amid concerns that people are attacking telecoms infrastructure because of a conspiracy theory linking 5G technology to the spread of coronavirus.

The mayor of Liverpool, Joe Anderson, also revealed he had received threats relating to the "bizarre" theory, which has gained traction on social media.

On Friday, emergency services were called to reports that a 5G mast was on fire in Liverpool shortly before 11pm. Police confirmed they were investigating the blaze at Spencer's Lane, Aintree, close to the M57 motorway.

Fire crews managed to get the fire under control quickly and were photographed parked outside the field shortly after it was extinguished.

The media regulator, Ofcom, said on Thursday it was monitoring broadcasters who spread the discredited conspiracy theory, although coverage has spread more widely on social networks, such as WhatsApp, Facebook, Twitter and Nextdoor.

Just hours before the reported incident in Liverpool, Anderson dismissed the theories as "bizarre". He said he was amazed by the amount of traction the conspiracy was getting on social media, and that all scientific and government advice showed the technology posed no harm to people.

INFOWARS!!!! BACK AGAIN!!!! AND NO WE DONT EAT PORK AND LUV YOU!!!

REPORT BY MATT BLACK

UK mobile network providers have warned against the spread of "baseless" conspiracy theories linking coronavirus to 5G, after videos purportedly showing masts on fire were posted on social media.

West Midlands Fire Service said eight firefighters attended an incident on Thursday evening, involving a 70-foot tower on a telecommunications site in the Sparkhill area of Birmingham - though a spokesman said the cause was yet to be identified and could not confirm whether the mast in question was 5G.

A West Midlands Police spokesman said: "We're aware of a fire involving a phone mast, but are awaiting further details on its cause."

Several videos claiming to show 5G towers on fire were posted to a page on Facebook, which encouraged others to do the same.

The page was created on Thursday and taken down by Facebook on Friday morning. The wild conspiracy theories claim coronavirus is just a cover story used to hide the deadly damage being done by radiation caused by people being exposed to 5G radio waves.

<https://issuu.com/redrox55>

Mi5 agents are allowed to carry out criminal activity in the UK, the government has acknowledged for the first time.

The prime minister was on Thursday forced to publish the text of a direction to the Investigatory Powers Commissioner's Office, the spying watchdog, on governing

It instructs the IPCO to oversee the participation of MI5 agents in criminal activity, which was previously conducted by the now-defunct office of the Intelligence Services Commissioner, under a secret order referred to as the "third direction".

However, guidance about when British spies can commit crimes, and how far they can go, remains confidential.

The commissioner, Lord Justice Sir Adrian Fulford, said: "I welcome the government's decision to make public my oversight of this sensitive area of work."

The order was published after a legal battle by the human rights groups Reprieve and Privacy International.

Maya Foa, the director of Reprieve, said: "After a seven-month legal battle the prime minister has finally been forced to publish her secret order but we are a long way from having transparency.

"The public and parliament are still being denied the guidance that says when British spies can commit criminal offences and how far they can go.

"Authorised criminality is the most intrusive power a state can wield. Theresa May must publish this guidance without delay."

Millie Graham Wood, a solicitor at Privacy International, said there was no justification why the secret direction was not published earlier.

"Had we not sought to challenge the government over the failure to publish this direction, together with Reprieve, it is questionable whether it would have ever been brought to light," she said. "It is wrong in principle for there to be entire areas of intelligence oversight and potentially of intelligence activity, about which the public knows nothing at all."

The MI5 website says agents are "one of the most significant information gathering assets we have", adding "intelligence from our agents is critical to keeping the UK safe".

It also states: "Public views of what MI5 agents do are often based on fiction and not always accurate. There are many misunderstandings about what our agents do, as we cannot say much about those who help us, given our commitment to protect their identity."

MI5 has committed “serious” breaches of surveillance safeguards in the way it handles information obtained under interception warrants, the home secretary, Sajid Javid, has admitted.

So severe was the compliance failure that the Investigatory Powers Commissioner’s Office (IPCO) sent a team of inspectors into the intelligence agency for a week to investigate, according to the human rights organisation Liberty.

Liberty is one of a number of NGOs taking legal action over what it alleges are excessively intrusive surveillance powers. The IPCO, chaired by the appeal court judge Sir Adrian Fulford, is the official body responsible for overseeing government surveillance practices.

In a written statement to parliament last week that was not widely noticed, Javid said he was notifying MPs of “compliance risks MI5 identified and reported within certain technology environments used to store and analyse data, including material obtained under the Investigatory Powers Act”.

The risks related to material obtained through “lawful interception”. Javid added: “A report of [IPCO] suggests that MI5 may not have had sufficient assurance of compliance with these safeguards within one of its technology environments.

“The compliance risks identified are limited to how material is treated after it has been obtained. They do not relate in any way to the manner in which MI5 acquires information in the first instance or the necessity and proportionality of doing so.”

The IPCO report concluded the risks were both “serious and required immediate mitigation”. Work to implement those mitigations is “being treated as a matter of the highest priority, both by MI5 and the Home Office”, the statement added.

The home secretary said he had established an independent review to “consider and report back” on what lessons could be learned. The data involved could have included private messages, digital browsing histories and location information but the categories of information involved are likely to remain secret.

Megan Goulding, a lawyer at Liberty, said: “This is a clear-cut example of how the supposed safeguarding and oversight system is failing to protect us from the excessive and unwarranted surveillance and data retention powers created under the ‘snooper’s charter’.

“The breach in itself is deeply concerning but on top of that the way this has unfolded - with IPCO only finding out because MI5 reported it, and the wider public only knowing apparently because of our legal case - shows how fatally flawed the oversight system for security services is.

“It is possible, from what is known, that millions of innocent people’s data is being shared widely with foreign governments. If the government has its way, we will never know if this is the case.

“If the UK’s surveillance regime is to have a semblance of legitimacy, the public needs to know what happened, and how badly our privacy and the security of our information were put at risk.”

Police Custody Linked To 14 Deaths Last Year

JUL

Wednesday 27TH

posted by Lamiat Sabir in Britain

Officers 'lack skills in handling the vulnerable'

FOURTEEN people died in police custody or following their release in the most recent year for which records are available, official figures revealed yesterday.

Officers had used body strikes and restraint against six of the 14 fatalities in 2015-16, although force may have not contributed to the latter deaths, according to watchdog the Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC).

Seven of the people who died in or after detention had mental health problems and 12 had been taking drugs or drinking.

The death toll of 14 is lower than the 17 fatalities recorded in 2014-15, though that figure was the highest in five years.

Sixty apparent suicides occurred during or after custody in 2015-16. Of these people, 22 had been arrested for alleged sex crimes, including 17 accused of child abuse.

Thirty-three of the people believed to have taken their own lives were known to have mental health problems and 28 were under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol.

There is a "strong link" between mental illness and the number of fatalities, noted IPCC chair Dame Anne Owers.

Police need more training, she warned, as "forces do not always have a clear and consistent understanding of vulnerability and how to manage it."

For the Police Federation, Detective Constable Karen Stephens complained that the police force is used as a "sticking plaster to solve society's issues," especially as government spending cuts remove other sources of support for the mentally ill.

But Deborah Coles, director of custody and detention advice charity Inquest, said too many vulnerable people with mental health issues and dependencies suffer "poor treatment" in police detention.

"The police are increasingly being called to respond to concerns about the health and wellbeing of vulnerable people," she added.

"This highlights the urgent need for an alternative approach to those in crisis."

Outside custody, police firearms officers killed three people: James Fox, 43, from Enfield, north London, Richard Davies, 41, from St Neots, Cambridgeshire, and Jermaine Baker, 28, from Wood Green, north London.

In all three incidents, police apparently believed that the suspects had guns.

Bertie Ahern: ‘Gerry Adams saying he was not in the IRA is like me saying I was not in Fianna Fail’

Ronald Quinlan

In the first part of a major two-part interview, Bertie Ahern gives Ronald Quinlan his verdict on Fianna Fail, Sinn Fein and the threat to the peace process as the centenary of the 1916 Rising approaches.

On standing down as Taoiseach, Brian Cowen, his departure from politics and from Fianna Fail. Before you stepped down as Taoiseach, you described Brian Cowen as your natural successor. Was he your successor by choice?

“Brian had been there a long time. He’d been there through several ministries.

He was in Labour, he was in Foreign Affairs, he was in Finance. He'd been able in them all. Brian was different to some of the others. He had huge natural ability. He mightn't have been the earliest starter in the morning, where McCreevy would be, but he had a lot of ability; but the way it [the economy] fell for him was rough. I'd have a lot of sympathy for him, the way things worked out. And I wished I had of been there, with the two of us working in the same capacities, and I often think Brian would have wished that too."

You were a member of Fianna Fail for 40 years. How did it feel to leave the party in 2011?

"Obviously it was a very hard thing to do. If you were to put in the hours that I put in and turn it into a working week; while it was 40 years, it was probably 80 years of working weeks. You don't really separate yourself. I still believe in Republican Fianna Fail ideology, in the socialist Fianna Fail and in the Fianna Fail I grew up with. I hope the party will continue to be that, and I would still be close to most of the people in the party."

You were disappointed in the end.

"Of course. It was upsetting. The reality is I had defended these guys through thick and thin, but they just weren't supportive. But that's reality and that's life."

Would you have liked your Fianna Fail colleagues to have shown you the kind of discipline and loyalty Sinn Féin has shown Gerry Adams?

"Maybe the same kind of discipline I showed for them."

You said at the time of your departure from the office of Taoiseach in 2008 that the matters being investigated by the Mahon Tribunal were distracting from the business of government. Those issues had been around since September 2006 though with the publication of an article on the tribunal's investigations of your financial affairs by the Irish Times. Had it not been a distraction since then?

"No, it was only in the later times when it had started affecting my colleagues. My colleagues were going out to press conferences [and facing questions on the tribunal]. It's second nature to me to deal with these kind of things. I only made up my mind literally in the latter days."

Who do you respect out of those you worked for and within politics?

"I obviously worked with Charlie Haughey. But I worked very closely with Ray MacSharry because we were involved in the programmes for governments together. When we were doing the 1987-89 period, I worked daily with him so I've huge regard for Ray. He's a very hard-working person."

"I got on really well with Charlie McCreevy and Mary Harney. They were two good, loyal colleagues, very loyal people. I was always very close to people like Dermot Ahern and Noel Dempsey. And Mary Hanafin has been a great personal friend of mine through all my political life, as far as I can go back. I'd be very close to the Lenihan family. I still keep in touch and I'm very close to all of them. Brian Cowen and myself would be close too. We keep in touch."

Is there anyone from the other parties who you respected?

"Sean Barrett, the Ceann Comhairle. I got on well with Liam Cosgrave and Garret FitzGerald. By and large I had huge respect for them all. I must say I enjoyed Joe Higgins. We had great cut and thrust with Joe, a decent, honourable man from the Dingle Peninsula. Whenever I was bored in the Dail, Joe would lighten it up with the 'Right' and the 'Left'. I only made him speechless once when I told him I was the only other socialist [besides him] left in the Dail!"

On the next election and the prospects for a new political party

Do you think there's a gap in the market or a market in the gap for a new political party?

"I think for the next general election, it's too late. To try and form a party and to get it up and running, and to finance and structure it, get candidates in place in what's roughly a 12-month period, to me doesn't sound doable. In the longer run, God knows. The make up of the next government could be the cause of causing a party. Are we heading to where we were in 1981 and 1982; God forbid. "If you were to get into the instability and let nobody say it isn't instability, if you get into a government, it could be Fianna Fail, Fine Gael and Labour, or Labour, Sinn Fein and about 40 Independents. It could be a rainbow but we'd need to add a few colours on to what we call a rainbow, and I have to say I don't feel enthusiastic about any of those things. The present Government don't have the numbers. If you look at the figures today, the broad grouping of Independents and Sinn Fein have 50pc of the vote. If they were to transfer correctly they'd nearly have a government between them."

Can you remind people about that 18-month period in 1981 and 1982 when there were three general elections?

"I was government whip and had to go around trying to get votes. I had to go to Sinn Fein or the Workers Party or whatever they were called, they had so many names I can't remember what they were called, I had to go to them and tell them what we were trying to do. I had to check who was in hospital to keep the government hanging in, and after all of that we only lasted nine months. Then the others were in and they only lasted seven months. The reality of this, and this is what people have to think about, is all that instability of 1981 and 1982, we didn't get out of it until 1987. We didn't get out of it until 1987 and we had a higher debt to GDP ratio than Ethiopia, and there was no world recession.

Tell me about 1987 and Fianna Fail's decision to go into coalition with the PDs.

"I remember having to go out to Charlie Haughey to say 'listen I think we're going to have to go with the Progressive Democrats because I had done out the figures and the charts, and that wasn't a pleasant experience to go out to Kinsealy to convey that. I think I was thrown out, but I was called back in the next day as often happened. I was doing a mathematical exercise. He wanted to be Taoiseach and had to do a very different exercise, but it worked out after myself and Albert Reynolds did the negotiations."

The latest Sunday Independent opinion poll showed Sinn Fein with 26pc support. Do you see them in government any time soon?

"Do I see Sinn Fein in government after the next election? Do I see UKIP in government in the UK? Youturn on British TV and you'd think UKIP are going to touch the Labour Party and the Conservatives in the next election; nonsense. It's dangerous to make predictions but check back with me in five months and if UKIP get more than 10pc, I'll buy you a drink."

So what do you think will be the outcome of the next election?

"God knows what will happen. I would hope Fianna Fail will revive themselves, and I think they can. It might take a bit of time. The electorate will decide but Sinn Fein have gained mainly on the back of Fianna Fail being in government at the time of the worst economic crisis in 100 years internationally, in addition to some of our internal problems which were not international.

"Labour and Fine Gael are now involved in what they [Sinn Fein] would see as the present difficulties for a number of years, so they have created this establishment parties versus the revolutionary parties, and they're joined by some of the socialists as well, and they're gaining off the back of that. It's not unlike what's happening in a lot of European countries where there is an anti-establishment thing happening. It's the job of the establishment parties to fight that down.

"I think the main establishment parties might be leaving the streets to Sinn Fein. This is a difficulty. We are living in the age of the internet, but there still is a role to be close to people. I think people still like to see people on the ground. I've been told by people all over the country that during the local elections, they had no call from anyone other than Sinn Fein."

So why won't the opinion poll support for Sinn Fein be reproduced in an election?

"I think the people have questions about lots of things. Where do they stand on the multinational companies we succeeded in bringing into this country? Where are their plans on current budget deficits as well as spending all the money? There are lots of things. They'll want to see their commitment to all sorts of issues. At the moment all they've seen is a party who have been relatively successful in opposing everything. There's a difference between opposing everything and actually having to do something. It's a very different role."

On Sinn Fein and Gerry Adams

The centenary of the 1916 Rising is approaching. Will Sinn Fein claim ownership of it?

"No, I hope we all can celebrate it. The great leaders of 1916 joined two parties, James Connolly was in the Labour Party, Countess Markievicz chaired the first meeting of Fianna Fail, and de Valera and Lemass and Clarke were all Fianna Fail. The custodians of 1916 are Fianna Fail. Fianna Fail should make more of that, they shouldn't remain silent on it. They won't be thanked by the leaders of 1916 if they do."

Sinn Fein leader Gerry Adams made a speech in New York recently in which he sought to draw a link between himself and Michael Collins. What did you make of that?

"I think we should all get real. Let's try and concentrate on the things that are good, and on the other side, on moving as far away from the violence of the past as we possibly can."

In the same speech, Gerry Adams made remarks in relation to an historical incident in which the editor of the Irish Independent had been held at gunpoint and the newspaper's printing presses being destroyed. What did you think of that in view of the fact that two INM journalists — Veronica Guerin of the Sunday Independent and Martin O'Hagan of the Sunday World — were both murdered in the course of doing their work?

"Some of the issues in America made no sense to me at all. It's a long time ago since a Fianna Fail politician [the late Michael Ahern, TD for Cork North East] spoke about bags of guns, and I think he was ridiculed for 20 years in Dail Eireann. I think it's amazing what some people get away with. I think whenever you're talking about violent acts and democratic politics, they don't mix well."

Sinn Fein raises vast sums of money in the United States of America, largely by highlighting its role in the peace process. Should Fianna Fail be in the US telling people about its own role in bringing peace to the North?

"Well, we tried that and we got ridiculed for it. We got attacked. At our height, I think we had two functions a year in the US. It's like the 'millions' we allegedly used to make in the Galway Tent and we got attacked for that. Unfortunately, if you're a mainstream party, you get hammered for these things. If you're Sinn Fein, you go up in the opinion polls while you're making ginormous amounts of money in the US."

Gerry Adams and Sinn Fein have been highly defensive in relation to allegations made by Mairia Cahill with these kinds of things. that they sought to cover up her abuse at the hands of a prominent figure in the IRA.

What are your thoughts on the matter and Sinn Fein's handling of it?

"Normally what happens when a big political issue comes up in any other political party, you have to outline the full circumstances or you're called into a Dail committee to do it. They will say they outlined everything in the Dail but I don't think this is going to go away on them. I think some of this seems to be internal and I wouldn't be surprised if issues from the past continue to cause problems for them [Sinn Fein]."

How would you have handled Mairia Cahill's allegations if you were Taoiseach?

"I won't comment because I haven't really followed the events or the debate. But I did see Lucinda Creighton on the TV and she did make the point the Dail shouldn't turn into judge and jury. I thought that was a fair point. I'm glad they've come to that conclusion now. It didn't seem to be the circumstance when I was around."

Are you concerned Sinn Fein don't understand the democratic process yet? They are perfectly capable of attacking others, but when they come in for criticism or questioning, they seem to resort to victimhood.

"I have to say I spent over 34 years in the Dail, and I never recall a situation where people from the start of business in the morning to the end of the day refused to deal with the business of the Dail. Of course people fight with the Ceann Comhairle, but it's usually resolved very quickly. Gerry Adams said he didn't have confidence in the Ceann Comhairle. I don't ever recall somebody doing that outside the chamber [as Gerry Adams did]."

Isn't there always the underlying threat with Sinn Fein in terms of keeping the peace process in the North together? It's a delicate balance, isn't it?

"It's a delicate balance. I wouldn't get into the criticism game, because obviously political parties see Sinn Fein at 26pc, and obviously wherever they see an opportunity, they hit them. But that's the order of the day, Sinn Fein are masters at doing it to others. They have to take that. I took it for years when there were big events or issues, people looked for small issues to have a go at you. Sinn Fein can't complain about that. That's politics."

Can Sinn Fein move on from their past while Gerry Adams remains their leader?

"The more people call for it, the less it's going to happen. It's not the way those guys work. Gerry Adams and the general wider leadership have said he'll be there for 2016. It's not like it is in Fianna Fail, or in Fine Gael or in Labour. The centralised control is different. That centralised control Sinn Fein had in the Troubles has carried on into democratic politics. You can call it discipline or control, but it's not a healthy thing."

When the remains of the Disappeared, who were all murder victims, are recovered, doesn't it serve to remind people of Sinn Fein's links through Gerry Adams to a very violent past?

"Of course there are issues around that and the violence. In terms of the peace process though, I think in fairness we have to give credit to Gerry Adams and Martin McGuinness for managing to carry the republican and militant republican groups with them. It's good to see that work done and for them to cooperate, and they should cooperate. When I was in office, I used to have this running battle with Gerry Adams; that he was never in the IRA. I'd say 'well I was never in Fianna Fail either'.

Those things don't serve him well. It's like me going out to make a speech to say between 1971 and 2011; I was never in Fianna Fail. We should be real."

Shouldn't Gerry Adams just confront the truth in terms of his role with the IRA?

"He won't. It's just his style."

On the North and the peace process

Your predecessor as leader of Fianna Fail and Taoiseach, Albert Reynolds, died recently. Many of the tributes credited him for his role in bringing peace to the North with the Downing Street Declaration. Do you feel those tributes downplayed the major contribution you made to the peace process through the Good Friday Agreement?

"When people die, we have a good tradition in this country of showing respect. I've always said Albert's work on the Downing Street Declaration was very important. It did lead to the IRA ceasefire of August 1994 and the loyalist ceasefire of October 1994, and that was an important phase. But it's sometimes forgotten those ceasefires broke down and that we had to go back and start again when Fianna Fail got into power in 1997. "Some say I was just lucky to be where I was, and that it all fell into my lap, but for the record, the lap it fell into, there was no ceasefire. The violence was on; we had the bombings in Canary Wharf and Manchester and killings in the North. It was extremely nasty.

"We had to start all over again with a ceasefire, party talks, the Good Friday Agreement and all the phases of reform that followed, the decommissioning of arms, the establishment of the institutions and the St Andrew's Agreement, and I had to get Dr Ian Paisley inside the tent. We managed to do that by being good friends. I don't think any of that was easy or that it fell into my lap."

There are those who say the Irish people had to 'swallow' a lot in signing up to the Good Friday Agreement. Did they?

"I don't think people swallowed anything. We changed our Constitution. I think the people voted by 96pc to 4pc to do that. All the other things were to have peace on the island [of Ireland]. A lot of the suggestions in the Good Friday Agreement were actually John Hume's. What people were really voting for was to get a long-term peace, which we have. But we can't become complacent when it comes to peace. The work is far from complete."

So you feel there is complacency surrounding the peace in the North?

"I do feel in Ireland, and in the world in general, we've become complacent about maintaining peace. When I finished [as Taoiseach], I immediately started working with Christopher Moran at Co-operation Ireland. I spent four years with him. I put a lot of effort in. The biggest thing I got out of that is that if there's a conflict, or a march or violence or a bomb, governments don't have any problem spending money. They'll spend money on overtime for 30,000 police. When there aren't bombs and bullets and you're trying to build on the peace, it's very hard to get money. My advice is don't wait until there's something big."

The foundations of all these things are small money to put into communities to take away sectarianism, bitterness and hatred.

"I was at the launch recently of the Government campaign to commemorate 1916 along with the Taoiseach Tanaiste and the Arts Minister [Heather Humphreys]. It was an important night and an important commemoration. It's important to have a dignified remembrance of 1916. There was a small group of very determined protesters heckling, roaring and shouting through megaphones and banging on the windows of the GPO trying to disrupt what was a very important event."

What was your reaction to that?

"It had an impact on me. Listening to the news on the radio on the way home, I heard the detention of a large group of dissidents, ranging in age from 75 down to their 30s, who had been arrested in a house in Newry had been extended. It just shows there are a large group of people who on the one hand don't remember the Troubles which were largely in the North, but also in the South; and then there are others who don't like the progress that's been made."

They're small in number but vociferous in nature and they don't want to see peace or progress being made. That is all the more reason why everybody should be anxious to see the outstanding issues [in the North] being dealt with."

Have you ever been contacted by the Irish government since your departure from politics with a request for your advice or help with the Northern peace process?

"No. Our system seems to be when you're gone, you're gone. If I ever could be of any use or help, of course I would. When Richard Hass was appointed, I was in America at the Clinton Foundation. Some people approached him and said if it was any use, I would be available. That offer was never taken up and the only contact I had was a week before it [the talks] all collapsed, the day before Christmas Eve [2013]."

Can you explain the significance of the Hass Report and the recommendations the parties in the North put into it?

"The parties had their discussions, and they were designed to bring forward long-term sustainable solutions for a society which would make peace more resilient. The Hass document was part of a commitment to deal with the legacy of the past and create a modern compassionate society. Their view was, if they did what was in the Hass Report, the problems wouldn't be so bad and they would be able to work in agreement on their other problems.

"Now, they proposed all this last year, but it hasn't been heard of since.

"This work needs to be done. They said it. The parties in the North said it. Hass said it. The Government said it, but it won't happen without nurturing and encouraging it. And if it doesn't happen, it bodes badly for the people of Northern Ireland."

What if the Hass Report isn't implemented?

"It's clear the vast majority of people of the North want this. It's also clear there's another group that don't want it. Some people see the Troubles as the 'terrorist years', others see it as the 'freedom-fighting years'. That's a challenge of reconciliation."

Is there a learned dependency amongst the North's political parties where they don't really want full responsibility for their own affairs; that they always want to have the support, financial and otherwise, of the British and Irish governments?

"I think, in fairness, the institutions are good, but they have to be worked to their maximum. The challenge to the parties in the North is to ensure the institutions win favour with their collective electorate. Because it's an administration elected by the d'Hondt system, it's not government and opposition, and it's a relatively small place, but they have a lot of positives. They have a big subvention from the British which, from everything I know, will not always be there, so they need to make sure they have maximum efficiency and support from the public going forward. That's not always easy to do. I wish them well with that and with dealing with the legacies of the past and the things that might come out of that. The signs are going both ways on that and they need to work very hard."

You mention legacies. Only two weeks ago the remains of another of the 'Disappeared', Brendan Megraw, were recovered. What were your thoughts?

"I think the work on the Disappeared is good. People coming forward, not with amnesties, and giving information that allows people the opportunity to have decent Christian burials for their loved ones.

"One of the things that was a horror story for me was to think the Dublin Monaghan bombings of May 1974, that the file was closed in August 1974; I still don't believe it. That's why I did so much to help the relatives, as best as I could and as far as I could. I know the inquiry didn't solve everything. In the North there were thousands of cases that weren't investigated at all.

"Now, it can't go on forever so I think that the Hass Report, on their [the parties in the North] words, they have to be dealt with. That's what the panel of politicians in the North said."

The all American Illuminati are using the services of another order known as Irelands "Old Guard" this organisation is so deeply rooted that it cant be bypassed. Corrupt Diplomats and corrupt politicians form the dna make up of some of the members of this organisation/order whom over the last decades have operated under a blanket of secrecy as powerfull as the illuminati itself frequently violating international laws behind closed doors,one very good example is British Intelligence service placing British doctors inside of the Midlands Prison in the Republic of Ireland. As countries such as America privately buy their way into the Republic of Ireland CIA expenditure becomes politically obvious aswell as an unavoidable residue which leaves other law enforcement agencies such as the FBI no alternative but to become clandestine and renegade in their operations within the Republic of Ireland. A book called Black Mass written by Dick Lehr, Gerard O Neil explains clearly how the FBI recruited criminals (the mob) into their own workings, the powers that be have exported the same ideas to the Republic of Ireland where a collective of entities can more or less be categorised as being Irelands equivoalent. Far right wing farmers (in control of land mass), Failed and illegal tax loss companies (more ground base knowledge than FBI), Former Political activists(Intelligence and logistics), Drug Cartels(state enforced violence) are being recruited to work for the FBI in areas that include surveillance of undesirables. The Feds provide their badges to protect the illegals read aboat in the newspapers and other operations, information on undesirables filters back to the FBI through organisations such as Pearse Street Garda Station (Irish Police). Bent cops Bent Solicitors are all protected by the FBI along with judges and politicians and even if illegals are used to get evidence that is excepted.

Undesirable categorisation can often be generated on computer systems by various persons in various countries for example British home Office workers following alleged British Tax evaders in the Republic of Ireland can get names forwarded to FBI agents. Their are certain politically sensative areas within the republic of Ireland both on land and within buisness were this categorisation of person is becoming more and more predominant and getting black listed is becoming increasingly easier as the far right within Ireland become more desperate in keeping control over their ill gotten gains. President Trump himself has invested heavily into such areas before being voted in, he owns both land property and buisnesses including Golf courses in Ireland and so it would be obvious to the reader why certain undeesirables in their minds are not welcome. President John F Kennedy was of Irish decent and used many methods to gain political control, Bill Clinton on the other hand has many vested and private interests within the Republic of Ireland, his own organisation the Clinton Foundation (long suspected of having CIA financing) recruited Irelands richest man Dennis O Brien into their mists.

Dennis Obrien owns newspapers, radio programs, security companies, petrol companies, telecommunications companies. The book recently published called Clinton Cash written by Peter Schweizer explains how OBrien gave Clinton a quater of a million Euro sum of money to attend private parties in Ireland and give talks over dinner. A person cant join the Clinton foundation you are hand picked the organisation itself carries out work such as building hospitals and schools in politically sensative countries yet between them both they cant build much needed hospitals and schools in Ireland . Exports are low in Ireland and offshore a rapidly new expanding sphere so espionage in Ireland is becoming a profitable buisness with countries such as Russia South America and China expanding operations into new territory that physically joins onto British land mass. Areas such as shopping centres, libraries train stations, bus stops are effectively areas that require surveillance for example the working class and middle class in Ireland are pathetically apathetic to exposing political antidotes on wifi systems within libraries however if you attempt to rock the boat using a wifi system in an Irish library its not a reccomendation. The old guard use intermediates as part of their own structure however these same intermediates are also used by the FBI that way information flows in different directions,intermediates can include,doctors,solicitors,farmers,land owners,Irish Police,librarians,alleged buisnessmen,drug cartelshealth board officials,military,judges

This article has been produced because of the high level of Eastern European activity within Ireland.The Chinese and eastern Europeans are creating Irsh history and quite often clash in political ideology with the old guard and the FBI.The modus operandi of the old guard has been over the last few decades a darkly kept secret hopefully this articles sheds light on who really controls this country that sits on Britains border.

Americas state of the art $400 billion dollar F-35 stealth equiped with Optional Targeting Systems (EOTS) with high definition video imagery in both infrared and optical ssytem still cant "take out" a Hijacked oil well in iraq, and yet a conventional Thunderbolt ground attack plane can accidentally "take out" a farmers water well.Yeah you guessed right why your watchin US there taking you to the cleaners for every penny you havent even got.

Allegations found on internet sites in April this year 2020, make it clear that former Irish Independent Newspaper sub editor Albert Smith misused his position of power politically to his own ends by celebrating, endorsing and approving the public sale of literature produced by self confessed convicted fascist David Irving. It was uncovered by Russian Yandex hackers that it was Smith's own personal decision and plan of action, none other, acting as a sub editor of the Irish Independent newspaper, to oversee the publication of an article produced and written personally by himself that would promote the sale of Irving's published fascist books collectively by describing them as a scholarship.

After the Guardian Newspaper announced David Irving's jail conviction in for production of anti semitic literature it was expected that the NUJ under its own rulings and regulations would automatically turn their own immediate attentions to any Newspapers or journalists that had in the past prior to Irving's conviction blatantly collaborated with Irving themselves in producing anti semitic publications for Newspapers. European laws thankfully prohibit actual production of any form of anti semitic articles in Newspapers for public sale, however despite the recent discovery by Russian Yandex hackers of the obvious illegal activity of the Irish Independent Newspaper the National union of journalists the (NUJ) have been found guilty of failing to take legal actions against known journalists within their organization that have seemingly committed anti semitic criminal offenses in the past when there is more than enough evidence to start summary proceedings against them.

The NUJ as an acting body does not identify the historically published anti semitic incident produced by the Irish Independent even though evidence of the newspaper article is still in existence and online today. At the time of Irving's convictions there were no NUJ investigations. Yandex sources indicate Albert Smith is at present 2020 paid a regular weekly income from the Irish Independent Newspaper which is a completely disgraceful situation.

The article below found on <http://wikileaks.my-free.website> briefly outlines CIA and FBI operations within the Republic of Ireland,both the Irish Mafia and former political activists as well as bus drivers librarians lidl,tesco workers,psychiatrists,prison staff police etc are involved in tracking down and finalising of foreign and Irish residents on behalf of the British and American Government and other sinister organisations.

Andrew Dedman former mi5 member (American eagle tattoo on left arm)also known to mossaud who located his tattoo and Turkish villa can be found at google prompt he lives and works in Turkey and is a known former British Soldier who left or was he transferred? to the British police and then left the police again after he was heavily involved in British Police National computer work circa 2002,computer alterations can be found on the PNC system made by this person on data bases in UK, that have since been transferred to many other European countries including Ireland.Andrew Dedman was a former member of Hertford CID Police unit then transferred to the City of London Fraud Squad.It is a criminal offence in some countries to purposely alter tamper or willingly enter false information onto computer systems about British citizens however the British Government don't take this form of behaviour as serious, or seldom prosecute police officers and British Intelligence officers for forwarding purposely created inaccurate information to other Western Police forces and CIA and FBI agents in other countries, where this information in turn is then misused to create protection that extorts money and goods and chatels .(Thanx to the Hatfield cops for this

Spies and journalists: the impossible relationship

Contributing Authors

RISJ Admin

Contributing Author

15 Mar 2016

By Anne Moilanen

The secret services of the most western countries have significantly grown in the recent decades, and journalists – and the citizens of these countries – face serious difficulties in finding out what they are doing. This was the core argument of the long-standing Financial Times journalist John Lloyd, who is also a Senior Research Fellow at the Reuters Institute. For the last six to twelve months, John Lloyd has been working on a book about the subject, in which he focuses on the growth of the secret services in France, the UK and the USA. According to Lloyd, these three countries have traditionally had powerful secret services. "France was the first country to form a spy centre. In the US, nearly a million people work with confidential documents. There are about 70 offices all over the country, which belong to the secret services. Also in the UK they have been large", Lloyd said. The Charlie Hebdo tragedy in 2015 has increased the investment in the French secret services. The budgets of the secret services are nowadays more public, Lloyd pointed out, at least in terms of the known total sum of tax money spent on them. But what the secret services are doing exactly, stays secret. "It is this impossible relationship between spies and journalists, that the nature of the secret services is secret. The secret services are a problem to journalists and will remain so. In democratic countries, the openness ends more or less at the door – if you know where the door is – of a secret service." In his talk, Lloyd concentrated on two examples of individuals who have brought classified information into the public domain. Wikileaks, the digital information leak platform founded by Julian Assange, was exposing some severe wrongdoings by several countries, including the US, in the first decade of the 2000s. The other individual who has become globally famous by leaking confidential information in 2013 is Edward Snowden. "The basic argument behind everything is, that the UK and US have bulks of data about their own citizens. They have secrets, which they want to hide from the audience. Most journalists agree on this, that there is some information which needs to be hidden. But where are the limits?" Lloyd asked. Lloyd stated that journalists should be able to examine even retrospectively, what the national secret services have done. In the US, journalists' interest in the secret services such as the CIA grew after the Iraq War. "The journalists' experience was that they were misled about the reasons for the war. They believed too much what the state was telling them, and now they feel professional shame. US journalists nowadays pay more attention than before to the CIA, and for example the torture claims", said Lloyd. According to Lloyd, in France the journalists don't trust the secret service. In the UK, the existence of the secret service MI6 has been widely known, but the issue has been surrounded by silence. "In the UK, you just would not speak about it. Never. The budgets of the secret service were secret. If you worked for the MI6, it had to be hidden." What can be done about improving the secret services public image? The answer is to increase openness, suggested Lloyd. He pointed out that the secret services in the US and in the UK have already changed much: "The openness and transparency have increased, especially when it comes to their budgets. Also good public relations, PR, is important to the secret services. They should do more to keep improving their relationship with the press." Also, John Lloyd sees that the secret services should be monitored. There should be some kind of surveillance authored civil servant or "ombudsman", as he proposed, who would supervise the secret service and report the findings regularly, for example once a year. "The most important question is: how can we maintain trust? The trust between the states and their citizens, and the trust between the secret services and journalists," he asked.

John Lloyd, Senior Research Fellow at the Reuters Institute for the Study of Journalism spoke at the Business and Practice of Journalism seminar at Green Templeton College on Wednesday 9 March 2016.

Is the Irish government too cowed to do anything about the country's largest media tycoon enlarging his empire?

Denis O'Brien, reputedly Ireland's richest man, is the largest shareholder in the country's largest newspaper publisher, Independent News & Media (INM).

That company has now agreed a deal to add seven more newspaper titles to its stable by acquiring the Celtic Media Group \(CMG\)

They include the Anglo-Celt in Cavan, the Meath Chronicle and the Connaught Telegraph in Mayo. In all, it extends INM's footprint to five more counties.

INM is already the major player at national level. It publishes Ireland's two largest-selling titles, the Irish Independent and Sunday Independent, plus the Sunday World and the Dublin Herald. It also has 50% of the Irish Daily Star.

O'Brien's other media company, Communicorp, owns Ireland's two leading commercial radio talk stations: Newstalk and Today FM. In addition, it owns Dublin's 98FM, SPIN 1038, TXFM and SPIN South West.

And he has plenty of non-media holdings too, including a Dublin hospital, a prestigious Galway hotel and Siteserv, which provides services to the Irish state including the (controversial) installation of water meters. And he has many business interests elsewhere in the world.

In such circumstances, it is fair to ask whether the Irish government should simply nod through a further expansion of O'Brien's media assets. Diversity and plurality are surely threatened.

The National Union of Journalists, which called in April this year for a commission to investigate media ownership in Ireland, has rightly registered its alarm at INM's Celtic Media deal.

In its first statement on the matter, the NUJ said it was "gravely concerned" about the acquisition. In a follow-up statement, the union called for a full investigation into the impact on employment, competition and media diversity.

It urged Ireland's communications minister, Denis Naughten, to use his powers in order to examine the deal, which is subject to approval by his department and by the competition commission.

As the NUJ pointed out, the announcement of the deal, for an undisclosed sum, coincided with a decision by INM to outsource editorial functions to the UK, with a loss of up to 27 permanent and contract jobs.

Celtic Media staff – numbering around 100 – will doubtless be concerned about the potential for future staff cutbacks at their papers too.

The publisher is owned and managed by a team that acquired the group in 2012 through a management buyout for a reported €5.5m. It is headed by a former Irish Independent business editor, Frank Mulrennan, and it is understood that he will rejoin INM.

Robert Pitt, INM's chief executive, said: "We are very pleased that Celtic Media Group's publishing titles are becoming part of INM's portfolio of regional and digital titles.

"There are clear synergies arising from this transaction, which fit well with INM's strategy to remain as a key player in the delivery of printed news content on a national and regional basis."

He has previously said consolidation was needed in the national print sector in order to secure the viability of newspapers that face falling print circulation and a challenging advertising environment.

But the question for Minister Naughten is whether it is appropriate for INM, already the largest newspaper publisher on the island of Ireland (it has the Belfast Telegraph in the north), to grow larger still.

Denis O'Brien: a complicated career and dubious ethics

by Village 0 Comments

Denis O'Brien is one of Ireland's leading entrepreneurs with investments in international telecoms, radio, media, property, aircraft leasing, golf and other leisure interests. He founded the Esat Telecom Group plc and built it throughout the 1990s until its sale to British Telecom plc for €2.4 billion. He became a Portuguese resident and avoided £55m in taxes otherwise due. He also founded Communicorp Group which he owns outright to manage a portfolio of media and broadcasting-related companies in Ireland and eight other European countries. These include 98FM, Newstalk, Today FM, Highland Radio, Spin 1038 and Spin South West. He has a €600m stake (around 22%) in INM which owns the Evening Herald, Irish Independent, Sunday Independent, Sunday World and the Irish Daily Star, as well as 14 regional titles, two free newspapers, and a magazine.

He founded Digicel in 2001 when the company launched a GSM cellular phone service in the Caribbean. Digicel has extended its operations to 32 markets with over 11 million subscribers in the Caribbean, Central America and Pacific regions. In the year to March 2011, revenues at Digicel were up 27% to $2.23bn. In 2010 O'Brien netted $693 million from the sale of his Digicel Pacific Limited (DPL) business to the Digicel group.

In 2005, O'Brien became Deputy Governor of the revered Bank of Ireland. Simultaneously, he moved his residence from Portugal to Malta, for tax avoidance reasons. He resigned from the position of Deputy Governor Bank of Ireland, and also as a member of the Bank's 'court', in 2006. O'Brien also resigned from the Norkom Group and from the UCD Smurfit School of Business. O'Brien is a member of the Bilderberg group.

O'Brien part-funded the wages of Irish soccer manager, Giovanni Trapattoni. He is Chairman of the Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year Judging Panel, having previously been a recipient of the award. In 2010, he was named Goodwill Ambassador for the city of Port-au-Prince in recognition of his efforts to rebuild Haiti and attract foreign direct investment. The Guardian recently ran a piece headlined "How an Irish telecoms tycoon became earthquake-devastated Haiti's only hope of salvation", which detailed how Port au Prince's iconic Iron Market will shortly reopen "all down to Denis O'Brien".

He is the Chairman and Co-Founder of Frontline, the International Foundation for the Protection of Human Rights Defenders which "works to ensure that the standards set out in the UN Declaration on Human Rights Defenders, adopted in 1998, are known, respected and adhered to worldwide".

In 2000, Denis O'Brien established The Iris O'Brien Foundation, named after his mother, to identify and assist projects in Ireland and internationally which aim to alleviate disadvantaged communities. The foundation has broad aims, including promoting human rights, helping people affected by disasters, helping people with a mental or physical handicap, advancing education and supporting the arts. The foundation has spent nearly €15.4m on charitable works.

O'Brien has links with Unicef, the Special Olympics, and Camara, which sends computers to developing countries. He has also funded multicultural awards and awards run by Social Entrepreneurs Ireland. He serves on the US Board of Concern Worldwide. He once donated £250,000 he had been awarded in libel damages to Amnesty International for which he sometimes hosts (not always uncontroversial) lunches. He was Chairman of the 2003 Special Olympics World Summer Games when the games were held in Ireland. In 2011, he provided money for the Presidential campaign of Mary Davis who had been CEO of the Special Olympics at that time.

He has an honorary doctorate from UCD and is a mate of former US President, Bill Clinton. Indeed, he flew him to the recent Dublin Castle beano in his jet, and later paid the tab for a late-nighter in the Unicorn restaurant with Clinton, the strangely ever-present Séamus Heaney and 22 others. If you mention your charitable cause to Denis O'Brien he is likely to give you his personal phone number. In short he is a dynamic and successful businessman and a hero to charities. Presumably on the back of this, he was a high-profile guest at events for Queen Elizabeth II, with whom he was oft-photographed earlier this year and at the two Irish Global Economic Forum conferences, whose invitees were suggested by the Department of Foreign Affairs (though this did not stop some protestations from Éamon Gilmore's Labour Party), held in the last year or so.

Last March, a judicial tribunal found that a former minister for communications, Michael Lowry, "secured the winning" of the 1995 mobile phone licence competition for Denis O'Brien's Esat Digifone. The tribunal also found that O'Brien made two payments to Lowry, in 1996 and 1999, totalling approximately £500,000, and supported a loan of Stg£420,000 given to Lowry in 1999. In his 2,348-page report, Mr Justice Michael Moriarty found that the payments from O'Brien were "demonstrably referable to the acts and conduct of Mr Lowry" during the licence process, acts which benefited Esat Digifone. In effect O'Brien was trading in influence or 'legal corruption'.

His former mate, Barry Maloney, absented himself from the recent Irish Global Economic Forum, writing to the Taoiseach and Tánaiste informing them that he could not attend the event because Mr O'Brien would be a participant, despite the criticisms of him made in the final report from the Moriarty Tribunal. Maloney had given evidence to the tribunal that in 1996 he had a discussion while jogging with O'Brien concerning payments that Maloney, as chief executive of Esat Digifone, was obliged to sanction. O'Brien remarked that he himself had to make two payments of £100,000, one of which was to then Fine Gael minister, now Independent TD, Michael Lowry. This, he said, was a joke.

What was not a joke, however, was the termination of Sam Smyth's contract with O'Brien-owned Today FM. Smyth was the best-informed commentator on the Moriarty Tribunal and drew legal proceedings from both Lowry and O'Brien for his troubles.

The point, for these purposes, about Denis O'Brien is that, if you believe that not paying taxes and not paying money to Ministers to get favourable decisions on multi-billion-Euro deals, is unethical, then much of his money is not morally his. It is too easy to garner plaudits for philanthropy on the back of donations of cash, some of which is not ethically yours to give. This country has been brought to its knees by a treasonous golden business circle of which O'Brien is a member. But try telling that to the people who send out invitations on behalf of Enda Kenny, the Taoiseach.

Communications entrepreneur Denis O'Brien (59) first made his fortune by building up telecoms firm Esat in the late 1990s before selling it to BT, netting about €317m in cash.

Now the richest individual born in Ireland, his biggest asset is telecoms company Digicel which found success by bringing low-price mobile phone services to the emerging markets. It operates in 31 countries in the Caribbean and Asia Pacific.

In 2017, the company announced a restructuring plan to ready it for a shift towards data services, and, last summer, bonds in the company surged on renewed earnings growth, a signal that the plan will bear fruit.

The company, which pulled plans to float in 2015, has been a massive cash cow for the entrepreneur, delivering O'Brien close to $1.5bn in dividends in the last decade.

He has other interests in media, hospitality and services. He is personally investing up to $450m into a new venture Deep Blue Cable, a network of undersea fibre optic cables linking dozens of countries in the Caribbean.

O'Brien, who was born in Cork and raised in Dublin, has sold some assets in recent years, making impressive returns.

In 2015, he sold forecourt chain Topaz, receiving €258m in cash from a Canadian company, Couche Tard. He made an estimated €30m on the sale of the LXV building on the site of the former Canada House on St Stephen's Green.

Last year, he sold a site in Dublin's Donnybrook that has been earmarked for a €60m-plus development of 90 luxury apartments to Cairn Homes.

His Quinta do Lago resort in Portugal, which he bought for about €31m in 1998, is valued at over €220m and is being upgraded and expanded. He owns Actavo, formerly known as Siteserv.

O'Brien, who attended UCD, is a keen sportsman and he has paid the wages of the Republic of Ireland football team manager and is also a major, but low profile, supporter of Irish rugby. He has always been a strong supporter of the Special Olympics.

The businessman has significant philanthropic interests, and, last November, Forbes wrote about his humanitarian efforts in the Caribbean following the devastation caused by hurricanes Irma and Maria.

In terms of media assets, he owns Communicorp, which includes 98FM, Today FM and Newstalk, and is a shareholder in Independent News & Media, publisher of this newspaper and others. He owns the Beacon Hospital.

He owns a €65m Gulfstream G650ER, a superyacht Nero and a luxury ski chalet in the French Alps called Chalet Chocolat Chaud (Chalet Hot Chocolate).

The billionaire always has an eye for what's the next big thing. The purchase of the Beacon being an example, as an aging population increases the demand for quality healthcare providers.

British spies are keeping tabs on potential extremists in Ireland

BRITISH SPIES ARE keeping tabs on a number of persons of interest within Ireland.

The Secret Intelligence Service (MI6) agents have been operating around the country since shortly after the London Bridge attack in June, sources have confirmed to TheJournal.ie.

It is understood that they are operating in at least two cities. Most of them are in Dublin and are working out of a number of offices in the city centre.

Sources say they are “keeping an eye” on a handful of potential extremists. They say that Ireland’s position geographically makes it an area that needs to be monitored by foreign intelligence.

Their arrival in Ireland followed the revelation that one of the London Bridge attackers – Rachid Redouane – had lived in the Rathmines area of south Dublin last year with his English partner who he married while here. He was not being monitored by gardaí.

The Department of Justice did not comment on whether or not it is aware of foreign intelligence agencies operating in Ireland. However it confirmed that a small number of potential extremists are being monitored.

“While there is a small number of persons here whose activities in support of violent extremism give cause for concern they are monitored closely by the authorities and any appropriate action is taken,” the department said in a statement.

The department added that gardaí cooperate with international security agencies on intelligence-related matters “as circumstances dictate” in combatting crime and security threats. A spokesperson for An Garda Síochána echoed that sentiment, but did not confirm that gardaí were aware of MI6 agents in Ireland.

“An Garda Síochána liaise closely with our security and law enforcement partners throughout Europe to share and assess any relevant intelligence and its potential impact on this jurisdiction,” the spokesperson said.

The Special Detective Unit (SDU) – an elite arm of the gardaí – has been liaising with its British counterparts and offering its intelligence capabilities to assist the spies with their work here.

There has been fears within garda management that Ireland would be totally unprepared for an attack without the help of foreign agencies. While there are a number of trained officers who can use rifles and submachine firearms, well-placed sources have told TheJournal.ie that a lack of resources has meant the reliance on foreign agencies working in intelligence has increased.

Earlier this year, TheJournal.ie revealed that members of the SDU had been carrying out a number of surveillance operations on over 20 people they believe to be a potential threat to Ireland.

It has now emerged that elements within MI6 had helped gardaí identify those specific surveillance targets. Days after reporting the operation, a number of terror suspects were arrested.

The British Foreign and Commonwealth Office, which oversees MI6, said that it could not comment on operational matters.

CIA stayed silent on allegations it was involved in IRA gunrunning

The CIA stayed silent on explosive allegations it was involved in gunrunning to the IRA at the height of the Troubles, declassified intelligence files reveal.

The concerns were raised in a letter to the director of the Central Intelligence Agency from a congressman who warned it to "speak out vehemently" or risk other criminal and terrorist organisations "finding cover under the CIA umbrella".

It followed the November 1982 trial of five self-confessed IRA gun smugglers - including Michael Flannery, the 80-year-old founder of Noraid - found not guilty of transporting an arsenal of weapons and ammunition into Northern Ireland.

The five claimed they bought the arms from an arms dealer who was an undercover CIA agent.

The CIA, with a licence to export weapons, had aided their operation in order to monitor the flow of arms to Ireland and prevent the IRA from turning to the Soviet Union for arms, the defence claimed.

It was a defence the jury found credible - with a female juror telling press they "firmly believed" the operation could not have continued without government sanction.

The letter from Benjamin A Gilman to William J Casey, director of the CIA, dated November 1982, was contained along with press reports of the trial in a cache of some 13 million pages of documents declassified by the CIA and released on its website.

The move came after lengthy efforts from freedom of information campaigners and a lawsuit against the CIA which culminated in the agency finally releasing the archive which had previously only been accessible at the National Archives in Maryland.

Ireland features in some 3,000 dispatches, reports or newspaper cuttings - ranging from the intriguing to the downright bizarre.

A secret report on Ireland from April 1949 - amid the paranoia of Cold War politics - gave details on political parties, the power of the Roman Catholic church and the negligible influence of communists - with one "Dublin bookseller" considered the only communist of note in the entire country.

The CIA seemed to take a blasé, almost amused approach to Ireland's neutrality and considered us to have a crucial role to play in its own Cold War defences.

"Denial of Ireland to an enemy is an inescapable principle of United States security," it said.

Irish neutrality would "probably be tolerable" but "it could become necessary to utilise Ireland", it warned, before cosily concluding that because Ireland was already ideologically aligned with the West and "strongly Catholic and anti-Communist" would "probably not remain neutral in an East-West war".

The same report detailed Irish political parties, finding little difference between Fianna Fáil and Fine Gael, apart from "personal animosities", but found Fine Gael to be favoured by "the wealthy and conservative elements and those most friendly to the British tend to support Fine Gael".

A confidential report from December 1974 addresses the outlook for Dublin's presidency of the then European Community and notes "Ireland's insistence on staying out of military alliances, its long-standing Francophile biases, and its pragmatic determination to avoid contravening basic British interests".

It also rather sniffily details how "the country's most able diplomats were sent to the major European posts while J. Molloy, the non-political assistant secretary in charge of administration, was sent to Washington".

The CIA shrewdly thought of the practicalities - the difficulty of physical communication - with London being the only EC capital having frequent flights to Dublin.

"The Irish will have their hands full," it concluded.

Meanwhile, in a secret document dated March 6, 1975, the CIA turned its sights to the first threat of Brexit - the UK's referendum for the country's continued support of membership of the EC.

Negotiations between members at a meeting in Dublin "will undoubtedly be prolonged and is expected to have at least a show of cliff-hanging to enhance the chances for a favourable British vote in the pending referendum on EC membership later this year," the CIA surmised.

CIA thought the spoon-bender Uri Geller had some 'psychic powers'

CIA agents came across as slightly naive in files addressing the wonder of illusionist Uri Geller and his spoon-bending capabilities.

The CIA put Geller to the test in 1973, aided by scientists at the Stanford Research Institute.

Geller was locked in a shielded room and asked to recreate the same sketch as that drawn by an experimenter down the hall.

Geller failed several times but succeeded often enough to convince the CIA of his psychic powers.

"We consider that he has demonstrated his paranormal perceptual ability in a convincing and unambiguous manner," the CIA report concluded.

The agency eventually recognized Geller's tricks as the work of an illusionist.

Newspaper stories debunking Geller's claims are contained in the archive with a note saying "just in case you didn't happen to see this".

'UFO calls just dried up'

Flying saucers provided much food for thought for the CIA from the 1940s through to the early 1990s.

Most of the documents concern CIA cables reporting unsubstantiated UFO sightings in the foreign press.

A heavily redacted document said the US Forecast Centre had been "plagued" with calls about UFO sightings, which then stopped.

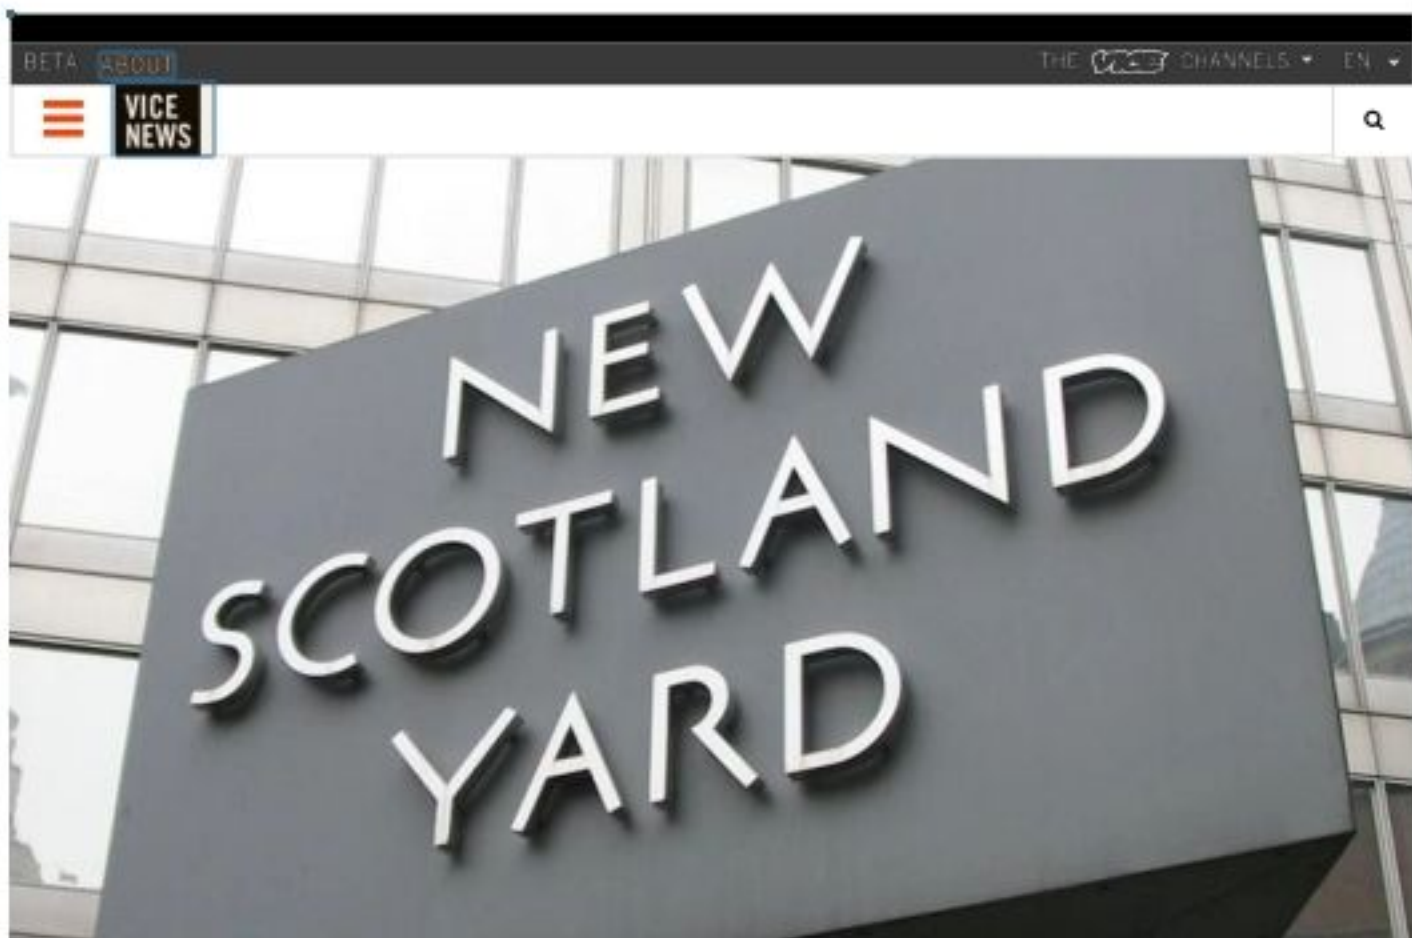

An unnamed individual had told the CIA that he "never gets these calls anymore and surmised that someone must have made a political decision that they were not to be sighted anymore".

Proper spy business is addressed in documents from the archive which give a German recipe for invisible ink.

Another paper tells how to open sealed letters with the application of many chemicals - and an iron.

UK Cops Stole a Dead Baby's Identity to Spy on Protest Groups

By Ben Bryant

January 7, 2015 | 10:55 pm

A dead newborn child's identity was stolen by undercover UK police officers working for an elite unit that infiltrated left-wing groups, London's Metropolitan Police Service has revealed.

The newborn was among a number of children whose identities were stolen by the Met's covert Special Demonstration Squad, with others aged one, four through 14, 16, and 17. Only the ages of the children have been released so that the identities of the officers are not compromised.

The identities were disclosed after repeated requests by Duncan Hames, a Liberal Democrat member of Parliament for Chippenham, who hoped that he would be able to console a constituent who feared that his 15-year-old daughter's identity might have been stolen. Because no 15-year-olds were identified, he was able to reassure the parent — but it took Hames nearly two years just to get police to release the ages of the children.

This woman was awarded \$685,737 after learning her boyfriend was an undercover cop sent to spy on her. Read more here.

The Met secretly authorized the theft of identities from dead children for three decades, issuing covert officers with fake passports and authorizing them to infiltrate protest groups — all without consulting or informing the children's parents. The practice was revealed in 2013 following an investigation by the Guardian, which established that generations of police officers had searched national birth and death records for the right matches.

Police have since been forced to make a general apology, but have maintained that they cannot tell the individual families whose children's identities they stole.

'I think it undermines the confidence that we can have in the sincerity of the apology that was given that there was no willingness to address the anxieties that parents of dead children have.'

Hames has been attempting to obtain the ages — and no other identifying information — since February 2013 under the UK's Freedom of Information Act, but the Met used "every means possible" to try and obstruct the release of the information, he told VICE News.

"Our experience over the last two years has been that they have taken every opportunity they could to resist sharing even the slightest bit of information about these activities," Hames said. "I think they probably just hoped that we would grow tired and go away. And that is an absolute travesty of how Freedom of Information is supposed to work."

"Instead of engaging with this totally natural desire for parents to know whether or not someone has been masquerading as their children, the police clammed up and weren't prepared to release even this modest amount of information," he noted.

UK police investigating five alleged pedophile rings involving "highly influential" politicians. Read more here.

The dispute ended only when the Met abandoned its appeal against a ruling last August by the Information Commissioner, the watchdog for freedom of information requests, to publish the figures. "They realized their obstruction was indefensible," Hames remarked.

Hames accused the police of "feet dragging" when he raised the issue with Home Secretary Theresa May in Parliament on Monday.

"The Metropolitan Police Service (MPS) believes it pertinent to mention that it has been recognized by the Police Service — and the MPS in particular — that the tactic of using the identity of a deceased child to form a legend for undercover police officers may be viewed by some as 'morally repugnant' and that it is no longer police practice," Nigel Shankster, the Met's senior information manager, wrote in its final response to Hames. "The MPS has, in the intervening period, reconsidered its position in challenging the decision of the ICO at Tribunal and has decided that disclosure will indeed be made in this case."

The practice of using the identities of dead children for undercover police officers is no longer ongoing but it was widespread, according to an internal investigation by Derbyshire Chief Constable Mick Creedon, who also examined claims that some officers were involved in inappropriate sexual relationships while undercover. Creedon found that out of 106 pseudonyms adopted by the squad between 1968 and 2008, 42 can be confirmed or treated as highly likely to have come from dead children.

Hames told VICE News that he felt the police were still not willing to address the anxieties of parents who had lost children.

"I think it undermines the confidence that we can have in the sincerity of the apology that was given that there was no willingness to address the anxieties that parents of dead children have," he said. "I've been contacted subsequently today as a result of the attention that has been given to this information, so I know that there are other parents out there who have already been through a terrible experience who are now worried, and who are searching the internet to see if there are any signs that someone is going by their dead child's identity."

The legislator has called for police to establish a procedure by which concerned parents can ensure their dead child's identity was not stolen.

"I really think that the Met police need to look again as to whether there is any process they can establish whereby they could reassure parents," he said. "If not in every case, at least in many cases."

This could be achieved via disclosure of geographical information or gender, Hames suggested, or a process whereby parents concerned that this may have happened to their child can go to the police and be reassured.

"I'm convinced there is more the police can do to put more parents' minds at rest," he said.

Why Appoint an RUC – PSNI – MI5 – MI6 Garda Commissioner in Ireland?

Posted by Fred Bassett

The people of Ireland talk in pubs and houses across the country every day of the week. The topic in the last few months is getting more momentum but also more importantly it is getting to be more like deep concern. The Irish people are not fools; the Brits for years had to learn this the hard way. Now we have a situation where it is not going too far to say ... Has Varadkar and the Clown that run the country right now put the same country into a state of a canoe trying to survive in dangerous waters (canoe) without a paddle.

Drew Harris (RUC) Deputy Chief Constable, now called the PSNI, is to be appointed Garda Commissioner in Ireland in September. The silence in Dail Eireann and the Seanad not alone is deafening but causes deep concern. To be more blunt, it is a major Cock-Up. If ever this country needed a change of leadership in an Garda Siochana it is now in the year 2018, after all the scandals. The biggest scandal now could be the appointment of Drew Harris and his baggage of RUC legacy and other hidden secrets yet to be revealed. Donegal Co. Council sometime ago passed a motion opposing the appointment of Drew Harris and believe me they had some evidence to support the same motion. During the Troubles, a Loyalist Gang of Thugs, murdered over 50 innocent Catholics in the Armagh and Tyrone regions of Ulster. These Loyalist Thugs were given cover by the RUC at night and as the old saying goes during those Black years, RUC by day, Balaclava and Loyalist murderers by night. This has been proven beyond any doubt through the dark history of the Troubles. I want to go a stage further: the IRA have their Dark history also that we cannot forget.

Drew Harris joined the RUC in 1983 and he moved up the ranks to Deputy Chief Constable of the PSNI in the last five years. His father was murdered by the IRA and this must have placed a condition in his attitude towards Republicans and the Irish in general. Out in the general arena at the moment, the talk and the concern in relation to Harris is ... His Allegiance is first and foremost with London (Official Secret's Act) and the Irish Government seem to have walked into this appointment "blindfolded". Harris has a history of secrecy and dark shadows around him. His links with MI5 and MI6 are well documented. Here is an extract from that Council Meeting and reading it you will see the concerns that people have; not just our ordinary citizens but people in public life.

Mac Giolla Easbuig said he plans to hold public meetings to speak against the appointment in Dublin, Monaghan and Donegal.

The councillor explained that his reservations are based on Justice Treacy's judgement last year and Harris having worked with MI5 as part of his previous role.

The council will now write to the Minister for Justice, Charlie Flanagan, to register its concerns about Harris's appointment.

Harris has 35 years experience in policing. He is a former RUC officer and received an OBE in 2010. Before being appointed deputy chief constable of the PSNI in 2014 he was head of the department that targeted dissident republican activity.

He was also the officer in charge of the investigation that saw Gerry Adams arrested in 2014. The former Sinn Féin president was arrested by detectives investigating the 1972 murder of Jean McConville. He was released without charge.

TheJournal.ie has contacted the Department of Justice about the motion but it has yet to receive a response. A spokesman for the gardaí said it does not comment on third party statements.

It is hard to comprehend why the Government appointed Harris but he must be feeling the heat also.

accusing Mr Harris of any wrongdoing but what I am doing is trying to understand why an Irish Government would employ a former Spook and RUC officer to hold the highest rank in the Republic of Ireland's Police Force, which means he will have access to the most sensitive records that protects the security of this small country. Speaking to one senior journalist today, she also raised many questions. Harris cannot be independent and this is a pure fact and his allegiance, not matter what contract he signs with Varadkar and the Clowns, will be with his cohorts in Belfast and London. September is slowly coming upon us; also the most senior Gardai in HQ are not happy with the appointment of Harris so before he even starts Ireland has many problems. We shall wait and see and gather our own information and write on this again over the coming weeks.

<http://www.irishnews.com/news/northernirelandnews/2018/08/31/news/men-held-on-suspicion-of-stealing-loughinisland-documents-from-police-ombudsman-s-office-1421458/?param=ds441rif44T>

Trevor Birney and Barry McCaffrey yesterday morning had their offices raided and they were both arrested by the PSNI, Northern of Ireland, run by the British Establishment. They had just completed a documentary with Alex Gibney some time back called "No Stone Unturned" into the shooting dead of 6 innocent Catholics in Loughinisland. The dogs in the street know on that night that 6 innocent people were shot in cold blood by a Loyalist gang which had the clinical backup of the British "shadowy" Forces. Collusion between Loyalists, UVF, RUC and British Intelligence all worked with efficiency in the night in question. Why arrest the 2 journalists now? Why is there now this threat against Free Speech and the people knowing the Truth? Something is rotten to the core here. Drew Harris would have been involved in this investigation all those years ago of the slaughter of these 6 innocent Catholics.

The same Drew Harris, at Midnight, on Monday night coming, will take off his RUC uniform and be installed as Garda Commissioner of the Republic of Ireland. Maybe people in the Republic do not have the balls to say this – Worry and Worry a lot. Charlie Flanagan came out today and stated that Drew Harris was a complete Irish man. Why would Flanagan say this? Does Harris have a personal identity crisis? and the same goes for Flanagan? When police in any country arrest journalists, they are technically attacking the core of the democratic right (4th pillar) of Free Speech and allowing the Truth to be told to the people they represent. This is a chilling development even for the RUC and the British who are behind these arrests. The Republic now should be very aware that Drew Harris, it is rumoured, is also coming down with a number of his cronies who will literally take over Garda HQ.

Gardai in the Republic have been making handy cash for years by giving certain journalists information about various crimes and sometimes this is very sensitive information to the same journalists, who we all know very well. Peter Pan is one and Debbie is the other and I tonight can clearly state that they should worry when Drew Harris takes office at midnight on Monday September 4th. I personally back the National Union of Journalists and like many others see these arrests as a most serious threat to democracy but there are a small number of journalists down here who play both sides of the coin and this is unacceptable to democracy also. One journalist in particular is called Detective Inspector – it may be a joke among their own, but Peter Pan is a threat to the people because he covers up what rogue Gardai have been engaged in for years.

Drew Harris we know will be Commissioner Drew Harris when he attends work on Tuesday 5th September 2018. We have a right to know what is his position as he is bound by the Official Secrets Act in the UK. I ask the question tonight, it has been asked over and over again, over the years, about the murder of the innocent Sinn Fein man, Eddie Fullerton, and the collusion between British agents and Loyalists gangs who were free to come across the border into the Republic and receive a safe passage back to their holes of safety in the North of Ireland. It is embarrassing to say that our Government of clowns down here, especially Flanagan in Justice, never queried the role Drew Harris played in the investigation in the murder of Eddie Fullerton. Harris has baggage and he is taking down that same baggage with him to Dublin on Monday night. Winter is coming and dark clouds are gathering not just over the skies of this Republic.

Charlie the Clown Flanagan came out over the weekend with another outlandish statement which contained gross insults to Russia, the Russian Ambassador in Ireland and not forgetting North Korea.

ask why would Flanagan, the Clown, make a statement like this which is on today's Fine Gael (sorry I meant) the Independent. Flanagan has again put his two feet in his own mouth. Why would you insult the Russian Ambassador to Ireland? I was reading on tweet this morning where a Russian student studying at UCD was horrified at Flanagan's statement in relation to his country, Russia. He went on to say that Russia had held a fabulous World Cup; that Russia had no ugly rioting or for that matter anti-social behaviour. He then went on to say that the Russian Police Force behaviour was impeccable. He further stated that the corruption in Ireland, among some politicians and the Gardai, would make the KGB look like choir boys. This student made a very valid point ie Why did Flanagan point out his country and Police Force? I again re-iterate Why?

Drew Harris is completely the wrong man at the wrong time in the wrong place wearing the wrong uniform and changing Oaths of Allegiances. The Clown Flanagan stated there was no conflict of interest. Of course there is. Harris signed the UK Official Secrets Act with London; he also has strong connections with MI5 and MI6 ongoing. The people of Ireland have a right to ask the hard questions. Now, Harris is installed as Garda Commissioner at a very pruned gathering at a City Garda station last night, being sworn in by a Peace Commissioner. Harris will be driven around in a bullet proof car, especially made for his arrival, and hopefully quick departure. Of all the applicants that came forward for the position of Irish Police Commissioner, Walt Disney could not write up this script. The late father of Mr Harris, was murdered by the IRA in 1989 and reading former "Stamp Bomber", Shane O'Doherty, now turned British philosopher, I would like to ask him, why re-write all the wrong-doings of the IRA and make not one mention of the British atrocities during the Troubles? Shane, the Stamp, who now resides in Roscommon is the complete English Gent and maybe a little bit of education at Trinity College Dublin has gone to his head making him feel that his rightful place now is in the House of Lords. Well Shane, it is time you grew up and face facts. Nobody groomed you. You had a choice. You took the path at that time and you got your sentence like many more people who unlike you are not whingeing today. Given that you are now on a history tour, maybe you can tell us about Harris senior and his connection to the murder of those people of the Miami showband?

You cannot play two roles. Drew Harris is doing this right now wearing the uniform of An Garda Siochana and yet still has the connections that will continue with the agencies of the British Establishment. People in time will make up their own minds. Can you imagine today, Sgt Bog McBride from Belmullet, being installed as head of the PSNI in the North of Ireland? No you cannot and the reason is quite simple, the Brits would not trust a Garda (and possibly rightly so) from the Republic. Yet, the Clown Flanagan has installed a former RUC officer as Garda Commissioner with the responsibility of protecting any threat against the Irish Republic. This is scary territory and the

The appointment of a former RUC officer with a manic fixation on the IRA to the position of Garda Commissioner in the Republic of Ireland. We must now ask if Commissioner Harris has officially joined Fine Gael? "Their" goal is to keep Sinn Fein out of Government. My question is: Who does Commissioner Harris really answer to because we all know he has serious MI6 connections?

It seems the Garda Commissioner cannot say much about anything? But the Truth is he can. He had perfect timing to refer to certain Statements about the IRA Army Council and Sinn Fein especially after a Democratic Election 2020 in the Irish Republic.

Harris should not have made a Statement that he will not Clarify the Timing of his Statement in relation to Sinn Fein / IRA. Something does not add up here. What is the real Agenda? The answer is simple. It is to undermine Sinn Fein and the people who Voted in the 2020 Elections. Harris most probably got his intelligence from PSNI RUC MI5/6 sources. Shady and ominous are words that come to mind. Then again Harris Swore an Oath to the Queen and "his" country?

The IPCC is a British organisation,got a problem with the cops you make a complaint to them,In Fireland it's GSOC.The Irish God bless their souls live under an "order" want the evidence? it's in the can....they don't speak their own language.

The New World order had big chief Bush and when he died not so long ago he died listening to Irish music and of course Jack paid the ultimate price for his sins.

This write up ain't gonna contain dates and names it's for the ordinary mad hats and dudes out there,The UN and the CIA had their orders two,they used Pentagon money in the Irish system backed by some amazingly bad men that own banks and started a mass exodus...no no not black mass.The Boston tea party was overseen by a real cool dude that kills, you know the one OBI carnobeewambam the fly guy who flew his ship all over da're base.Why every one was watching the kids firework display the ship had been captured.The Irish system began filling with Pentagon green,the social welfare system became the poor man's tiger.

So as old Eire began decaying the carve up began,

One of the biggest security risk in world politrix in Fireland was GSOC in the eyes of people like Clinton and MFI over queer it looked like an unmanned nuclear reactor with everyone from former IRA members and PLO heads going in and out with wheel barrows, Tesco bags, Owdhalls the lot and coming out with pure uranium, forget Iran this was the Taj to end all.

Basically it had to be shut down one man shall be named an MI6 agent Simon O'Brien, GSOC was run by O'Brien he was the chairman, now get your thinking caps on how did a British police officer become the head of Irish police investigations against the Irish police?

Clinton used his bezzie mate Dennis O'Brien the richest and most powerful man in Ireland to promote Simon O'Brien, the proof simple enter LBC!!!! ask LBC if they were interviewing a police officer undercover live on air would they blow his cover? Then ask yourself this when Simon O'Brien went live on air to be asked about security issues...why the Irish radio station owned by Clinton's buddy Dennis O'Brien didn't ask him on air about being an undercover cop when part of the show was about undercover Irish police officers working in GSOC. The Irish interviewers went crazy on the guy screaming at him to give Ireland an answer as to what undercover Irish police officers were doing in his office and yet forgot to ask him the same question....

In order for Clinton and MFI to steal data from GSOC computers they needed a smoke screen, Verrimus security is a contractor for MI5 and Simon O'Brien's office got them the contract to steal the data....however it was the IPCC who helped O'Brien's office get Verrimus the contract. So we've got a British police officer working in Ireland bringing in the security services now that's all bit to cozy....it goes even further, Verrimus have former British soldiers working for them who came from the same Regiment apparently that killed an innocent Brazilian in the British tube system that the IPCC themselves had to investigate. So why didn't LBC and the arrest of the British media expose all this?

What happened was Dennis O'Brien's newspaper the Irish Independent exposed how data had been stolen from GSOC this caused the chief of police to resign, the minister of justice, and Simon O'Brien...a little later Enda Kenny and Gerry Adams went...who knows? Adams was connected with it the Irish press exposed that and Kenny, well if any one was he was.

As for LBC.....

Terrorists try to infiltrate UK's top labs

The security services have intercepted up to 100 suspects posing as postgraduate students who aim to acquire weapons material and expertise

Sun 2 Nov 2008 00.01 GMT

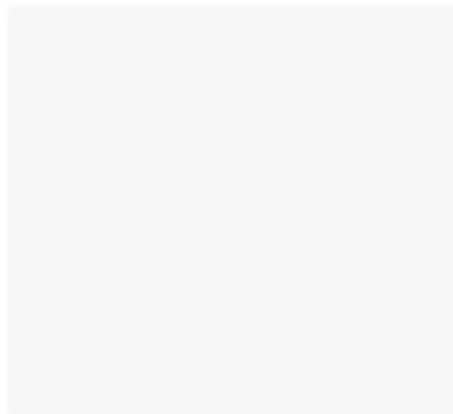

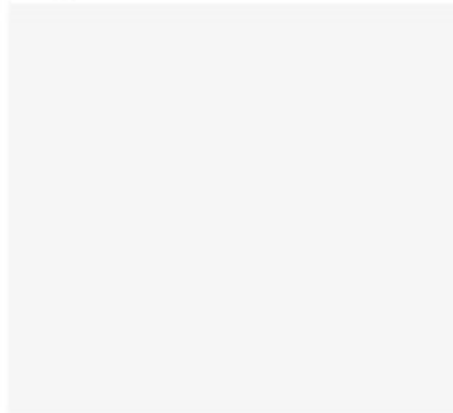

This article is 9 years old

Dozens of suspected terrorists have attempted to infiltrate Britain's top laboratories in order to develop weapons of mass destruction, such as biological and nuclear devices, during the past year.

The security services, MI5 and MI6, have intercepted up to 100 potential terrorists posing as postgraduate students who they believe tried accessing laboratories to gain the materials and expertise needed to create chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear weapons, the government has confirmed.

It follows warnings from MI5 to the Foreign and Commonwealth Office that al-Qaeda's terror network is actively seeking to recruit scientists and university students with access to laboratories containing deadly viruses and weapons technology.

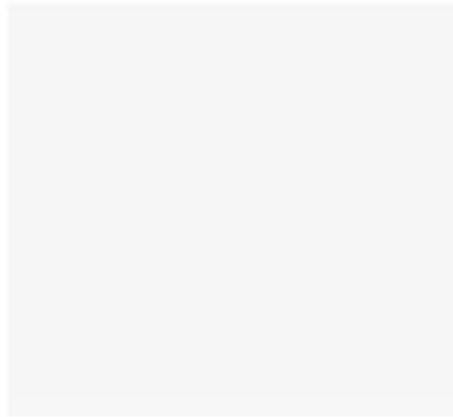

Extensive background checks from the security services, using a new vetting scheme, have led to the rejection of overseas students who were believed to be intent on developing weapons of mass destruction. A Foreign Office spokesman said the students had been denied clearance to study in the UK under powers 'to stop the spread of knowledge and skills that could be used in the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and their means of delivery'.

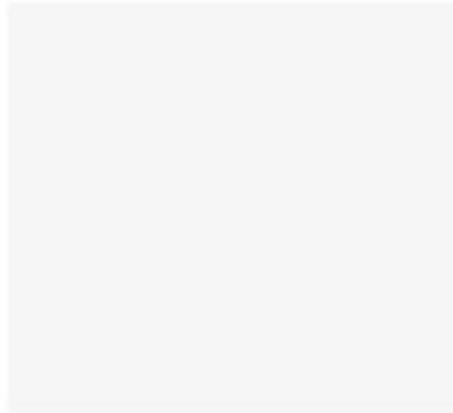

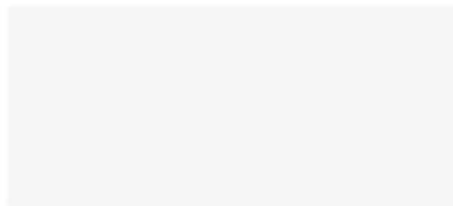

He added: 'There is empirical evidence of a problem with postgraduate students becoming weapons proliferators.' The overseas students, a number of whom are thought to be from 'countries of concern' such as Iran and Pakistan, were intercepted under the Academic Technology Approval Scheme, introduced by universities and the security services last November.

The findings raise questions over how many terrorist suspects may have already infiltrated the UK's laboratory network. Rihab Taha, dubbed 'Dr Germ', who worked on Saddam Hussein's biological weapons programme, studied for her PhD in plant toxins at East Anglia University's School of Biological Sciences in Norwich.

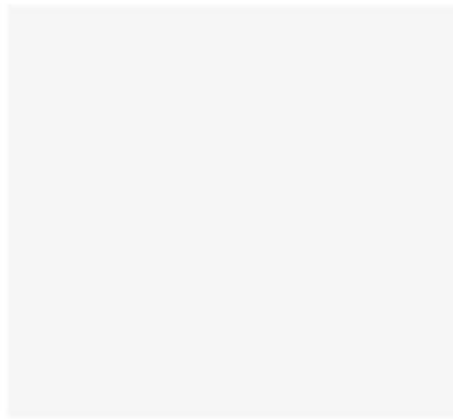

In addition, a number of well-educated Iraqi scientists - funded by Baghdad - infiltrated several British microbiology laboratories in the run-up to the Gulf war of 1990-91. Britain has about 800 laboratories in hospitals, universities and private firms where staff have access to lethal viruses such as Ebola, polio and avian flu or could acquire the technology and expertise to develop deadly weapons. Whitehall sources remain concerned about the number of countries intent on acquiring the materials and knowledge to develop a nuclear or biological warfare capability.

John Wood of the National Institute for Biological Standards and Control said: 'Any scientist would say it's important that we know who is working in our laboratories, and also why they are working there.'

The trial of two NHS doctors, Mohammad Asha, 27, a Jordanian national, and Bilal Abdulla, 29, from Iraq, who allegedly plotted widespread carnage through car bomb attacks in London's West End and Glasgow airport last year, has intensified scrutiny on the radicalisation of students. Named in the plot is 27-year-old Indian PhD student, Kafeel Ahmed, who drove a Jeep laden with gas canisters into Glasgow Airport's main terminal building but died several weeks later from severe burns. Ahmed studied for his PhD in the technology department of Anglia Ruskin University in Cambridge.

A spokesman for Universities UK, which represents vice-chancellors, said the security scheme had so far proved effective. He added: 'It is important to protect the UK from people who may wish to use technology and materials here inappropriately.'

Michael Stephens, head of security at the Medical Research Council, which runs some of Britain's most sensitive laboratories, said they took the issue of biosecurity 'extremely seriously'.

Concern that al-Qaeda is intent on developing a more sophisticated weapons capability moved the former director-general of MI5 Dame Eliza Manningham-Buller, to warn publicly that terror attacks in Britain could involve weapons of mass destruction. She said: 'We know that attempts to gather materials are there, we know that attempts to gather technologies are there.'

Extremist groups are known to have targeted students, offering to fund courses in return for using their newly acquired expertise. It is unclear if any of those denied 'clearance' to study in the UK during the past year were funded by grants from host governments such as Tehran.

A Foreign Office spokesman said 'efforts' on scrutiny of foreign postgraduate students would continue with only a few of the 20,000 applications rejected for security reasons. In the US, draft legislation advocates banning all non-Americans from laboratories which possess potentially dangerous bacteria and viruses, a measure the UK government believes is too draconian.

Professor George Griffin, chairman of the advisory committee on dangerous pathogens, has warned of the lack of a national standard required for people to work in high-security laboratories.

Thu 19 Jul 2018 16:16 BST

British police and intelligence agencies are using children as spies in covert operations against terrorists, gangs and drug dealers.

A committee of the House of Lords revealed the practice while raising the alarm over government plans to give law enforcement bodies more freedom over their use of children.

Some of the child spies are aged under 16, the committee says, adding that it was worried about proposals to extend from one month to four the period of time between each occasion that child spies go through a re-registration process.

“We are concerned that enabling a young person to participate in covert activity associated with serious crime for an extended period of time may increase the risks to their mental and physical welfare,” said the committee, chaired by Lord Trefgarne, a former Tory government minister.

The House of Lords secondary legislation scrutiny committee raised concerns over the orders in a report published last Thursday.

Home Office correspondence with the committee, published in the report, suggests children are not only used to furnish the police with information, but are also assigned to collect information on behalf of agencies.

The intention behind the change was to remove the obligation for the agency to apply to renew their authorisation “within a very short time” in circumstances including where “the juvenile has not been able to complete the tasking within the initial one-month period”.

The department added: “This pressure to obtain results could be unhelpful to the juvenile CHIS [covert human intelligence sources] and also to the law enforcement agency ... In some circumstances this requirement can also act as a deterrent with law enforcement avoiding the use of juvenile CHIS[.]”

Regarding safeguards, the Home Office proposes that authorisation be reviewed monthly by a senior official to ensure the welfare and safety of the child, and to ensure the deployment remains “necessary and proportionate”.

Ben Wallace, the Home Office minister who corresponded with the committee over the changes, suggested that juvenile CHISs may have “unique access to information”, particularly in cases of gangs.

“For example,” he wrote, “it can be difficult to gather evidence on gangs without penetrating their membership through the use of juvenile CHIS. As well as provide intelligence dividend in relation to a specific gang, juvenile CHIS can give investigators a broader insight into, for example, how young people in gangs are communicating with each other.”

Neil Woods, a former undercover police officer who investigated drugs gangs around the country, said he was aware of children being used as CHISs in the past, but that it was rare. He said the change seemed at first glance to be an attempt to deal with county lines drugs conspiracies.

“It sounds like infiltration to me, direction and infiltration,” he said. “It’s basically a kid that has been caught first time, and instead of rescuing them they are sending them back in.”

He warned that authorising such activities would increase the risks faced by all children involved in the drugs trade, who are already seen as expendable by ringleaders.

“It’s going to rack up the violence because as soon as gangsters think that there are more spies in their ranks then the classic arms race reaction is to increase the amount of terror, to make sure that those people are more scared of the gangsters than they are of the ramifications of the police.”

Jenny Jones, of the Green party, raised the issue at the Lords grand committee on Wednesday night, saying that she was shocked to learn that authorities could use children as spies at all.

Jones said she and colleagues were planning a motion of regret, which could not force the government into taking action on their concerns but would bring the issue to wider attention in the Lords, “and will make it harder for the government to wave it through”.

Rosalind Comyn, legal and policy officer at Rights Watch (UK), said: “Enlisting children as foot soldiers in the darkest corners of policing, and intentionally exposing them to terrorism, crime or sexual abuse rings - potentially without parental consent - runs directly counter to the government’s human rights obligations, which demand the interests of children be placed at the heart of decisions which affect them.

“It is also an affront to the government’s own safeguarding guidance, which requires our public authorities to help children escape crime, not become more deeply embedded in it.”

The Home Office said: “Juvenile covert human intelligence sources are used very rarely and only ever when it is necessary and proportionate and when there is no other less intrusive way to get the information needed to convict criminals or terrorist suspects.”

This included helping to prevent and prosecute gang violence, drug dealing and the running of drugs from cities to small towns - known as county lines - “all of which have a devastating impact on young people, vulnerable adults and local communities”.

It said the use of child spies was overseen by the investigatory powers commissioner, Lord Justice Fulford, adding: “Throughout any deployment and beyond, the welfare of the young person is the paramount consideration.”

Inside CID: The real reasons nobody wants to be a detective any more

Save

Despite TV portrayals such as Morse, Luther and Life on Mars, most forces are suffering a detective recruitment crisis

- Charles Hymas Home Affairs Editor
- Ashley Kirk Senior Data Journalist

To get into CID it used to be that you had to climb over dead bodies because it was the job everyone wanted," says detective Karen Stephens.

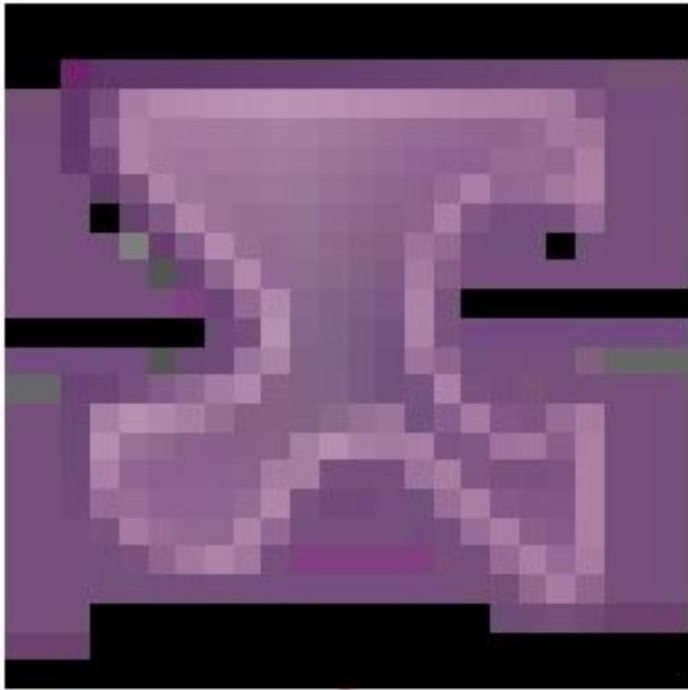

She joined CID when TV heroes such as Inspector Morse, DCI Gene Hunt and DCI Jane Tennison had fired the public imagination about detective work as the pinnacle of British policing.

DC Stephens, secretary of the Police Federation’s national detectives forum, remains passionate about the buzz of nailing a villain: “When you get that guilty verdict in court, it’s just the best feeling. You see the victims and they are overwhelmed.”

But now, the gears on Gene Hunt’s red Audi are in reverse. Where there was an oversupply, most forces are now in the midst of a detective recruitment crisis as they struggle to plug an estimated shortfall of 5,000. One in five posts are thought to be vacant.

Freedom of Information requests by the Telegraph to the 43 police forces in England and Wales show one in 10 posts have been axed since 2010 - and in some constabularies they are down by 40 per cent.

It is one of the reasons why detection rates have collapsed falling from 17 per cent of crimes being solved in 2015 to under eight per cent this year.

Forces have had to hand over investigations of “lower” crimes such as burglary or theft from cars to less experienced staff so their dwindling detective squads can focus on more complex murders, sex assaults and the host of new emerging threats such as online child abuse, slavery and trafficking.

So, how is it that the Rolls-Royce art of detection - whether exercising those ‘little grey cells’ or breaking down the doors to the cry of “We’re the Sweeney, Son” - has come to be in crisis? Why has the desire of beat officers to swap their uniform for the civvy suits of the detective dimmed?

It is not - and never has been - a job for those who want to know when they will clock off, says Dave Tucker, a trained detective and crime lead at the College of Policing.

"If you are on a shift as a PC, when you finish you can go home whereas if you are a detective, you are required to stay on duty to complete your investigation. It makes your private life more difficult to manage because you don't know when you are going to get home," he says.

But at the same time there has been an increase in the number of "vulnerable" victims that detectives have to support in crime investigations, from domestic abuse to child sexual abuse, modern slavery and historic sexual offences.

"There's less armed robberies and more focus on safeguarding and the safety of people. If you get decisions wrong, the consequences can be more significant," says Mr Tucker.

With more high-profile cases to handle, detectives are also in the public spotlight where mistakes are picked apart. Take the latest controversy over the Operation Midland inquiry into the VIP child sex ring - or the Ted Heath inquiry. Go further back and there is Baby P or Victoria Climbié.

'We are spinning so many plates that we can't do 100 per cent on every job,' warns Detective Karen Stephens Credit: Eddie Mulholland

As well as the court of public opinion, there are also serious case reviews, homicide reviews and the Independent Office for Police Conduct, which investigates complaints.

"There is a sense on the part of some investigators that the complaints procedure is unfair and loaded against cops," says Mr Tucker. "From the inside it can feel like the dice are loaded against you."

Commander Karen Baxter, head of economic crime at the City of London Police, led some of the biggest terror and murder investigations in Northern Ireland in a 26-year career in the province.

"It wasn't a popular job to be a senior investigating officer of homicide, or terrorism because lots of people saw it as too risky. They can be very public roles and you can be subject to inquiries, to massive media interest," she says.

"There are a lot of people who don't want the risk. They don't want the publicity. They don't want what can be difficult circumstances placed upon them and their family. So there's a lot of people who simply do not want that intrusion on their lives."

Ms Stephens, however, has no regrets. She feels her detective roles were "probably my most rewarding jobs."

She says: "I still get excited when teams come up and say: 'We have a job, we're going to kick someone's door in next Thursday at six o'clock, or we've arrested this person, seized this amount or we've put a bad person in front of the courts.'"

"I still love that but if you don't have that hunger, I think it's a hard job to maintain. I'm not sure there's the same hunger for all of those things in society. It's not trendy anymore. It used to be the trendy thing that you're a detective with all those TV shows."

British spies are keeping tabs on potential extremists in Ireland

BRITISH SPIES ARE keeping tabs on a number of persons of interest within Ireland.

The Secret Intelligence Service (MI6) agents have been operating around the country since shortly after the London Bridge attack in June, sources have confirmed to TheJournal.ie.

It is understood that they are operating in at least two cities. Most of them are in Dublin and are working out of a number of offices in the city centre.

Sources say they are “keeping an eye” on a handful of potential extremists. They say that Ireland’s position geographically makes it an area that needs to be monitored by foreign intelligence.

Their arrival in Ireland followed the revelation that one of the London Bridge attackers – Rachid Redouane – had lived in the Rathmines area of south Dublin last year with his English partner who he married while here. He was not being monitored by gardaí.

The Department of Justice did not comment on whether or not it is aware of foreign intelligence agencies operating in Ireland. However it confirmed that a small number of potential extremists are being monitored.

“While there is a small number of persons here whose activities in support of violent extremism give cause for concern they are monitored closely by the authorities and any appropriate action is taken,” the department said in a statement.

The department added that gardaí cooperate with international security agencies on intelligence-related matters “as circumstances dictate” in combatting crime and security threats. A spokesperson for An Garda Síochána echoed that sentiment, but did not confirm that gardaí were aware of MI6 agents in Ireland.

“An Garda Síochána liaise closely with our security and law enforcement partners throughout Europe to share and assess any relevant intelligence and its potential impact on this jurisdiction,” the spokesperson said.

The Special Detective Unit (SDU) – an elite arm of the gardaí – has been liaising with its British counterparts and offering its intelligence capabilities to assist the spies with their work here.

There has been fears within garda management that Ireland would be totally unprepared for an attack without the help of foreign agencies. While there are a number of trained officers who can use rifles and submachine firearms, well-placed sources have told TheJournal.ie that a lack of resources has meant the reliance on foreign agencies working in intelligence has increased.

Earlier this year, TheJournal.ie revealed that members of the SDU had been carrying out a number of surveillance operations on over 20 people they believe to be a potential threat to Ireland.

It has now emerged that elements within MI6 had helped gardaí identify those specific surveillance targets. Days after reporting the operation, a number of terror suspects were arrested.

The British Foreign and Commonwealth Office, which oversees MI6, said that it could not comment on operational matters.

CIA stayed silent on allegations it was involved in IRA gunrunning

The CIA stayed silent on explosive allegations it was involved in gunrunning to the IRA at the height of the Troubles, declassified intelligence files reveal.

The concerns were raised in a letter to the director of the Central Intelligence Agency from a congressman who warned it to "speak out vehemently" or risk other criminal and terrorist organisations "finding cover under the CIA umbrella".

It followed the November 1982 trial of five self-confessed IRA gun smugglers - including Michael Flannery, the 80-year-old founder of Noraid - found not guilty of transporting an arsenal of weapons and ammunition into Northern Ireland.

The five claimed they bought the arms from an arms dealer who was an undercover CIA agent.

The CIA, with a licence to export weapons, had aided their operation in order to monitor the flow of arms to Ireland and prevent the IRA from turning to the Soviet Union for arms, the defence claimed.

It was a defence the jury found credible - with a female juror telling press they "firmly believed" the operation could not have continued without government sanction.

The letter from Benjamin A Gilman to William J Casey, director of the CIA, dated November 1982, was contained along with press reports of the trial in a cache of some 13 million pages of documents declassified by the CIA and released on its website.

The move came after lengthy efforts from freedom of information campaigners and a lawsuit against the CIA which culminated in the agency finally releasing the archive which had previously only been accessible at the National Archives in Maryland.

Ireland features in some 3,000 dispatches, reports or newspaper cuttings - ranging from the intriguing to the downright bizarre.

A secret report on Ireland from April 1949 - amid the paranoia of Cold War politics - gave details on political parties, the power of the Roman Catholic church and the negligible influence of communists - with one "Dublin bookseller" considered the only communist of note in the entire country.

The CIA seemed to take a blasé, almost amused approach to Ireland's neutrality and considered us to have a crucial role to play in its own Cold War defences.

"Denial of Ireland to an enemy is an inescapable principle of United States security," it said.

Irish neutrality would "probably be tolerable" but "it could become necessary to utilise Ireland", it warned, before cosily concluding that because Ireland was already ideologically aligned with the West and "strongly Catholic and anti-Communist" would "probably not remain neutral in an East-West war".

The same report detailed Irish political parties, finding little difference between Fianna Fáil and Fine Gael, apart from "personal animosities", but found Fine Gael to be favoured by "the wealthy and conservative elements and those most friendly to the British tend to support Fine Gael".

A confidential report from December 1974 addresses the outlook for Dublin's presidency of the then European Community and notes "Ireland's insistence on staying out of military alliances, its long-standing Francophile biases, and its pragmatic determination to avoid contravening basic British interests".

It also rather sniffily details how "the country's most able diplomats were sent to the major European posts while J. Molloy, the non-political assistant secretary in charge of administration, was sent to Washington".

The CIA shrewdly thought of the practicalities - the difficulty of physical communication - with London being the only EC capital having frequent flights to Dublin.

"The Irish will have their hands full," it concluded.

Meanwhile, in a secret document dated March 6, 1975, the CIA turned its sights to the first threat of Brexit - the UK's referendum for the country's continued support of membership of the EC.

Negotiations between members at a meeting in Dublin "will undoubtedly be prolonged and is expected to have at least a show of cliff-hanging to enhance the chances for a favourable British vote in the pending referendum on EC membership later this year," the CIA surmised.

CIA thought the spoon-bender Uri Geller had some 'psychic powers'

CIA agents came across as slightly naive in files addressing the wonder of illusionist Uri Geller and his spoon-bending capabilities.

The CIA put Geller to the test in 1973, aided by scientists at the Stanford Research Institute.

Geller was locked in a shielded room and asked to recreate the same sketch as that drawn by an experimenter down the hall.

Geller failed several times but succeeded often enough to convince the CIA of his psychic powers.

"We consider that he has demonstrated his paranormal perceptual ability in a convincing and unambiguous manner," the CIA report concluded.

The agency eventually recognized Geller's tricks as the work of an illusionist.

Newspaper stories debunking Geller's claims are contained in the archive with a note saying "just in case you didn't happen to see this".

'UFO calls just dried up'

Flying saucers provided much food for thought for the CIA from the 1940s through to the early 1990s.

Most of the documents concern CIA cables reporting unsubstantiated UFO sightings in the foreign press.

A heavily redacted document said the US Forecast Centre had been "plagued" with calls about UFO sightings, which then stopped.

An unnamed individual had told the CIA that he "never gets these calls anymore and surmised that someone must have made a political decision that they were not to be sighted anymore".

Proper spy business is addressed in documents from the archive which give a German recipe for invisible ink.

Another paper tells how to open sealed letters with the application of many chemicals - and an iron.

Denis O'Brien: a complicated career and dubious ethics

by Village 0 Comments

Denis O'Brien is one of Ireland's leading entrepreneurs with investments in international telecoms, radio, media, property, aircraft leasing, golf and other leisure interests. He founded the Esat Telecom Group plc and built it throughout the 1990s until its sale to British Telecom plc for €2.4 billion. He became a Portuguese resident and avoided £55m in taxes otherwise due. He also founded Communicorp Group which he owns outright to manage a portfolio of media and broadcasting-related companies in Ireland and eight other European countries. These include 98FM, Newstalk, Today FM, Highland Radio, Spin 1038 and Spin South West. He has a €600m stake (around 22%) in INM which owns the Evening Herald, Irish Independent, Sunday Independent, Sunday World and the Irish Daily Star, as well as 14 regional titles, two free newspapers, and a magazine.

He founded Digicel in 2001 when the company launched a GSM cellular phone service in the Caribbean. Digicel has extended its operations to 32 markets with over 11 million subscribers in the Caribbean, Central America and Pacific regions. In the year to March 2011, revenues at Digicel were up 27% to $2.23bn. In 2010 O'Brien netted $693 million from the sale of his Digicel Pacific Limited (DPL) business to the Digicel group.

In 2005, O'Brien became Deputy Governor of the revered Bank of Ireland. Simultaneously, he moved his residence from Portugal to Malta, for tax avoidance reasons. He resigned from the position of Deputy Governor Bank of Ireland, and also as a member of the Bank's 'court', in 2006. O'Brien also resigned from the Norkom Group and from the UCD Smurfit School of Business. O'Brien is a member of the Bilderberg group.

O'Brien part-funded the wages of Irish soccer manager, Giovanni Trapattoni. He is Chairman of the Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year Judging Panel, having previously been a recipient of the award. In 2010, he was named Goodwill Ambassador for the city of Port-au-Prince in recognition of his efforts to rebuild Haiti and attract foreign direct investment. The Guardian recently ran a piece headlined "How an Irish telecoms tycoon became earthquake-devastated Haiti's only hope of salvation", which detailed how Port au Prince's iconic Iron Market will shortly reopen "all down to Denis O'Brien".

He is the Chairman and Co-Founder of Frontline, the International Foundation for the Protection of Human Rights Defenders which "works to ensure that the standards set out in the UN Declaration on Human Rights Defenders, adopted in 1998, are known, respected and adhered to worldwide".

In 2000, Denis O'Brien established The Iris O'Brien Foundation, named after his mother, to identify and assist projects in Ireland and internationally which aim to alleviate disadvantaged communities. The foundation has broad aims, including promoting human rights, helping people affected by disasters, helping people with a mental or physical handicap, advancing education and supporting the arts. The foundation has spent nearly €15.4m on charitable works.

O'Brien has links with Unicef, the Special Olympics, and Camara, which sends computers to developing countries. He has also funded multicultural awards and awards run by Social Entrepreneurs Ireland. He serves on the US Board of Concern Worldwide. He once donated £250,000 he had been awarded in libel damages to Amnesty International for which he sometimes hosts (not always uncontroversial) lunches. He was Chairman of the 2003 Special Olympics World Summer Games when the games were held in Ireland. In 2011, he provided money for the Presidential campaign of Mary Davis who had been CEO of the Special Olympics at that time.

He has an honorary doctorate from UCD and is a mate of former US President, Bill Clinton. Indeed, he flew him to the recent Dublin Castle beano in his jet, and later paid the tab for a late-nighter in the Unicorn restaurant with Clinton, the strangely ever-present Séamus Heaney and 22 others. If you mention your charitable cause to Denis O'Brien he is likely to give you his personal phone number. In short he is a dynamic and successful businessman and a hero to charities. Presumably on the back of this, he was a high-profile guest at events for Queen Elizabeth II, with whom he was oft-photographed earlier this year and at the two Irish Global Economic Forum conferences, whose invitees were suggested by the Department of Foreign Affairs (though this did not stop some protestations from Éamon Gilmore's Labour Party), held in the last year or so.

Last March, a judicial tribunal found that a former minister for communications, Michael Lowry, "secured the winning" of the 1995 mobile phone licence competition for Denis O'Brien's Esat Digifone. The tribunal also found that O'Brien made two payments to Lowry, in 1996 and 1999, totalling approximately £500,000, and supported a loan of Stg£420,000 given to Lowry in 1999. In his 2,348-page report, Mr Justice Michael Moriarty found that the payments from O'Brien were "demonstrably referable to the acts and conduct of Mr Lowry" during the licence process, acts which benefited Esat Digifone. In effect O'Brien was trading in influence or 'legal corruption'.

to the Taoiseach and Tánaiste informing them that he could not attend the event because Mr O'Brien would be a participant, despite the criticisms of him made in the final report from the Moriarty Tribunal. Maloney had given evidence to the tribunal that in 1996 he had a discussion while jogging with O'Brien concerning payments that Maloney, as chief executive of Esat Digifone, was obliged to sanction. O'Brien remarked that he himself had to make two payments of £100,000, one of which was to then Fine Gael minister, now Independent TD, Michael Lowry. This, he said, was a joke.

What was not a joke, however, was the termination of Sam Smyth's contract with O'Brien-owned Today FM. Smyth was the best-informed commentator on the Moriarty Tribunal and drew legal proceedings from both Lowry and O'Brien for his troubles.

The point, for these purposes, about Denis O'Brien is that, if you believe that not paying taxes and not paying money to Ministers to get favourable decisions on multi-billion-Euro deals, is unethical, then much of his money is not morally his. It is too easy to garner plaudits for philanthropy on the back of donations of cash, some of which is not ethically yours to give. This country has been brought to its knees by a treasonous golden business circle of which O'Brien is a member. But try telling that to the people who send out invitations on behalf of Enda Kenny, the Taoiseach.

Denis O'Brien rejects Sinn Féin report on media ownership, adding the 'future of traditional media is bleak'

Kevin Doyle

Businessman Denis O'Brien has rejected the findings of a Sinn Féin commissioned report into media ownership in Ireland while warning the "future of traditional media is bleak".

In a lengthy statement this evening, Mr O'Brien is heavily critical of the report and the coverage it was afforded in a variety of media outlets.

He cast doubt over the independent nature of the report given it was commissioned by Sinn Féin MEP Lynn Boylan on behalf of the European United Left/Nordic Green Left (GUE/NGL) Group of the European Parliament.

He adds that Gerry Adams' party "is very diligent and adept when it comes to pushing its agendas, overtly and covertly".

The report claimed Ireland has "one of the most concentrated media markets of any democracy" and says it is "imperative that urgent action is taken, and seen to be taken, to reassure journalists, media organisations and the wider public".

It cites RTÉ and Mr O'Brien, who is a shareholder in the publisher of this website Independent News & Media, as the two most important controlling entities in the Irish media landscape.

And it recommends a Commission of Inquiry into media ownership in Ireland.

However, the businessman said today that it fails to put any focus on the fact RTÉ is the largest media entity in Ireland, the only entity involved in TV, radio and print and is subsidized by license fees amounting to €178.9m.

He makes reference to Sinn Féin's position on the Apple tax judgement, noting that on the eve of the Budget, Sinn Féin TD Eoin O'Brien said: "Budget Day is all about choices. For decades, Fine Gael and Fianna Fail, have looked after the big guy – whether that be Denis O'Brien or Apple."

In response, Mr O'Brien says: "I am absolutely convinced that the contribution that Apple has made in this country is unquantifiable in financial and social terms.

"What about the thousands of young women and men who did not have to emigrate and who got a chance to work, live and raise families in Cork?

"I have said that Apple should not be punished for its tax arrangements in Ireland."

The statement describes Sinn Féin's stance on Apple as "both anti-enterprise and anti-Irish".

He also takes issue with a section of the report which lists him as the chairperson of Communicorp which owns Newstalk and Today FM.

"It maybe a rather inconvenient truth, but I am not. I suppose why let the facts interfere with the agenda and the messaging..." Mr O'Brien said., before acknowledging that he is the owner of Communicorp which "which like RTE, TV3, The Irish Examiner and The Sunday Business Post operates in a very challenging environment".

He goes to question whether members of the media are objective when talking and writing about the industry.

"The media industry in Ireland is in decline. This decline has been ongoing for many years and it threatens an industry that has served this country exceptionally well, providing high levels of employment and spawned a number of writers who have deservedly achieved international acclaim," he says.

The statement says that Independent News & Media was days from forced closure back 2011 and over €2bn in shareholder value had been lost. Shares had collapsed from €27.30 to 41 cents.

Mr O'Brien notes that he became a substantial minority shareholder in the company but is not on the board.

He adds: "I understand The Irish Times is currently considering various funding options.

"I believe that some media companies will not survive this decade without radical structuring including substantial funding."

In his statement, Mr O'Brien said RTE and other media outlets did not seek a comment from him in response to the report.

"But maybe the powers that be in Montrose felt that they had been given a 'free pass' in the report that they chose just to quote from it?"

Tonight, RTE Head of News Kevin Bakhurst claimed RTE had contacted Mr O'Brien's representatives. However, a representative for Mr O'Brien again claimed they were not contacted.

"I do not believe the Irish media is objective in relation to matters relating to itself. The prime reason is survival.

"Every media executive and journalist knows that the future of traditional media is bleak. It makes one entity undermining another easier to justify," he said.

Mr O'Brien concludes: "The report references the words 'chilling effect' and the law in the same sentence. I bow to Sinn Fein's superior knowledge on these topics.

"Maybe instead of commissioning reports Sinn Fein would commit just some of its vast resources and support an ailing industry - become a fully-fledged broadcaster and publisher and create some jobs for a change?"

The Moriarty Tribunal ran for 14 years and cost the taxpayer €200m. Seven months on from its report, nothing has changed, writes Elaine Byrne

DENIS O'BRIEN is not corrupt. The Moriarty Tribunal report did not make any finding of corruption in relation to the decision by Michael Lowry, as minister for transport, energy and communications, to award the second mobile phone licence to O'Brien's Esat Digifone in 1996.

Denis O'Brien can be described as a patriot. In an 18-month period between March 1995 and June 1996, O'Brien supported Irish democracy by attending 14 Fine Gael fundraising events, donating over IR£20,000 to the party which was then in government. On behalf of Esat, Telenor, the Norwegian telecommunication company, donated $50,000 to Fine Gael in 1996. The Taoiseach, John Bruton, later rejected this.

The Telenor donation happened to occur just two months after O'Brien's company, Esat, won the single largest procurement award in the history of the State. The other donations to Fine Gael happened to occur, according to the tribunal, "during the currency of the GSM competition and subsequent licensing negotiations".

The tribunal noted that as part of his "strategy of promoting himself and his companies with members of Fine Gael", O'Brien appointed the Fine Gael TD and former minister for communications, Jim Mitchell, as his political consultant.

It was Mitchell who organised O'Brien's first meeting with Lowry in January 1995, just 21 days after Lowry was appointed as minister. Mitchell happened to have more or less the same ministerial portfolio in the 1980s.

Within four years of this first encounter, O'Brien had, the tribunal tells us, donated almost IR£1m in "clandestine circumstances" to Lowry through loan support and payments. These came in three separate instalments; the first happened to occur less than seven weeks after the mobile phone licence had been granted. It included IR£147,000, Stg£300,000 and a "benefit equivalent to a payment", in the form of loan support, of Stg£420,000.

My apologies for returning to the tribunal. I know we all know this. But it's so easy to forget. It has been a long, long seven months since the tribunal reported.

So, better twice remembered than once forgotten, as a wise man once said.

These payments, the tribunal found, "were demonstrably referable to the acts and conduct of Mr Lowry in regard to the GSM process, that inured to the benefit of Mr O'Brien's winning consortium".

Lowry's "insidious and pervasive influence" was such that he had "irregular interactions with interested parties at its most sensitive stage. . . and thereby not only influenced, but delivered, the result" whereby Esat won the evaluation process.

What was the new Fine Gael-Labour government's response in the immediate aftermath of the tribunal report?

"This report will not be allowed to gather dust," the Taoiseach told the nation last March. Riding on the wave of a "democratic revolution", as he called it at the time, Enda Kenny was absolutely unequivocal in the Dail on his views of the tribunal report.

He vowed to "sever the links between politics and business once and for all and, in so doing, achieve three fundamental goals: stop the further pollution of our society; re-establish a moral code and order regarding public life; and, through that, restore public confidence in politics and government".

He said those words just three weeks after he was nominated Taoiseach. He was very new in the job. Have the views of the coalition Government changed since those heady days?

Denis O'Brien was a guest of the Government at the Global Ireland Forum last weekend. Just as well he was, considering that he flew Bill Clinton to the forum on his private jet. He was lucky enough to have an unobstructed view of the President's speech, seated as he was in the row directly behind the Government.

The speech, by the way, was in Dublin Castle, the same venue where the Moriarty Tribunal met for 14 years. Do you remember how outraged we all were at the estimated cost of the tribunal? At least €200m to the taxpayer?

Barry Maloney, a former chief executive at Esat, proved himself to be very inconvenient last weekend.

In a letter to the Taoiseach, Maloney complained of "double standards" and refused to attend the forum because of O'Brien presence. "With respect, I have to ask you Taoiseach" Maloney wrote, "What does it say about this Government's attitude to the unacceptable business practices exposed in that report?"

That's a really good question, Barry.

When Harry McGee of the Irish Times put that very question to a senior Government source, the reply was absolutely unequivocal. The Government "expressed confidence in Mr O'Brien, who was involved in many important Irish businesses and charities and had an important contribution to make to the forum".

The Minister for Arts, Heritage and Gaeltacht Affairs was equally unequivocal. When asked about Maloney's letter, Jimmy Deenihan was resolute.

"Denis O'Brien. . . that's his own business, he's contesting a lot of findings of the tribunal . . . it's not for us to judge him."

These recent statements are somewhat at odds with the Taoiseach's unequivocal Dail response all the way back in March.

"To recreate political virtue, rebuild public trust and restore our reputation, it is no longer sufficient to do what is correct," Kenny avowed. "We must do what is right."

These are meaningless words by a man in power who is afraid of offending the powerful. There have never been any significant consequences from the tribunals because it is easier to avoid than to acknowledge; to ignore than to confront. So we convince ourselves with a cancerous mantra, we must be pragmatic, we must not judge.

To forget. That is probably why only 38 copies of the Moriarty Tribunal have to date been sold.

Help me here because I'm at a complete and utter loss. I don't understand the logic of how a Government can have two unequivocal but utterly contradictory views on the same topic.

Does the Government fully accept the Moriarty Tribunal report? If the answer is yes, as the Taoiseach so robustly declared, how on earth can the Government now express confidence in Denis O'Brien?

What has changed in seven months?

Denis O'Brien is a powerful public figure within the business, sporting and philanthropy communities in Ireland. Forbes has listed him as Ireland's second-richest billionaire in 2011.

Evidently he is a generous man, as Fine Gael and Lowry -- if you believe the tribunal -- will testify and last weekend O'Brien announced that he would sponsor several hundred thousand for the Farmleigh Asian Fellowship.

This is to be welcomed, but I'd actually prefer if he paid his taxes in Ireland first.

When British Telecom bought Esat in 2000 for IRE2.3bn, O'Brien made nearly a quarter of a billion arising from the sale of an asset granted by the State in a decision made by Lowry in the last Fine Gael-Labour government. O'Brien's decision to become a tax exile in Portugal shortly after the sale is estimated to have saved him over IRE50m in capital gains tax.

O'Brien's commanding wealth is just one source of his power. He controls Ireland's only independent national radio stations, Newstalk and Today FM.

He is the largest shareholder in Independent News and Media (INM), a stable which includes this newspaper as well as the Irish Independent, the Evening Herald and the Irish Daily Star.

He also owns Dublin 98, Spin 1038, Spin South West, 14 provincial newspapers, two free newspapers and a magazine.

Senator John Whelan made a profound statement in the Seanad last July which did not receive the attention it deserved at the time.

The former regional journalist and editor with 30 years of experience noted that there was "irrefutable evidence that across a broad range of print and broadcast-media outlets attempts have been made to shape the coverage and interfere with the reporting of the recent Moriarty Tribunal".

What did he possibly mean?

The coverage by Newstalk of the Moriarty Tribunal report is curious. On the day that the tribunal's report was issued, Newstalk's flagship Lunchtime Show gave most of its airtime to a vocal critic of the tribunal.

The Breakfast Show on the following day consisted of an interview with Denis O'Brien, which was used to attack the tribunal. Both shows were one-sided and unbalanced.

Is this what the senator was referring to? To what extent, if any, does Denis O'Brien exert editorial interference in his vast media empire?

Ireland is the way it is because the public accepts it, tolerates it and makes excuses for it. And it goes on and on and on. And things just happen to happen over and over again.

What changed in those seven months, Taoiseach?

Denis O'Brien founded Communicorp in 1989 and serves on the company's Board of Directors. As a serial entrepreneur and businessman, Denis has helped Communicorp expand from its humble beginnings in Ireland to encompass dozens of media and broadcasting outlets across Europe.

In 1990, Denis co-founded Esat Telecom. The startup telecom company later won a national cellphone licence in open competition, helping Esat to become Ireland's second GSM service provider. After years of growth and improvement in Irish mobile communications, Denis and his business partners sold Esat Telecom to British Telecom Plc for $2.3bn.

After his success with Esat, Mr O'Brien established Digicel Group, a full-service communications and entertainment company operating in the Caribbean, Central America, and Asia Pacific. In addition to providing affordable access to mobile networks and other services, Digicel aims to help meet the needs of the people in its markets. Through Denis O'Brien's patronage, the Digicel Foundation has invested in more than 2,200 community improvement projects, including building schools and classrooms in Jamaica, Haiti, and Papua New Guinea. Denis and his wife Catherine also funded the reconstruction of Haiti's iconic Iron Market in Port-au-Prince after the devastating 2010 earthquake.

As a serial entrepreneur, Denis has acquired various other businesses over the course of his career. He owned a share in Independent News & Media (INM), until he sold his stake to Mediahuis in 2019. He has also held interests in companies in the healthcare, industrial services, solar energy, hospitality, resort, and real estate industries. As a result of his business acumen and success, Denis was named Ireland Entrepreneur of the Year in 1998 by Ernst & Young.

Denis maintains a firm belief in the tenets of philanthrocapitalism, driving him to look for opportunities to improve the conditions of the people and communities in and around the areas where his businesses operate. Through the Digicel Foundation and the Iris O'Brien Foundation, named in honour of his mother, Denis has provided more than US$66 million to support organisations and projects in Ireland, Africa, the Middle East and Southeast Asia.

In 2003, Denis was instrumental in bringing the Special Olympics World Summer Games to Dublin – the first time that the games had ever been held outside of the United States. The games brought approximately 7,000 athletes to Ireland from more than 150 nations around the world. Denis continues to serve as the Chairman of Council of Patrons for Special Olympics Ireland.

In addition to his philanthropic support, Denis serves on the boards of several charitable organisations, including Concern Worldwide US, which provides humanitarian aid around the world; Frontline Defenders, which supports human rights activism and which he co-founded; and the Haiti Action Network, of which he is the Chairman. For his dedication to benevolent causes, Denis has received a number of awards, including the Order of Jamaica in 2015, Haiti's National Order of Honour and Merit (Ordre National Honneur et Merite) in 2011, and an Annual Clinton Global Citizen Award in 2013.

Denis holds a BA degree from University College Dublin (UCD) and an MBA from Boston College. He has also received honorary Doctor of Laws degrees from both UCD (2006) and the University of the West Indies (2015). Mr O'Brien has provided support to institutions of higher education through funding for the O'Brien Centre of Science at UCD, an endowment of the Denis O'Brien Fellowship for Irish students at the Boston College Carroll School of Management, and contributions to Trinity College Dublin's business school. He has also provided support for a scholarship programme at Dublin City University.

"The shocking thing about that is all the former directors of the CIA that have come out to support her, from Clapper to Brennan to Morell to Robert Gates supporting her being elected, knew about this criminal syndicate. Comey was protecting it. Lynch was protecting it. Weissmann was protecting it. And that is the big why. What's she got on these people? Are they financial ties? They had to be aware of this, especially the counter-intelligence units. We know it was hacked into by foreign intelligence services because it was just hanging out there. Hillary Clinton was running a secret server outside the Department of State for the purposes of laundering money through the criminal Clinton Foundation."

“It’s not just an anvil, I think it is a mountain and the nexus of everything. This “Clinton Global Initiative” (CGI) is worldwide, and it’s been out there for a couple of decades. It has now intertwined former Directors of the CIA and FBI. George Soros is a part of it. It’s connected to all kinds of global financial institutions...

All these people protecting and defending Hillary Clinton and knowing about her criminal syndicate, this goes into the so-called 'Deep State' of our government, and it is connected, involved and intertwined in the global criminal crime syndicate called the Clinton Foundation. This is probably going to be the biggest scandal in U.S. history—once it's busted. I think they are quietly working on it now, and I think they have been for the last year. It is so huge the arrests and indictments could cause a Constitutional crisis with some people being removed. Maybe that's why they are moving slowly. It all comes back down to the Clinton Foundation and the criminal syndicate."

Is former President Obama involved with the Clinton crime syndicate? Shipp says,

"Yes, I am absolutely convinced of it. George Soros gave $30 million to Obama's campaign. Then he gave $27.1 million to Hillary Clinton's campaign. Both Obama and Clinton are tied directly into George Soros. Obama was put into office with millions of dollars that came out of nowhere.

Yes, he's part of this cabal. Yes, he's part of this global syndicate, and in my opinion, the subversion of our government."

In closing, Shipp contends, "There could be a Constitutional crisis in that we could see Congressmen, Senators, former Directors of the FBI and the CIA perp walked after they receive charges."

"Could you imagine if senior DOJ officials were arrested, some Congressmen and Senators were arrested and other government officials were arrested on charges and walked out of office? Denis O'Brien, Ireland's largest media owner, is being investigated by the country's Criminal Assets Bureau (CAB), the agency that identifies money gained through serious crime.

The Irish Times, citing "a source with knowledge of the matter", reported on Friday that the CAB will seek to interview O'Brien about the findings of the Moriarty tribunal.

In its report, published in March 2011, that tribunal concluded that a mobile phone licence granted to a consortium led by O'Brien had been secured on its behalf by the then communications minister, Michael Lowry, following payments made to him by O'Brien.

Both O'Brien and Lowry have strenuously denied the tribunal's findings, saying they are wrong, and have challenged their authenticity.

According to the Irish Times's front page story, the CAB has interviewed "a number of relevant witnesses" (but not including Lowry).

The agency has gathered information in the Isle of Man and Spain, where transactions mentioned in the tribunal's report took place.

CAB's remit involves investigating the suspected proceeds of criminal conduct. If such assets are identified, the agency can seize them.

Tribunal reports and evidence gathered by tribunals cannot be used as evidence in court so CAB, in investigating matters covered by the Moriarty tribunal, has to gather its own evidence.

Ireland's Sunday Business Post also carried a front page article by its political editor, Pat Leahy, in which he reported that the CAB was studying documents about the matter that had not been seen by the tribunal.

Regarded as Ireland's richest man, O'Brien's great wealth stemmed from his obtaining of the Esat Digifone mobile phone licence, which he subsequently sold off.

He is the largest shareholder in Independent News & Media (INM), the company that owns the Irish Independent, the Irish Daily Star, the Sunday World and Dublin's Evening Herald plus 14 regional titles and, north of the border, the Belfast Telegraph.

O'Brien's Communicorp group owns Ireland's two major national commercial radio stations, Newstalk and Today FM, plus three regional stations.

He also has widespread non-media assets in Ireland, including in water, gas, hotels and football. His global interests include mobile phones in the Caribbean and aircraft leasing. For tax reasons, he lives in Malta.

The Clinton Foundation: A Typical ‘CIA-Directed NGO’ That Is Completely Above The Law

Posted on August 8, 2016 by State of the Nation

Emailgate and Servergate Were Not Supposed To Be Exposed; However, Benghazi Gate Blew Them Wide Open

Hillary and Bill Will Always Operate Outside the Rule of Law Just Like Every CIA Black Operation

Attorney General Loretta Lynch and FBI Director James B. Comey were both given strict orders not to indict Clinton since the agenda of the Deep State always overrides the will of the American people

State of the Nation

The most notorious non-governmental organization (NGO) in the whole world in 2016 is undoubtedly the Clinton Foundation. And why not, Bill Clinton was recruited to establish it as a CIA-directed philanthropic entity that would infiltrate nations around the globe just like most large charitable NGOs do.

The stories of Coca Cola are now legendary as to how the soft drink corporation permitted the C.I.A. to penetrate every nook and cranny on planet Earth since everyone drank Coke, once upon a time. How easy it was then to gain access to the far reaches of the planet wherever there could be found a Coke machine? This is just one way the C.I.A. set up their initial spying and surveillance networks around the world during the early days and well before the World Wide Web.

China Investigating Coca-Cola Over Illegal Intelligence Gathering: Report

What is much less known is that every major philanthropic and charitable organization has been used by the CIA in the very same manner as the American transnational for-profit corporations. These 'benevolent' non-profits were far less suspicious because of the nature of their work; however, in view of the places and contexts in which they do function worldwide it ought to be easy to understand just how valuable an asset they can be for intelligence-gathering purposes. Hence, all the major players in the overseas charity business were systematically taken over beginning on the very day they were formed and set up shop abroad.

The Bush-Clinton Crime Family Pounced on Haiti Right After the Weaponized Earthquake; That's What Disaster Capitalism Does Best

Haitian Catastrophe Raises Spectre of Earthquake Weapon

There is no better example of this CIA stealth strategy than the Bush-Clinton-Bush Haiti Fund. Weren't these two political dynasties supposed to be operating on opposite sides of the political battleground? And, yet, they mysteriously laid aside their deep differences to help out Haiti in the wake of their apocalyptic island earthquake on January 12, 2010.

Here's the "About Us" copy taken right from the Clinton Bush Haiti Fund website:

The Clinton Bush Haiti Fund is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization founded after Haiti's January 12, 2010 earthquake, when President Barack Obama asked former Presidents Bill Clinton and George W. Bush to assist the Haitian people in building their own country back better. The Fund is using these donations to make grants, loans, and equity investments in organizations promoting job growth and smart, sustainable economic development.

Now if an objective and accurate audit were to be conducted on what this fund has really accomplished, it would probably be shut down for massive fraud and the menace to Haitian society that it is. The following investigative report lays bare just how deceptive and perfidious the Clinton-Bush Crime family has become, particularly where it concerns the exploitation of Haiti.

CLINTON FOUNDATION 'FRAUD BEGAN WITH EXPLOITING HAITI EARTHQUAKE'

In fact the truly black operation that the Bush-Clinton-Bush Haiti Fund has evolved into is a classic example of how these exploitative and treacherous government-run NGO's operate. First of all, because of their intimate but covert involvement with the U.S. intelligence agencies they are not really NGOs. Rather, they function as the long arm of the CIA, DIA and NSA acquiring privileged information about anything that is desired.

Clinton Foundation Pay to Play

THE CLINTON CRIME FAMILY

At least 181 companies, individuals, and foreign governments that have given to the Clinton Foundation also lobbied the State Department when Hillary Clinton was Secretary of State.

This intelligence is then passed onto those predatory American corporation and offshore companies that want to do business in any war zone or disaster area where the NGO has set up shop. Eventually those predatory business entities and shady commercial interests will have taken control of the whole area since they possess the knowhow, personnel, technology and other resources required to effectively address the dire needs of the indigenous peoples. Once they have acquired their trust, they are then free to control the local politics among many other weighty matters.

Comey was prevented from making a criminal referral by his true masters

It ought to be quite obvious now why FBI Director Comey did not make a criminal referral to the Department of Justice regarding both Emailgate and Servergate. It also ought to be obvious why these top law enforcement officers in the land can lie to Congress and the American people with great ease and conviction, persuasion and cavaliness.

Why is the Clinton Emailgate Scandal so HUGE?

Well, for one thing, their very lives depend upon it. If they leave the NWO reservation, the globalists will hunt them down and make an example of them like they did with JFK. Secondly, these public servants learn very early on that they do NOT work for or report to the American people. In fact they answer only to their NWO masters who selected them for their extremely important missions of betrayal and malfeasance. That is how this game works, as it has for many decades for key positions throughout the U.S. Federal Government.

Even though the FBI director knows that Hillary Clinton is stone-cold guilty of committing a number of serious crimes, he has no real power to enforce the law in this case. It was most likely the C.I.A. that told her to set up home-based server and private email domain in the first place. Only in this way could State, the Foundation, the C.I.A. the NSC, the U.S. Military, as well as other collaborating parties communicate about the various black operations and psyops which were necessary to trigger the fabricated Arab Spring.

All of the email communications had to marked top secret as they contained highly classified material concerning outright criminal activity and war-mongering. When bribery and blackmail, extortion and coercion are being used 24/7 by the State Department and colluding agencies to overthrow legitimate governments and assassinate democratically elected leaders, how can they ever be left vulnerable to FOIA requests? The prying eyes of investigative journalists the world over would be all over such illicit correspondence.

Moral of this story: How could Director Comey possibly refer criminal charges when his bosses report to bosses who report to those who control the State Department and everything Clinton was ordered to do?

The C.I.A. Cannot Control Everything

Nevertheless, the CIA & Company cannot control everything all the time. There are those patriots in the Congress who really do seek justice no matter what the directives of the Deep State. As a matter of fact, it was only because of Trey Gowdy's Special House Committee investigating Benghazi that Clinton's personal email and home server even came to light. That really was NOT supposed to happen. This is precisely what started Hillary's version of Watergate. The vast difference between her and Richard Nixon, however, is that she is the Deep State's golden girl whereas Nixon decided not to follow certain orders that were given to him.

Trey Gowdy: Clinton's Email Arrangement Is "A Smoking Gun"

Obviously, the CIA does exert enough control all around Washington that it was able to perform enough damage control to keep Clinton out of prison. Given the nature of her crimes — effectively running a parallel government to perpetrate war crimes and crimes against humanity — she should have been locked up for the rest of her natural life. The C.I.A. has been instrumental in preventing that from happening, but only for the time being.

Department of State + Clinton Foundation = Parallel Government

The preceding equation lies at the very heart of this entire scheme that was commandeered by the concerned Deep State entities overseeing the choreographed Arab Spring. All of those alphabet soup agencies used the Clintons to do their dirty work abroad because they both demonstrated an extraordinary aptitude and willingness to do whatever it took to completely rearrange the Middle East. Hence, the marriage was made early on between the Clinton State Department and the Clinton Foundation. In this way there was a rather seamless organizational network put into place whereby Hillary could conduct her gunboat diplomacy throughout the Mideast during the apocalyptic Arab Spring, all the while doing deals that every war profiteer and predatory capitalist would envy.

In this way was Obama himself shielded from much of the war-making and other criminal conduct. By keeping him out of the loop, the supposed Nobel Peace Prize winner could keep at a safe distance and always claim that he was getting rid of tyrants, even though none existed. Since many an American embassy is used as a C.I.A. nest of intrigue and sedition, this is where the implementation plans were directed from before, during and after each revolution and civil war, protest and riot that galvanized the Arab Spring into action.

Former Secretary of State Effectively and Illegally Operated A Parallel Government

This parallel government at State was not too unlike the US shadow government that really directs the affairs of the nation. Of course, that covert entity then reports to the World Shadow Government, so it is easy to understand how very low-level pawns like Hillary and Bill Clinton can get away with so much criminal activity. As long as they follow the orders of their superiors at the CIA and elsewhere within the Deep State apparatus, they can essentially do no wrong.

Conclusion

The upshot of this discussion is that the Clinton Foundation is just one of hundreds of NGOs that do the bidding of the Deep State around the world. Likewise, every State Department staff of every administration executes according to those orders issued by the shadow government of the USA. That government is made up of high-ranking members of the U.S. Armed Forces, the intelligence agencies and secret services, the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Branches, the Military-Industrial Complex, the Mainstream Media, and especially from the Wall Street investment and banking industries.

The Committee of 300 is perhaps the best representation of the composition of the World Shadow Government with its members coming from countries from around the globe. Together with the Council on Foreign Relations, the Trilateral Commission and the Bilderberg Group among other clandestine and shadowy organizations, policy is laid out quite clearly for the U.S. Department of State to comply with. Essentially, it's all just a big monopoly game being played 24/7 by all the superpowers within the world community of nations. Whoever has the biggest dog in the political fights basically wins the day. Likewise, those nations with the greatest military capability and economic prowess never lose the game.

The COMMITTEE OF 300 — Who are they?

Of course, there is an overarching plan being executed all the time which reflects the outworking of the New World Order agenda. Where that agenda concerns the Middle East this decade, the immediate goals were to sufficiently destroy national sovereignty and territorial integrity so that borders could be redrawn, nationalism would be greatly diminished, populations could be forced into mass exodus off their ancestral lands and religious conflicts would be inflamed to further disunify societies everywhere. Syria is a perfect example of how they accomplished all of these under the initial oversight of Secretary of State Hillary Clinton.

At the end of the day, it will be revealed that there are literally thousands of Hillary and Bill Clinton tag teams across the USA and the world taking orders from a supranational and unconstitutional body of secret leaders. These highly furtive decision-makers operate so far behind the scenes that they will never be known. Even the Obamas and Clintons don't know who they are. Nevertheless, these carefully selected political marionettes are bound to obey each and every order that comes down the pike since every American politician only serves in their respective capacities at the pleasure of those true puppet masters.

Welcome to the real workings of the U.S. Department of State and the Clinton Foundation! It should now be clear why such criminal organizations exist and are able to embark upon crime sprees on behalf of the U.S. Federal Government. It should also be more apparent how the national security state has taken over the entire government so as to ensure strict adherence to an agenda that is far removed from serving the interests of the U.S. citizenry.

Former president Bill Clinton wrote in a September 2012 Time Magazine cover story that Irish businessman Denis O'Brien's move to make cash transactions available for the poorest in the world via cell phones was the number one idea in changing the world.

The Time cover story featuring Clinton holding a globe is entitled "5 Ideas that are changing the World" and O'Brien's idea was rated tops.

It must have been a heady moment for the Dublin-born O'Brien \(57\) who studied business at Boston College.

As a businessman O'Brien is high up the Forbes list. His net worth was estimated at $6.7 billion thanks mostly to his stock in his cell phone company Digicel. But it is as a philanthropist that he has become increasingly well known.

Also in 2012, The New York Times published a glowing front page report on O'Brien's work in Haiti in which O'Brien was described as leading the international efforts to restore the economy there.

Forbes wrote, "O'Brien received the National Order of Honor and Merit from the Haitian president for his work helping Haiti recover from the 2010 earthquake. He funded the restoration of Haiti's century-old Iron Market with his own money, and has built 50 primary and secondary schools in the last 18 months."

In Irish American circles he is best known for his staunch support of the American Ireland Fund and also the Third World charity Concern, where he is a leading benefactor.

O'Brien is Ireland's leading philanthropist – but now also one of the most reviled figures there.

It is an extraordinary paradox that surrounds his business success – how he made his fortune and now how he is handling revelations about his banking and business affairs.

For a man described by Clinton as changing the world more than anyone else for the betterment of the poor recent negative press provides a dizzying contrast.

Over the past few weeks in Ireland there has been massive criticism of O'Brien after he went to court to prevent RTE, Ireland's national broadcaster, reporting on his banking relationship with IBRC, the successor bank to Anglo Irish Bank, which was at the center of the banking scandal that almost bankrupted Ireland.

An activist member of parliament, Catherine Murphy, claimed in the Dail (Parliament) that O'Brien had received massive loans up to $500 million at an interest rate of 1.5 percent.

O'Brien strongly denied that Murphy's claim was true as did Mike Aynsley the former CEO of IBRC who described that information as "grossly inaccurate."

The government has established a commission of inquiry to discover what the true facts of the matter are. Murphy is sticking to her guns that her statements are accurate.

O'Brien's move to muzzle RTE and later to seek to use the injunction to prevent Murphy's speech made in the Dail under privilege from being reported created a storm of controversy and criticism.

Because Ireland lacks a first amendment it is a very litigious society. Another billionaire, Dermot Desmond, recently threatened to sue after being photographed at a funeral when he did not want to be. But seeking to silence a speaker in the national parliament was seen as a move too far by many commentators.

The IBRC loan was the latest in a perfect storm of controversy for O'Brien, who also is the major shareholder in Independent Newspapers.

One of his many companies, Siteserv, received the contract to install the hated Irish Water meters, which have been the subject of numerous mass demonstrations as the government seeks to raise tax revenues by charging for water.

O'Brien invested in several Irish companies in recent times explaining that vulture capitalists were stripping Irish assets and he wanted Irish companies to retain Irish shareholders. One of those companies was Siteserv and there have also been allegations he paid under the odds for it.

He provides over 10,000 jobs in Ireland, but the recent controversies have damaged much of the goodwill he should have enjoyed.

In a piece defending his legal and business moves and his right to privacy on his bank accounts O'Brien wrote that a close friend warned him he would get "dog's abuse" if he purchased Irish businesses, something that has certainly come to pass.

O'Brien is nothing but resilient, however. He has been controversial for many years, ever since he purchased the second cell phone license during Ireland's wild west days when he was allegedly aided by the sitting government minister.

His international reputation, especially his connections to the Clintons, remain very strong however, and the domestic issues seem unlikely to damage that.

Fintan O'Toole: Why some papers are ignoring a report on Irish media

Updated: Tue, Oct 25, 2016, 06:15

Fintan O'Toole

Sinn Féin MEP Lynn Boylan: commissioned an analysis from four independent lawyers of the concentration of media ownership in Ireland. Photograph; Dara Mac Dónaill

Does it matter who owns a newspaper? Does ownership affect the way a particular paper covers a particular story? A small case study unfolded in our newspapers on Sunday and yesterday. As it happens, the story in question is actually about media ownership and the extreme lack of diversity in the control of Irish media.

At issue is a report formally launched in Dublin yesterday afternoon. It is a legal analysis of the concentration of media ownership in Ireland, commissioned by the Sinn Féin MEP Lynn Boylan and written by four independent lawyers. It is an important piece of work, not just because it highlights yet again the unusually high concentration of ownership in Irish media but because it persuasively argues that there are no barriers, either in the Constitution or in European Union law, to State action in support of a more diverse media. As is usual in these cases, advance copies of the report were given to the Sunday newspapers and to the daily papers for coverage in yesterday's editions. If ownership didn't matter, you'd expect each of these papers to run broadly similar factual accounts of the contents of the report.

The Sunday Business Post gave the report extensive coverage, with a prominent piece on page five by its business editor, Tom Lyons, and an opinion piece by Boylan on its Media and Marketing page. The Irish edition of the Sunday Times carried a front-page report headlined "O'Brien's 'chilling effect' on news" and continued it on to page two. And yesterday The Irish Times had a news piece by Pat Leahy on page four, which set out the report's main findings and quoted Boylan's comments to the paper. In each case, the papers were doing the basic work of journalism: telling readers about a significant piece of research in which there is an obvious public interest.

But what of the biggest-selling papers? Yesterday's Irish Independent carried no word of the media ownership report. The Sunday Independent did deal with it, but by way of comment rather than reportage. Liam Collins opened his Zozimus column on page 12 with a reference to "Yet another tiresome blog on the 'worrying lack of plurality' in the Irish media from that paragon of British liberalism, Roy Greenslade." Greenslade, who is professor of journalism at City University London has posted a piece on his Guardian blog drawing attention to the report.

- Fintan O'Toole: Heavily immigrant schools are actually producing tomorrow's Gaelgoirí
- Fintan O'Toole: Ireland's well-off live five years longer than its poor
- Fintan O'Toole: Brexit not the pure shining prize it once seemed

It is, of course, entirely legitimate for Collins to find Greenslade's writing on the subject tiresome – that's a matter of opinion. What's striking, though, is that the only account of the report that readers of the Independent titles received on Sunday and Monday was through an attack on another reporter whose views were discounted in advance because he is, of all despicable things, a paragon of British liberalism.

Those readers would have no idea what the report actually says. The substance of Collins's take on it, indeed, is that no one should bother reading it. He gives three reasons for this. One is that it is essentially foreign: as well as Greenslade's British liberalism, there is the fact that the report itself is "by four lawyers at two UK-based legal firms". (One of those firms is based in Belfast and three of the four lawyers are, so far as I know, Irish.)

The second is that it was commissioned by a member of Sinn Féin and thus ceases to be an independent legal analysis and becomes a "Sinn Féin-sponsored socialist report". (Socialism being, presumably, as automatically obnoxious as liberalism.)

The third is that the launch of the report was due to be held yesterday at the rather posh Cliff Townhouse in Dublin, which means that all those involved in writing it are "smoked salmon socialists", clichéd code for hypocrites.

This is all perfectly legitimate opinionising, if not especially impressive reasoning. The essential point, however, is that the sum total of the information presented on this event in the Independent papers on Sunday and Monday was to the effect that Shinnners, Brits, liberals and socialists (a range of targets for contempt to suit every taste) have produced a tiresome document that you, the reader, don't need to know about.

Now, there are two equally silly interpretations of this. One is that Denis O'Brien, who is the largest shareholder in Independent News and Media and chairman of Communicorp, which owns both of Ireland's national talk radio stations, issued a directive that the media diversity report was not to be covered directly. This is absurd. And equally absurd is the notion that it is mere coincidence that the papers partly owned by O'Brien treated this story in a manner markedly different from the rest of the broadsheet press.

The truth, almost certainly, lies somewhere in the very grey areas between these two absurdities. Sunday Independent writers know very well that media ownership matters: in the very same column, Liam Collins refers to the journalists on the Irish edition of the Sunday Times as "the colonial staff of Murdoch's Dublin outpost". Presumably, they do not imagine Rupert Murdoch on the phone barking orders to his employees in Dublin. They probably imagine a much more subtle and insidious process of self-censorship.

The all American Illuminati are using the services of another order known as Irelands "Old Guard" this organisation is so deeply rooted that it cant be bypassed. Corrupt Diplomats and corrupt politicians form the dna make up of some of the members of this organisation/order whom over the last decades have operated under a blanket of secrecy as powerfull as the illuminati itself frequently violating international laws behind closed doors,one very good example is British Intelligence service placing British doctors inside of the Midlands Prison in the Republic of Ireland. As countries such as America privately buy their way into the Republic of Ireland CIA expenditure becomes politically obvious aswell as an unavoidable residue which leaves other law enforcement agencies such as the FBI no alternative but to become clandestine and renegade in their operations within the Republic of Ireland. A book called Black Mass written by Dick Lehr, Gerard O Neil explains clearly how the FBI recruited criminals (the mob) into their own workings, the powers that be have exported the same ideas to the Republic of Ireland where a collective of entities can more or less be categorised as being Irelands equivoalent. Far right wing farmers (in control of land mass), Failed and illegal tax loss companies (more ground base knowledge than FBI), Former Political activists (Intelligence and logistics), Drug Cartels (state enforced violence) are being recruited to work for the FBI in areas that include surveillance of undesirables. The Feds provide their badges to protect the illegals read aboat in the newspapers and other operations, information on undesirables filters back to the FBI through organisations such as Pearse Street Garda Station (Irish Police). Bent cops Bent Solicitors are all protected by the FBI along with judges and politicians and even if illegals are used to get evidence that is excepted.

Undesirable categorisation can often be generated on computer systems by various persons in various countries for example British home Office workers following alleged British Tax evaders in the Republic of Ireland can get names forwarded to FBI agents. Their are certain politically sensitive areas within the republic of Ireland both on land and within buisness were this categorisation of person is becoming more and more predominant and getting black listed is becoming increasingly easier as the far right within Ireland become more desperate in keeping control over their ill gotten gains. President Trump himself has invested heavily into such areas before being voted in, he owns both land property and buisnesses including Golf courses in Ireland and so it would be obvious to the reader why certain undeasirables in their minds are not welcome. President John F Kennedy was of Irish decent and used many methods to gain political control, Bill Clinton on the other hand has many vested and private interests within the Republic of Ireland, his own organisation the Clinton Foundation (long suspected of having CIA financing) recruited Irelands richest man Dennis O Brien into their mists.

Dennis Obrien owns newspapers, radio programs, security companies, petrol companies, telecommunications companies. The book recently published called Clinton Cash written by Peter Schweizer explains how OBrien gave Clinton a quater of a million Euro sum of money to attend private parties in Ireland and give talks over dinner. A person cant join the Clinton foundation you are hand picked the organisation itself carries out work such as building hospitals and schools in politically sensitive countries yet between them both they cant build much needed hospitals and schools in Ireland. Exports are low in Ireland and offshore a rapidly new expanding sphere so espionage in Ireland is becoming a profitable buisness with countries such as Russia South America and China expanding operations into new territory that physically joins onto British land mass. Areas such as shopping centres, libraries train stations, bus stops are effectively areas that require surveillance for example the working class and middle class in Ireland are pathetically apathetic to exposing political antidotes on wifi systems within libraries however if you attempt to rock the boat using a wifi system in an Irish library its not a reccomendation. The old guard use intermediates as part of their own structure however these same intermediates are also used by the FBI that way information flows in different directions, intermediates can include, doctors, solicitors, farmers, land owners, Irish Police, librarians, alleged businessmen, drug cartels, health board officials, military, judges

This article has been produced because of the high level of Eastern European activity within Ireland. The Chinese and eastern Europeans are creating Irish history and quite often clash in political ideology with the old guard and the FBI. The modus operandi of the old guard has been over the last few decades a darkly kept secret hopefully this article sheds light on who really controls this country that sits on Britain's border.

Who said Espionage in the new Superstate was dead?Ive pondered upon the issue for some time however Im now convinced from what can be politically witnessed within the republic over the last five years there is now a Superstate between The Republic of Ireland and the UK.You see Great Britain of which your the Socialist party of folks lies as we know geographically next to the Republic of Ireland.Unlike other countries within Europe along the border of Ireland there are no real check points or police or army you do get them from time to time however generally speaking you walk over without hinderance.Its a bit like crossing from England to wales or Scotland,The political impact of this is in some ways is quite remarkable on one side the Euro and the other sterling.If you examine recent political developments within the republic of ireland over the last five years its freighting at what can be politically obseerved.The last five years for a start there is no significant industrilisation more than 80 percent of the country is farm and national park The workings of both the USA and British Governments can be seen at work in this country that relies on foreign investments and loans If you compare IRELANDS INDUSTRY WITH UK gGERMANY FRANCE ITALY IT DOESNT EXSIST IRELAND DOESNT EVEN HAVE ITS OWN CAR PRODUCTION.thJE BANKING SYTEM AND FINACEIAL SIDE OF THINGS HERE IS A SHAM RECENT COURT CASES AIB HAVE CONVICTED BANKERS OF FRAUD THE COUNTRY IS RIDDEN WITH DEBT AND HP NONE PAYMENTS THERE ARE NOT ENOUGH POLICE AND FIREARMS SHOULD BE BANNED BUT THEY ARENT FARMERS AND COUNTRY FOLK DRIVE AROUND ALL OVER THE COUNTRY WITH FIREARMS IN THERE VEHICLES.Kennys government is based on the blue shirts just google blue shirts ireland his party still flys the blue of the blue shirts there is more security between Dublin and Wicklow than some border areas and the big industry is the Real IRA known now as simply the IRA .To be honest folks theres too much evidence to show that the FBI and the queen of England are making Big Bucks out of terrorism,Range Rover vehicles worth countless thousands are scattereed all over the country and the house prices have rocketeed within the last five years 300/400 thousand for shoe boxes that wouldnt have fetched 20 thousand ten years ago alot of property in Ireland was given by the state over the years for spying and people in this country dont want you to know it there were schemes to buy land and property cheap in exchange of course for loyalty.

Both the legal minister and the Chief of police left their jobs recently after admitting to Espionage within the Government the tv companies and papers and radio station exposed this, where was I well i was in the Librarys writing articles for this site! being spied upon by the Librarians The real story is the fact that the librarians were taped by eastern intelligence and muslim extremist you can still here them gaasing in the illac centre library i had to sign disclaimers with the Irish Gardai after offering to give evidence of them leaking out.Washington kiss my lilly white grass

Fake Journalist Udo Ulfkotte Makes A Comeback As Putin Propagandist

I've written about the "journalist" Udo Ulfkotte over the years and was pleased that he seemed to have faded from view, disappearing into the pages of the 9/11 Truther Site of Kopp Verlag. Ulfkotte distinguished himself as a racist and anti-Islam hater, demanding that all Muslims be deported from Germany in order to create more Lebensraum for ethnic Germans. For years he has been publishing articles and books that distort the truth, or are outright lies. A few examples: Ulfkotte claimed that Muslims were waging a "fiscal jihad" against Germans because Turkish women were allegedly defecating in fields of strawberries that were exported to Germany. He warned Germans to stay away from the 2010 World Cup in South Africa, since black African "savages" were planning to rape and murder European visitors. Of course, President Obama is one those black African savages - or at least a "half-breed" - whom he hates. He lied that Obama was persecuting Christians in the United States, and had given orders to burn Bibles. I could go on and on. Actually, I cannot identify any examples where the "journalist" Udo Ulfkotte reported truthfully about anything.

ABOUT

Ulfkotte was pretty much ignored by legitimate news outlets. Or he was derisively dismissed as a conspiracy nut. But two events happened last year that revitalized his career in fake journalism: the unfolding events in the Ukraine and the rise of the "Pegida movement". The Ukraine crisis allowed Ulfkotte to latch onto the Russian propaganda outlets and accuse the Western media of being controlled by the CIA. Also the Lügenpresse! battle-cry of the Pegida protesters has given Ulfkotte a convenient cover to go after the journalists who scorned or ignored him in the past. Now he can lie about how the mainstream press is in the pocket of the CIA;

Dr. Ulfkotte says the corruption of journalists and major news outlets by the CIA is routine, accepted, and widespread in the western media, and that journalists who do not comply either cannot get jobs at any news organization, or find their careers cut short.

Ulfkotte frequently interviewed by the Putin-controlled Russian media outlets, such as Russia Insider: Our Exclusive Interview with German Editor Turned CIA Whistleblower. He is also a favorite guest on Putin's global propaganda channel RT:

If I get you correctly, the only thing that can come from Ulfkotte's work is his readers turning against US-friendly and anti-nationalist policies?

So why not let him continue on his mission :-)

You do exactly what Mr. Ulfkotte claims to be the common procedure used by journalists, or maybe better expressed, you do for what journalists are being used.

@ Lol and Thomas Breikner.
Yes ... and we are all still waiting for this source to prove any of its accusations against Ulfkotte. Proof - that is - that wasn't written by this very source in the first place.

Posted by: BackSeatHump | May 04, 2016 at 03:09 PM

This article is nothing more than a barrage of propaganda aimed at defaming Ulfkotte with allegations that are irrelevant to what he writes about how journalists are bought. No effort is made to discuss his book. Is there any evidence that refutes what he writes?

you sound like a desperate rat trapped by the truth... Truth hurts huh?

Posted by: Alex | July 12, 2016 at 05:10 PM

Truth? The charlatan Ulfkotte has never uttered one word that was truthful. Yet people of limited intelligence believe him and actually pay money to buy his books.

They would be better-off spending the money on crack cocaine.

Ulfkotte is right on about European journalists in the CIA pocket. It is obvious when they are preaching pro-American propaganda that puts their countries at risk. The best option is to fight to get your country out of NATO so that it might be spared destruction.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=CzyS85qfva8>

Additionally, my opinion is that whoever wrote this article is a liar. A pathetic liar... who doesn't support journalists admitting the truth.

If you believe the fake journalist Ulfkotte that the CIA dictates what is published in the US and German press then I have a shiny tinfoil hat for you.

GSOC AND FURTHER GOVERNMENT SECRECY

On Sunday 6/7/2014 Sunday times published an article by Conor Brady a former GSOC Commisioner,a very powerfull and informative piece of journalism, outlining what the new Garda Siochana (amendment) act 2014 will bring into power for the "New GSOC".

Unfortunately however when certain Breaches in security itself have been identified and require legal solutions hypothetical anaylsis and parameters surrounding evidence itself become meaningless,once a state of security becomes obtainable.Infact the Irish Independent announced on the front cover of its newspaper on June 12th this year "HUNT FOR MOLE WHO BREACHED SECURITY AT GARDA WATCHDOG" make no hesitation GSOC called in the lawyers with a view to a kill.

Whilst certain members of "think tanks" have designs and ideas that are catapulting forward at incomprehensible speeds regarding GSOC new look and future.This articlele intends to freeze the big picture and put into context what security means within real issues.

In policing and CIA work security breaches allow emmediate sequestration regardless of court proceedings.Simon o Brien chairman of GSOC has been exposed by wiki forces as a former British Police Officer,arguable all the ingriedents for further speculation infact many here in Ireland are calling for his resignation and for many obvious reasons.

Final point here when security breaches are legally established in Banks ,Government buildings, then the Security Industry always presumes assumption that if its happened already then its happened before.Gsoc and the Irish Government are of no consequence within the papameters of GSOCs breaches within security issues itself, because without arrest or convictions over alleged GSOC Breaches within law itself in our domain we now have the affirmative right to determine that other formats of data and intelligence have been removed without the publics knowledge or consent breaching human rights.Force majeure.
